Kleypas, James I. McDougall, 2012-01-01 The focus of research on the globalization of higher education has historically been on universities within the United States More recently the focus has shifted to the international scene yet there remain few published works to document this phenomenon The American Style University at Large Transplants Outposts and the Globalization of Higher Education edited by Kathryn L. Kleypas and James McDougall is an intervention into current discussions concerning the role of the contemporary American style university in a global context The editors approach the subject from their own experiences as professors at an American style university in the Middle East They pull together essays from an impressively diverse list of contributors which examine the various ways that American models of higher learning have become instituted around the world The authors then explore ways that these new configurations help to define the university as a force that organizes develops and controls methods of education knowledge power and culture

Technology and the Politics of Instruction Jan Nesper, 2012-09-10 In this study of computer mediated instruction CMI in a U S research university that is the site of nationally known innovations in this area Jan Nesper traces the varying material and organizational entanglements of a constantly reconfiguring network of people things categories and ideas that are sometimes loosely sometimes tightly entangled in forms of CMI He unfolds how the different forms and meanings of CMI policy and practice were constructed over time across departments and in relation to students academic trajectories Tying together a range of issues usually separated in discussions of instructional technology and examining often slighted topics such as the articulations of local and national practices this book questions the common vocabulary for making sense of CMI and contributes to educational change theory by showing how CMI has evolved both from the top down and the bottom up Technology and the Politics of Instruction is distinctive in its multi level approach and in the breadth of its conceptual frame Departing from the mainstream research on instructional technology to focus on mundane and widespread forms of CMI PowerPoint slides CD ROMs self paced labs and the like Nesper views these from multiple standpoints not just what they mean for professors but also for administrators and students The effect is to displace the typical emphasis in CMI research from cutting edge high resource artifacts and systems the importance of which is not questioned to the politics and organizational processes that shape the uses of such things This book is intended primarily for scholars and students in the fields of educational and more broadly organizational change the politics and sociology of education curriculum theory higher education and educational administration and will also interest instructional technologists and technology developers A Career Movies Jack Boozer,2010-01-01 Achieving the American Dream became inextricably linked with career business success after World War II as an increasingly consumerist America learned to define the dream through possessions and status Not surprisingly Hollywood films in the postwar years reflected the country s preoccupation with work and career success offering both dramatic and comedic visions of the career quest and its effects on personal fulfillment family relations women s roles and the creation or destruction of just and caring communities In this book Jack Boozer argues that the career business film achieved such variety and prominence in the years between 1945 and 2001 that it should be considered a legitimate film genre Analyzing numerous well known films from the entire period he defines the genre as one in which a protagonist strives for career success that often proves to be either elusive despite hard work or unfulfilling despite material rewards and status Boozer also explores several distinct subgenres of the career movie the corporate executive films of the 1950s the career struggles of single married and or parenting women the entrepreneurial film as it is also embodied in texts about immigrants and racial and ethnic minorities and business oriented femmes fatales the explosion of promotionism and the corporatization of employment and finally the blurring of work and private life in the brave new world of the televirtuality film
