Challenging Capital Punishment Kenneth C. Haas, James A. Inciardi, 1988 Capital Punishment C. Cliff, 2003 The issue of capital punishment is a continually debated issue because it calls into question the values and direction of society How is a civilisation supposed to handle lawbreakers Are some crimes so heinous and some people so dangerous that the death penalty is the only appropriate response The United States Constitution prohibits cruel and unusual punishment but opinions on whether that includes capital punishment are vehement on both sides Many states have some form of death penalty and public opinion seems to indicate support of it in principle However many firestorms have erupted recently over the application of the penalty including the topics of its use on minors and those with mental disabilities There are also questions raised about how much of a factor race plays in a capital sentence Internationally several countries have foresworn the death penalty with certain countries in Europe and the Americas refusing to extradite criminal suspects including suspected terrorists to the US if capital punishment is a possible sentence With such politically flammable and ethically challenging issues hanging over it capital punishment is a vitally important issue to understand To help facilitate that study this book assembles a carefully selected and substantial listing of literature focussing on the death penalty Anyone researching this area of criminal justice will find this book an important tool as it offers easy access to the most relevant works about capital punishment Following the bibliography further access is provided with author title and subject indexes

Challenging Capital Punishment Kenneth C. Haas, James A. Inciardi, After years of controversy the death penalty debate remains both urgent and unresolved presenting legal moral ethical and philosophical challenges According to the editors of Challenging Capital Punishment one of the most striking aspects of this debate is the persistence of myth and misinformation about capital punishment Haas and Inciardi suggest that the debate needs to be conducted on the basis of scholarly analysis and scientific scrutiny Accordingly their volume brings together an impressive list of leading social scientists and legal scholars who assess the validity of objections to the death penalty Grave Injustice Richard A. Stack, 2014-05-27 On September 21 2011 the controversial execution of Georgia inmate Troy Davis who spent twenty years on death row for a crime he most likely did not commit revealed the complexity of death penalty trials the flaws in America s justice system and the rift between those who are for and against the death penalty Davis s execution reignited a long standing debate about whether the death penalty is an appropriate form of justice In Grave Injustice Richard A Stack seeks to advance the anti death penalty argument by examining the cases of individuals who like Davis have been executed but a The End of Sacrifice John Howard Yoder, 2011-09-01 John Howard Yoder 1927 1997 who was a professor at Notre Dame University and Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminary was one of the 20th century s leading theologians Scholars continue to study his writings on pacifism and other subjects The End of Sacrifice brings together four decades of Yoder s published and unpublished writings on capital punishment He engaged in sophisticated biblical sociological and historical analysis in order to demonstrate that from ancient society until today capital punishment is an inherently cultic sacrificial rite Since the death of Jesus brought a decisive end to all sacrifices for sin Yoder argues Christians should proclaim the abolition of the death penalty Its advocates should no longer claim biblical validation In doing so Yoder also makes a persuasive case for proactive Christian witness to the state He calls the church to proclaim the end of sacrifice to public officials who are responsible for carrying out capital punishment John Howard Yoder was unique in how he brings together both the biblical and sociological roots of the practice of capital punishment Many Christian works focus on the former whereas other works focus exclusively on the latter John C Nugent Death Penalty United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on the Judiciary, 1991 Global Journal on Crime and Criminal Law ,1997 Ibss: Political Science: 1988 British Library of Political and Economic Science, 1992 This bibliography lists the most important works in political science published in 1988 The Death Penalty Debate H. Wayne House, John Howard Yoder, 1991 After several decades of judicial and legislative rulings outlawing capital punishment American sentiment in recent times has swung in favor of the death penalty Candidates in major political races across the land now expect to win votes by bragging about how many criminals they have sent to death row Opponents of capital punishment however are far from silent They insist that the death penalty violates the Christian s high view of life How they ask can a person who believes in the forgiveness of sins and the grace of God advocate another human being s death In The Death of Penalty Debate two respected authors H Wayne House and John Howard Yoder lay before us the pro and con arguments on the validity of capital punishment Beginning with Genesis 9 6 both men trace the historical and scriptural ideas for and against the death penalty In the course of their discussion they raise compelling questions Does the death penalty work Is it immoral Who should be put to death and for what crimes Does a crime threatened society need the death penalty for its own protection What do Moses and Jesus and the apostles say to guide us in forming our own ideas on this matter Addressing these questions and many others House and Yoder in this carefully documented volume capably present the strongest arguments on both sides of the capital punishment issue The Death Penalty Debate is a valuable guide which will aid readers in making up their minds on this timely and crucial issue A helpful annotated bibliography is included from back cover The Death Penalty and Racial Bias Gregory Russell, 1994 Russell tests the U S Supreme Court s assumption that the procedure used to select jurors who impose the death penalty does not inject racial bias into the jury In Georgia those who supported the death penalty and were placed on juries were more likely to sentence black defendants to death Further those who supported the death penalty tend to hold attitudes that are linked to racial bias and act as surrogate measures for racial bias He also finds no support in his analysis for the results of other research that indicate that death penalty jurors are conviction prone Although earlier empirical evidence has suggested a consistent pattern of race related differential sentencing Russell s study is the first to demonstrate that the death qualification tends to eliminate moderate attitudes and concentrate racial bias in death penalty juries The Death Penalty and Racial Bias suggests a clear direction for
