The Politics of Equity and Growth Don-Terry Veal, 2005 A case study of the economic development policies in Rockford Illinois that investigates the dilemma of choosing between policies promoting economic growth and those promoting social equity

Middle Powers and Accidental Wars Bernard Fook Weng Loo, 2005 The traditional understanding of strategic stability as a condition wherein adversarial states refrain from waging a strategic war is in the first place flawed as it conflates the concept with the wider issue of causes of war it places too great an emphasis on arms racing and crisis management and it has focused too much on nuclear strategy This study situates the concept directly with the phenomena of accidental or inadvertent wars and proposes an understanding of strategic stability as a condition wherein policy makers do not feel pressured into knee jerk decisions concerning the use of military force This study proposes a framework of conventional strategic stability It includes a geographic and strategic cultural milieu that frames the processes by which policy makers and strategic planners identify and assess the threat posed by potential adversaries It directs attention away from armaments to other military strategic factors such as interpretations of strategic doctrines and intelligence and early warning processes how domestic and external political conditions provide clues as to how and why strategic stability either maintains or fails because decisions for war are ultimately political in nature
