

THE CHANGING FACE of the TEACHING FORCE

research by professor richard m. ingersoll & lisa merrill

A WORKFORCE DOMINATED BY BEGINNERS

MOST COMMON TEACHER

1987

15 years of experience

2008

1st year beginner

Over 200,000
new teachers begin
each year.

Twenty-five years ago,
there were only 65,000 new teachers a year.

WHY ARE SO MANY TEACHERS BEGINNERS?

THE TEACHING FORCE IS BALLOONING IN SIZE

Much of the growth
in the teaching
force is a result of new hiring in a few
content areas:

SPECIAL EDUCATION
due to IDEA

ELEMENTARY ENRICHMENT
due to expanded
curricula

SECONDARY MATH & SCIENCE
due to higher requirements
for graduation

WHO ARE THESE NEW TEACHERS?

65% are
recent college
graduates

35% are
older career
switchers

MORE RACIAL DIVERSITY

2X
The number of minority teachers has almost doubled
in the past 20 years.

LESS GENDER DIVERSITY

WHAT ARE THE IMPLICATIONS?

How does a teaching
force dominated by beginners impact learning?

What are the financial implications of a ballooning
teaching force?

How are students
affected if there are fewer male teachers?

Lattuca,Joan S. Stark,2011-01-11 Shaping the College Curriculum focuses on curriculum development as an important decision making process in colleges and universities The authors define curriculum as an academic plan developed in a historical social and political context They identify eight curricular elements that are addressed intentionally or unintentionally in developing all college courses and programs By exploring the interaction of these elements in context they use the academic plan model to clarify the processes of course and program planning enabling instructors and administrators to ask crucial questions about improving teaching and optimizing student learning This revised edition continues to stress research based educational practices The new edition consolidates and focuses discussion of institutional and sociocultural factors that influence curricular decisions All chapters have been updated with recent research findings relevant to curriculum leadership accreditation assessment and the influence of academic fields while two new chapters focus directly on learning research and its implications for instructional practice A new chapter drawn from research on organizational change provides practical guidance to assist faculty members and administrators who are engaged in extensive program improvements Streamlined yet still comprehensive and detailed this revised volume will continue to serve as an invaluable resource for individuals and groups whose work includes planning designing delivering evaluating and studying curricula in higher education This is an extraordinary book that offers not a particular curriculum or structure but a comprehensive approach for thinking about the curriculum ensuring that important considerations are not overlooked in its revision or development and increasing the likelihood that students will learn and develop in ways institutions hope they will The book brings coherence and intention to what is typically an unstructured haphazard and only partially rational process guided more by beliefs than by empirically grounded substantive information Lattuca and Stark present their material in ways that are accessible and applicable across planning levels course program department and institution local settings and academic disciplines It s an admirable and informative marriage of scholarship and practice and an insightful guide to both Anyone who cares seriously about how we can make our colleges and universities more educationally effective should read this book Patrick T Terenzini distinguished professor and senior scientist Center for the Study of Higher Education The Pennsylvania State University

EBOOK: Gender and the Changing Face of Higher Education: A Feminized Future? Carole Leathwood, Barbara Read, 2008-12-16 A notable feature of higher education in many countries over the last few decades has been the dramatic rise in the proportion of female students Women now outnumber men as undergraduate students in the majority of OECD countries fuelling concerns that men are deserting degree level study as women overtake them both numerically and in terms of levels of achievement The assertion is that higher education is becoming increasingly feminized reflecting similar claims in relation to schooling and the labour market At the same time there are persistent concerns about degree standards with allegations of dumbing down This raises questions about whether the higher education system to which more women have gained access is now of less value both intrinsically and in terms of labour market outcomes than previously This ground breaking book examines these issues in relation to higher education in the UK and globally It provides a thorough analysis of debates about feminization asking To what extent do patterns of participation continue to reflect and re-construct wider social inequalities of gender social class and ethnicity How far has a numerical increase in women students challenged the cultures curriculum and practices of the university What are the implications for women men and the future of higher education Drawing on international and national data theory and research Gender and the Changing Face of Higher Education provides an accessible but nuanced discussion of the feminization of higher education for postgraduates policy makers and academics working in the field
