Has China Devised a Superior Path to Wealth Creation? The Role of Secular Values Charles Hampden-Turner, Peter Peverelli, Fons Trompenaars, 2021-06-21 The rise of China will profoundly change the world and the rest of us now have a chance to understand how and why this is happening or continue to moralise about this disaster thought to harm our way of life What is especially galling is that the Chinese appear better able to create wealth and value than the West Even in the midst of political denunciations more and more businesses are profitably engaging China We have to face the fact that China excels at what we are supposed to admire the peaceful creation of wealth It even withstands the current pandemic several hundred times more successfully than we have The answers to China's success lie not in communism but in Chinese civilization and culture which is 22 centuries old and extends to most of East Asia and has traded peacefully since Roman times This is a book about measured business cultures East and West and explains using largely Western scholarship why China is winning and will continue to do so unless and until we wake up

Weekly Compilation of Presidential Documents, 1993 Capabilities, Power, and Institutions Stephen L. Esquith, Fred Gifford, 2010-01-01 Development economics political theory and ethics long carried on their own scholarly dialogues and investigations with almost no interaction among them Only in the mid 1990s did this situation begin to change primarily as a result of the pioneering work of an economist Amartya Sen and a philosopher who doubled as a classicist and legal scholar Martha Nussbaum Sen's Development as Freedom 1999 and Nussbaum's Women and Human Development 2000 together signaled the emergence of a powerful new paradigm that is commonly known as the capabilities approach to development ethics Key to this approach is the recognition that citizens must have basic capabilities provided most crucially through health care and education if they are to function effectively as agents of economic development Capabilities can be measured in terms of skills and abilities opportunities and control over resources and even moral virtues like the virtue of care and concern for others The essays in this collection extend criticize and reformulate the capabilities approach to better understand the

Projecting the Future Through Political Discourse Patricia L. Dunmire,2011 This monograph examines the rhetorical nature and function of representations of the future in political discourse focusing on political actors use of hegemonic images of future reality to achieve their political goals It argues that a key ideological dimension of political rhetoric lies in politicians use of projections of the future to legitimate policies and actions This argument is grounded in systemic functional and critical discourse analyses of the Bush Doctrine the U S policy response to the September 11 terrorist attacks which sanctioned a preemptive military posture By focusing on the discursive construction of the future this project addresses a lacunae in critical discourse studies and calls attention to the crucial role that the discourse and practice of futurology has played in post Cold War politics and society It will be of value to scholars interested in the discourses of politics the war on terror U S national security and futurology

Economic Inequality, Neoliberalism, and the American Community College Patrick Sullivan,2017-05-11 This book aims to deepen public understanding of the community college and to challenge our longstanding reliance on a deficit model for defining this important powerful and transformative institution Featuring a unique combination of data and research Sullivan seeks to help redefine update and reshape public perception about community colleges This book gives serious attention to student voices and includes narratives written by community college students about their experiences attending college at an open admissions institution Sullivan examines the history of the modern community college and the economic model that is driving much of the current discussion in higher education today Sullivan argues that the community college has done much to promote social justice and economic equality in America since the founding of the modern community college in 1947 by the Truman Commission

After Luther Bruno Johannsson, 2021-05-26 Unlike Luther who published his theses in the Catholic Europe of 1517 the author refers in 95 theses to the globalized and pluralistic world of our times. Each thesis is explained with a generally understandable essay of 2-5 pages. Numerous remarks allow readers with scientific interests to go into greater depth. At the end of most theses questions are formulated showing that the author knows what he does not know. At the end of some theses proposals for political action are made such as fighting hunger, diminishing inequality, promoting democracy, and reforming the United Nations. Johannsson starts by outlining his conservative view of Christian Theology based on the Bible and some clarifying contributions of Joseph Smith 1806-1844. In the following ten chapters the author attempts to show the great relevance of the Christian point of view for the questions of our time. He indicates the possibility of a compromise between creationism and the evolution paradigm. His theory of matter, spirit, and soul has the potential of bringing natural and social sciences nearer to each other. Johannsson's concept of Christian love proves not only to be a fundamental principle of ethics but also of economics and political science.
