Shaping Flexibility in Vocational Education and Training W.J. Nijhof, Anja Heikkinen, Loek F.M. Nieuwenhuis, 2005-12-28 Flexibility seems to be the core concept of economic and educational change in our time The promise of solutions to many problems at the individual institutional and national level evokes as much controversy as acclaim This might be related to the different perspectives of actors and researchers involved in problem solving in Vocational Education and Training VET where on the one hand solutions should be sought in key qualifications and transferability in changing teaching and learning processes while on the other political institutional organisational and professional conditions are seen as the key interventions to build a responsive workforce on the basis of a re engineered VET system Consequently flexibility in connection with vocational education and training and the labour market has several divergent connotations

Education, Training and the Future of Work I John Ahier, Geoff Esland, 2013-10-18 A central claim of this volume is that public policy in education and training can only be properly understood if it is seen in relation to prevailing economic and employment conditions It has become increasingly apparent that the neo liberal economic policies pursued by Western governments during the 1980s and 1990s have led to a growing world wide work crisis Unemployment levels particularly in Europe remain persistently high and for those in employment job insecurity and long working hours have become the norm The response of UK governments has been to promote flexibility in employment practices while proclaiming the importance of improving skill levels through education and training This volume challenges the adequacy of such an approach and asks whether reliance on education and training reforms without additional political intervention in economic processes is capable of reversing current trends Issues covered in this reader include the impact of globalization on employment trends neo liberal and neo Keynesian approaches to employment policy political reforms in education and training institutions the impact of flexibilization on private life and the family The two volumes in this series are readers for the Open University course Education Training and the Future of Work E837 a module of the MA in Education The companion volume is Education Training and the Future of Work II Developments in Vocational Education and Training John Ahier is Lecturer in Education at the Open University Geoff Esland is Director of the Centre for Sociology and Social Research at the Open University and Course team Chair of E837 Triumphs and Tears Phil Hodgkinson, Heather Hodgkinson, Andrew C.
