Policing Cooperation Across Borders Saskia Hufnagel, 2016-04-22 This book provides new insights into police cooperation from a comparative socio legal perspective It presents a broad analysis of comparable police cooperation strategies in two systems the EU and Australia The evolution of regulatory trends and cooperation models is analysed for both systems and possible transferable strategies identified Drawing on interviews with practitioners in the EU and Australia this book highlights a number of areas where the EU can be compared to a federal system and addresses the advantages and disadvantages of being a Union or a federation of states with a view to police cooperation practice Particular topics addressed are the evolution of legal frameworks regulating police cooperation informal cooperation strategies Joint Investigation Teams Europol and regional cooperation These instruments foster police cooperation but could be improved with a view to cooperation practice by learning from regulatory techniques and practitioner experiences of the respective other system Police Leadership and Management Margaret Mitchell, John Peter Casey, 2007 This volume presents the new contexts and challenges for contemporary police leaders and managers in the changing landscapes of policing The governance of contemporary police organisations requires leaders and managers even at the local level to work in and understand complex social political and organisational environments The wide range of topics in this collection explores what is changing what is known about the impact of these changes and what leaders and managers now need to be able to do or anticipate as a consequence Operational policing is no longer the militaristic singular activity it once was but embraces new models of partnership and community to manage crime and disorder Equally while command and control models are still an essential of many aspects of policing managing police officers and staff increasingly depends on their professional development and encouraging enthusiasm and innovation Policing takes place under conditions of intense scrutiny from the media and from the community and crime and disorder is the subject of much political debate Each of these broad areas are addressed and present a surprising range of perspectives The volume is aimed at every level of management and leadership in policing researchers of policing and students of police management and leadership state reform its police force following a transition to democracy In 1998 Indonesia the third largest country in the world faced just such a challenge Policing had long been managed under the jurisdiction of the military as an instrument of the Suharto regime and with Suharto abruptly removed from office this was about to change Here we see how it changed and how far these changes were for the better Based on direct observations by a scholar who was involved in the last days of the New Order and who saw how the police responded to regime change this book examines the police the new regime and how the police was disassociated from the military in Indonesia Providing a comprehensive historical overview of the position of police in this change of regime the book focuses on two key areas the differences between local and national levels and the politicisation associated with decentralisation Arguing that the disassociation of the Indonesian National Police from the military has achieved only limited success the book contends that there is continued impetus for the establishment of a professional police force and modern and democratic policing which will entail effective public control of the police A pioneering study of the police in Indonesia examining key issues in the post Suharto era this book will be of interest to scholars of Southeast Asian politics and of policing and politics in the developing world Towards Ethical Policing Wood, Dominic, 2020-04-01 With debate about police ethics intensifying this stimulating book considers afresh the fundamental role of officers and their relations with society It is a comprehensive and up to date introduction to ethical policing taking a moral philosophical perspective to the evidence base and literature on the subject Leading contemporary thinker Dominic Wood tackles the ethical issues of policing as a matter of compliance and discipline and reviews them in the context of contemporary challenges in policing and the wider criminal justice framework From the parameters of moral policing to the role of human rights to embedding ethics within police operations this is a thorough overview of the subject of police ethics and legitimacy and a springboard for further research and analysis A timely contribution to discussions about the police and their legitimacy this is essential reading for all those studying teaching and leading the profession Policing and Media Murray Lee, Alyce McGovern, 2013-11-26 This book examines the relationship between police media and the public and analyses the shifting techniques and technologies through which they communicate In a critical discussion of contemporary and emerging modes of mediatized police work Lee and McGovern demonstrate how the police engage with the public through a fluid and quickly expanding assemblage of communications and information technologies Policing and Media explores the rationalities that are driving police media relations and asks how these relationships differ or not from the ways they have operated historically what new technologies are influencing and being deployed by policing organizations and police public relations professionals and why how operational policing is shaping and being shaped by new technologies of communication and what forms of resistance are evident to the manufacture of preferred images of police The authors suggest that new forms of simulated and hyper real policing using platforms such as social media and reality television are increasingly positioning police organisations as media organisations and in some cases enabling police to bypass the traditional media altogether The book is informed by empirical research spanning ten years in this field and includes chapters on journalism and police policing and social media policing and reality television and policing resistances It will be of interest to those researching and teaching in the fields of Criminology Policing and Media as well as police and media professionals Police Reform Tim Prenzler, Janet Ransley, 2002 Police Reform Building Integrity is about the recurring problem of police corruption and contemporary efforts to find effective strategies to maximise ethical conduct It draws on international experience using Australia as a major source In the last fifteen years Australian policing has been of significant interest because of the combination of advanced democratic processes exposes of serious police corruption and extensive sometimes radical experimentation with prevention strategies The book begins with an overview of developments and issues in police integrity control globally before giving close attention to special problem areas and to innovations in establishing and maintaining best practice These innovations include modern methods of testing police applicants assessing organisational integrity mediating complaints using stings to reveal secretive corruption creating integrity profiles of officers and units and developing effective independent oversight and investigation of complaints The book is for all stakeholders in police conduct police managers professional standards branch personnel general duties officers recruits civilian oversight agencies civil libertarians politicians police studies scholars and students and the general public The book brings together the latest research on types of misconduct in a form that is readily accessible to a wide range of readers with short clearly focused chapters on specialist topics It balances diagnostic and theoretical explanations of police behaviour with a series of expositions of specific practical strategies for creating ethical departments
