Confronting Racism in Higher Education Jeffrey S. Brooks, Noelle Witherspoon-Arnold, 2013-03-01 Racism and ignorance churn on college campuses as surely as they do in society at large Over the past fifteen years there have been many discussions regarding racism and higher education Some of these focus on formal policies and dynamics such as Affirmative Action or The Dream Act while many more discussions are happening in classrooms dorm rooms and in campus communities Of course corollary to these conversations some of which are generative and some of which are degenerative is a deafening silence around how individuals and institutions can actually understand engage and change issues related to racism in higher education This lack of dialogue and action speaks volumes about individuals and organizations and suggests a complicit acceptance tolerance or even support for institutional and individual racism There is much work to be done if we are to improve the situation around race and race relation in institutions of higher education There is still much work to be done in unpacking and addressing the educational realities of those who are economically socially and politically underserved and oppressed by implicit and overt racism These realities manifest in ways such as lack of access to and within higher education in equitable outcomes and in a disparity of the quality of education as a student matriculates through the system While there are occasional diversity and inclusion efforts made in higher education institutions still largely address them as quotas and not as paradigmatic changes This focus on counting toward equity rather than creating a culture of equity is basically a form of white privilege that allows administrators and policymakers to show incremental progress and avoid more substantive action toward real equity that changes the culture s of institutions with longstanding racial histories that marginalize some and privilege others Issues in higher education are still raced from white perspectives and suffer from a view that race and racism occur in a vacuum Some literature suggests that racism begins very early in the student experience and continues all the way to college Berlak Moyenda This mis education mislabeling and mistreatment based on race often develops as early as five to ten years old and follows them to postgraduate education and beyond Critical Whiteness Praxis in Higher Education Zak Foste,Tenisha L. Tevis,2023-07-03 College and university administrators are increasingly called to confront the deeply entrenched racial inequities in higher education To do so corresponding attention must be given to historical and contemporary manifestations of whiteness in higher education and student affairs This book bridges theoretical and practical considerations regarding the ways whiteness functions to underwrite racially hostile and unwelcoming campus communities for People of Color all the while upholding the interests and values of white students faculty and staff While higher education scholars and practitioners have long explored the role of race and racism in college and university contexts rarely have they done so through a lens of Critical Whiteness Studies CWS Exploring such topics through the lens of CWS offers new opportunities to both examine white identities attitudes and ways of being and to explicitly name how whiteness is embedded in environments that marginalize and oppress students faculty and staff of color This book is especially concerned with naming the material consequences of whiteness in the lives of People of Color on college and university campuses in the United States Part one of the book introduces theoretical ideas and concepts administrators scholars and activists might use to interrogate how whiteness functions on campus Part two of the book explores practical considerations for how whiteness functions across campus spaces including student leadership programs fraternity and sorority life faculty tenure and promotion LGBTQ support services and so forth Hispanic-Serving
