Changing The Subject Women In Higher Education:

Changing the Subject Sue Davies, Cathy Lubelska, Jocey Quinn, 2004 Challenges and Negotiations for Women in Higher Education Pamela Cotterill, Sue Jackson, Gayle Letherby, 2007-06-28 CONCEPTUALISING CHALLENGES AND NEGOTIATIONS FOR WOMEN IN HIGHER EDUCATION 1 2 3 Pamela Cotterill Sue Jackson and Gayle Letherby 1 2 3 Staffordshire University Birbeck University of London University of Plymouth INTRODUCTION Despite the historical tradition of academia as a male space Evans 1995 Abbott et al 2005 Stanley 1997 Letherby 2003 it is possible to argue that the expansion of higher education in the 1980s and 1990s benefited women more than it did men By 1995 there were two and a half times more women in the academy than in 1970 1 Abbott et al 2005 and in the decade to follow the numbers of women undergraduate students had overtaken men with a substantial minority of these being older non standard entrants Furthermore as Paula J Caplan 1997 3 argues Visions of the academic life draw us women toward it picturing an intellectual community whose members search with passion and integrity for Truth and Knowledge We imagine that in academia we shall find freedom from bias freedom from worldly struggles of power and wealth freedom to choose what to study and what to say and an environment characterized by tolerance and openness where everyone's energy is focused on the open exploration of ideas However whilst this may be the vision for some women it is important not to view this widening of female participation in higher education through rose tinted glasses Widening Participation in Higher Education T. Hinton-Smith, 2012-10-30 This collection offers an authoritative up to date commentary on the challenges facing higher education today across both the UK and internationally The book charts the impact of global economic trends and recent policy developments for students academics providers and changing course provision Surviving the Academy Danusia Malina, Sian Maslin-Prothero, 2003-09-02 This text brings together writing and research on feminist experience in academia It covers issues such as provision of care maternalism in the academy and dynamics of interaction between women in higher education There are challenging and provocative analyses of many questions how large is the gap between rhetoric and reality in HE institutions how do institutions behave towards disabled staff how far is stereotyping still affecting the roles which women play in academia what do women face when they combine motherhood with teaching or studying coping mechanisms and survival tactics are brought under scrutiny and the effect these have on the behaviour of female academics and their interactions with the institution of each other This text should provide insight and evidence for researchers to further develop their own theories and also many starting points for those wishing to undertake their own research Written in collaboration with the Women in Higher Education Network Transforming Managers Roy Moodley, Stephen Whitehead, 2005-06-23 In the 1990s considerable changes in the political and social world have impacted on the character of both public and private organizations At a time of increased uncertainty and insecurity in these organizations new ways of managing and being managed have emerged Recognising that organizational life is part reflective and determined by dominant social discourses factors of gender will inevitably be central to the dynamics of organizational change This book addresses theoretical ideas and mythologies in the examination of gendered organizations The need to examine men in relation to family law and society in general is growing and this book extends this interrogation to work and organizational life It will be of interest to students in management studies public sector management and those involved in public policy making as well as students and academics within gender studies and sociology

Feminist Academics Louise Morley,Val Walsh,2002-11-01 This text brings together leading feminists who explore questions of feminist interventions in organisations of knowledge production covering both the structure and culture of academic institutions and the social divisions between women Feminism is located as a force for change empowering women to gain a political understanding and providing a methodology for new approaches to teaching learning research and writing in the academy Contributions demonstrate how an analysis of the micropolitics of the academy in terms of power policies discourses pedagogy and interpersonal relationships provides a framework for deprivatising women's experience and influencing change Using theoretical constructs and their own biographies and experience the contributors present predicaments inequalities and strategies Power and influence are considered in conjunction with gender race social class and sexuality

Negotiating the Glass Ceiling Dr Miriam David,Miriam David,Diana Woodward,2005-08-10 Why is it that in many universities the number of women professors can literally be counted on the fingers of one hand while the number of men number in the hundreds Why are women academics so relatively disadvantaged and men so firmly in control In an attempt to find answers to these questions Negotiating the Glass Ceiling gathers together the unique personal reflections of 16 eminent women working in higher education across the world These personal reflections document some of the changing patterns of women's lives in higher education since the war a time of massive social change within education itself as well as in women's lives outside higher education They also illustrate that the changes that have occurred have been hard won and not without consequences for the women involved

Varghese,Nidhi Sabharwal,2023-07-31 This book studies the various dimensions of gender inequality that persist in higher education and employment in India It presents an in depth analysis of the complex challenges women face in higher education participation and in translating higher education opportunities into labour market success and into leadership positions including in academia It argues that despite substantial progress towards gender equality in enrolment these inequalities act as barriers to realising the transformative role that higher education can have for women s well being and for the nation s development The volume looks at the issues that keep women from accessing the areas of their choice and the challenges they face in leadership positions in higher education An important critique of higher education policy and planning the volume will be of interest to teachers students and researchers of education public policy political science and international relations economics feminism women s studies gender studies law and sociology It will also be useful for academicians policymakers and anyone interested in the study of gender in Indian Higher Education Gendering the Massification Generation Emily F. Henderson,Nidhi S. Sabharwal,Anjali Thomas,Julie Mansuy,Ann Stewart,Sharmila Rathee,Renu Yadav,Nikita Samanta,2023-12-29 Gendering the Massification Generation examines why young people from the same families and communities in India experience different decision making processes regarding higher education access because of their gender In India and other contexts where higher education is massifying and gender parity of enrolment has been reached at undergraduate level there are still many questions to be asked about gender and access to higher education Based on an exploratory study of gendered higher education access and choice within the state of Haryana India the authors explore gender inequalities of higher education access and choice in the Indian context and connect this with the broader international phenomenon of widening participation Through an in depth analysis of the massification generation where young people from relatively disadvantaged backgrounds are accessing higher education often for the first time in their families and communities readers are encouraged to apply a lens of social disadvantage and gender and to recognise the norms and transgressions of femininity and masculinity in relation to higher education access and choice With global implications for the ways in which gender is analysed and framed in widening participation research and policy this is the ideal book for scholars students and policy makers working on higher education as well as researchers and NGOs specialising in gender school to higher education transitions international development sociology and area studies

The Evolving Landscape of Higher Education in India Sudhanshu Bhushan, 2025-01-23 The edited volume discusses the long period of post colonial developments in higher education in India It examines the legitimacy of the policies pursued post pandemic with a focus on the role of teachers and the students voices It addresses the essential question of how the technological ascendance in higher education addresses social justice What is the role of teachers in a new landscape of higher education It offers insights into the efficiency centric proposition of the state market technology triad the current paradigm of higher education worldwide It presents evidence to understand how efficiency has a tradeoff with various aspects of social justice The authors deal with questions such as the challenges of privatization and how the commodification of higher education runs counter to the idea of inclusive higher education The authors critically look at the online form of higher education and how it has led to the shrinkage of democratic spaces in higher education It discusses the transformative role of teachers with increasing managerialism of higher education The book highlights a deep understanding of the increasing role of the market and technology and their influence in negating an inclusive and democratic public space in higher education It appeals to teachers and students by enabling them to understand the market s and technology s impacts on higher education It has the potential to be a reference book in colleges and universities It will help the large community of practitioners and policymakers guard against the dangers of overt marketization The book benefits policymakers university administrators and teachers and researchers of higher education interested in governance technology teaching and research in higher education
