propaganda Internet politics educational exchanges tourism and even popular film The International Politics of Communication examines this informational dimension of international politics investigating how information is generated conveyed through channels and directed specifically at audiences While citizens are often portrayed as faithfully loyal supporters and beneficiaries of the modern nation state a fiction supported by passports identification papers and other notarized credentials they are subject to the pulls of loyalty from transnational tribal affiliations mythological and historical narratives of ethnicity as well as the transcendental claims of religion and philosophy Increasingly social media also enchants non state individuals providing new virtual communities as the center of loyalties rather than national affiliations By reinterpreting taken for granted concepts in journalism media political economy nationalism development and propaganda as information politics this book prepares serious minded scholars citizens politicians and social activists everywhere to understand the power plays in international communication and use alternatives to begin transforming power relations
