Challenge Of Sustainable Forests:

The Challenge of Sustainable Forest Management Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,1993-01-01 The Challenge of Sustainable Forests Fadzillah M. Cooke,1999 The Challenge of Sustainable Forests is an innovative piece of work that provides a range of insights into forest resource use in Malaysia and the power relations behind the working of forest policy at the local level It explores the rich debate on development and environment to cast new light on the social and ecological dimension of forest degradation Taking politics seriously the book draws on the micropolitics of scientific knowledge production in particular sustained yield technology to examine the institutionalization of scientific forestry in forest resource management With insights derived from fieldwork in Pahang and Sarawak the book argues that sustainable forest management as a movement and a scientific discipline is in danger of speaking a techno bureaucratic language similar to sustained yield unless fundamental questions about livelihood protection and access rights to environmental and forest resources are sufficiently addressed This process is not helped by the greater importance accorded biological and economic imperatives in conservation discourse and practice By way of exploring this issue The Challenge of Sustainable Forests takes a detour to the Philippines where issues of livelihood access rights and social justice have affected management practices more seriously than in Malaysia For sale in Asia Australia and New Zealand by NUS Press Singapore Sustainable Forestry Challenges for Developing Countries Matti Palo,G. Mery,2012-12-06 This book is an outcome of a research project on Sustainable Forestry and the Environment in Developing Countries The project has been run by Metsantutki muslaitos METLA the Finnish Forest Research Institute since 1987 and will be completed this year A major output by this project has so far been a report in three volumes on Deforestation or development in the Third World The purpose of our multidisciplinary research project is to generate new knowl edge about the causes of deforestation its scenarios and consequences More knowledge is needed for more effective efficient and equitable public policy both at the national and intemationallevels in supporting sustainable forestry in develop ing countries Our project has specifically focused on 90 tropical countries as one group and on three subgroups by continents as well as the three case study countries the Philippines Ethiopia and Chile The University of Joensuu has been our active partner in the Philippine study We have complemented the three cases by the analyzes of Brazil and Indonesia the two largest tropical forest owning countries Some other interesting country studies were annexed to complement our book both by geography and expertise The United Nations University World Institute for Development Economics Research UNUIWIDER in Helsinki Finland has also been partly engaged Most of the results from its project on The Forest in the South and North in Context of Global Warming will however be published later in a separate book Sustainable Forestry: Emerging Challenges A.K. Kandya,2007-05-01 Forests are critical for sustainable development environment and also for livelihood They provide a wealth of goods and services that are essential for people s lives cash income and green economy Maintaining and enhancing our planet s forest resources is essential if we are to succeed in the global efforts to alleviate poverty address water scarcity and biodiversity loss and mitigate climate change Culturally and historically the intrinsic value of forests and the spiritual and sacred use of forests have great importance to local communities and our cultural identity This book on Sustainable Forestry Emerging Challenges written by experienced academicians scientists and other researchers shows the present ongoing initiatives in the country to address sustainable forestry and its management An estimated 230 million people in India rely on forests for their livelihoods to some degree including some 60 million indigenous people and other forest dwelling communities While more than two billion people the developing world s population use fodder biomass fuels mainly firewood to cook food and large number of non timber forest products for their day to day needs

The Wealth of Forests Chris Tollefson,1998 These are turbulent unpredictable yet opportune times for Canadian forestry Never before have competing demands on Canada s forest resources been so great At the same time we are finally being forced to confront the sustainable limit of these resources Now the improbable has happened government industry First Nationa and NGOs appear to be part of an emerging consensus that industrial forestry in Canada must change The Wealth of Forests is a pioneering attempt to grapple with the policy implications of the transition to sustainable forestry While much has been written on the theory and practice of sustainable forestry and on the relative merits of regulatory versus market approaches to environmental protection these literatures have nnot as yet been bridged Using illustrations based on recent developments in British Columbia forest policy this collection provides that bridge by analyzing the potential and limits of market regulatory and other policy instruments as means of achieving sustainability Featuring new work by many of Canada s leading forest policy scholars this interdisciplinary collection is devoted to translating the concept of sustainability into practice in key areas of forest policy including tenure timber pricing forest practices land use zoning and eco certification The Wealth of Forests also considers how domestic and international legal regimes might constrain the adoption of policies that could bring us close to the elusive goal of sustainable forestry Forests and Society Kristiina A. Vogt,2007 This book which contains 8 chapters provides a framework for the general public forest managers and policy makers to understand what factors need to be included when working towards using and protecting the world s forests so that they can be sustained Topics covered include historical perceptions and use of forests the creation of today s forest landscapes by global societies decision making related to forests becoming democratic and globalized changing views about the ecology and conservation of forests the historical and continuing impacts of human disturbances i e air pollution climatic change salt injury introduced plants introduced insects introduced pathogens forest management activities and wars on forests the relevance of natural disturbances i e wildfires wind extreme temperature and moisture volcanic eruptions pathogens and insect and vertebrate pests in maintaining sustainable forests the relationship of human health to forest management and the relationship among forests humans and the carbon cycle Case studies from Australia Bolivia Botswana China Iceland India Indonesia Mexico Nepal Peru the Philippines Puerto Rico
