Changing University:

The Changing University Dorothy Shore Zinberg, 2012-12-06 This collection of papers was written for a NATO Advanced Research Workshop held at Harvard University in March 1990 The title The Changing University and the Education of Scientists and Engineers An International Workshop broad as it is does not convey the sweep of data information opinions and suggestions for future research and policy choices that were crowded into two and a half days of formal presentations mealtime discussions and teatime chats The proposal for the workshop grew out of a research project I had carried out that explored the policies governing the education of foreign science and engineering students S E s in several industrialized countries and of two countries that send large numbers of S E students abroad the People s Republic of China PRC and Japan see chapter 7 In research visits to these countries as well as to France the United Kingdom West Germany and within the United States I was struck by the similarity of issues that were raised One was the concern that there would not be enough well trained scientists and engineers to meet the constantly increasing demand for them Government officials industrialists and educators repeatedly stressed that a well educated and motivated work force was essential for their economies national security and for society as a whole Many of those interviewed mentioned that universities are undergoing rapid systemic changes as governments and industry are calling on them to provide human resources and intellectual capital Changing University Teaching Terry Evans, Daryl Nation, 2012-10-12 Behind the hype of the virtual university lies real change in the way practitioners approach university teaching This book focuses on the changes to teaching both on and off campus that have either come from or themselves influenced the development of educational technologies University Expansion in a Changing Global Economy Martin Carnoy, Prashant Loyalka, Maria Dobryakova, Rafiq Dossani, Isak Froumin, Katherine Kuhns, Jandhyala Tilak, Rong Wang, 2013-07-17 This is a study of higher education in the world s four largest developing economies Brazil Russia India and China Already important players globally by mid century they are likely to be economic powerhouses But whether they reach that level of development will depend in part on how successfully they create quality higher education that puts their labor forces at the cutting edge of the information society Using an empirical comparative approach this book develops a broad picture of the higher education system in each country in the context of both global and local forces The authors offer insights into how differing socioeconomic and historic patterns of change and political contexts influence developments in higher education In asking why each state takes the approach that it does this work situates a discussion of university expansion and quality in the context of governments educational policies and reflects on the larger struggles over social goals and the distribution of national resources University Autonomy, the State and Social Change in China Su-Yan Pan, 2009-03-01 This book explores the role of universities in responding to ongoing changes in China and in shaping the relations between the university and the state during periods of social change Tsinghua University is selected as a case study to inform this important issue By tracing the changes and continuities Tsinghua has experienced since 1911 this book gives an in depth analysis of how the university strives to maintain autonomy while taking a leading role in implementing China s policy of higher education By drawing on a vast literature of higher education theories the book offers original insights into the university state relationship and provides a new understanding on the complexities China faces in the era when the country is becoming a key global actor University-Industry Partnerships for Positive Change Tim Bodley-Scott,Ersel Oymak,2022-12-14 Sharing the authors extensive experience in working at the interface between academia industry and government this book is designed to enable powerful university industry partnerships to achieve the 17 UN SDGs Climate Change Research at Universities Walter Leal Filho,2017-06-02 This unique book provides a multidisciplinary review of current climate change research projects at universities around the globe offering perspectives from all of the natural and social sciences Numerous universities worldwide pursue state of the art research on climate change focussing on mitigation of its effects as well as human adaptation to it However the 2015 Paris 21st Conference of the Parties of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change UNFCCC COP 21 demonstrated that there is still much room for improvement in the role played by universities in international negotiations and decision making on climate change To date few scientific meetings have provided multidisciplinary perspectives on climate change in which researchers across the natural and social sciences could come together to exchange research findings and discuss methods relating to climate change mitigation and adaption studies As a result the published literature has also lacked a broad perspective This book fills that gap and is of interest to all researchers and policy makers concerned with global climate change regardless of their area of expertise The Changing American Countryside Emery N. Castle,1995 The literature on rural America to the extent that it exists has largely been written by urban based scholars perpetuating out of date notions and stereotypes or by those who see little difference between rural and agricultural concerns As a result the real rural America remains much misunderstood neglected or ignored by scholars and policymakers alike In response Emery Castle offers The Changing American Countryside a volume that will forever change how we look at this important subject Castle brings together the writings of eminent scholars from several disciplines and varying backgrounds to take a fresh and comprehensive look at the forgotten hinterlands These authors examine the role of non metropolitan people and places in the economic life of our nation and cover such diverse issues as poverty industry the environment education family social problems ethnicity race religion gender government public policy and regional diversity The authors are especially effective in demonstrating why rural America is so much more than just agriculture It is in fact highly diverse complex and interdependent with urban America and the international market place Most major rural problems they contend simply cannot be effectively addressed in isolation from their urban and international connections To do so is misguided and even hazardous when one fourth of our population and ninety seven per cent of our land area is rural Together these writings not only provide a new and more realistic view of rural life and public policy but also suggest how the field of rural studies can greatly enrich our understanding of national life Higher Education Management Warner, David, Palfreyman, David, 1996-08-01 Many higher education institutions are like small towns meeting the needs of their members by providing not only specialist teaching and research activities but also residential accommodation catering telecommunications counselling sports facilities and so on The management of these institutions is very complex requiring both generalist and specialist knowledge and skills and the move to formal strategic planning means that it is no longer acceptable for higher education managers to be aware only of their own relatively narrow areas of expertise All new managers would benefit from an holistic perspective on managing a whole institution As such individuals are promoted such helicopter vision becomes a precondition of their and their institution s success Higher Education Management provides the first comprehensive account of non academic higher education management contributions from distinguished practitioners of university management a key resource for all aspiring trainee and practising managers in higher education Shifting Contexts Marilyn Strathern, 2012-09-10 To suppose anthropological analysis can shift between global and local perspectives may well imply that the two co exist as broader and narrower horizons or contexts of knowledge The proof for this can be found in ethnographic accounts where contrasts are repeatedly drawn between the encompassing realm and everyday life or in value systems which sumultaneously trivialise and aggrandise or in shifts between what pertains to the general or to the particular Sciences in the Universities of Europe, Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries Ana Simões, Maria Paula Diogo, Kostas Gavroglu, 2015-04-20 This book focuses on sciences in the universities of Europe in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries and the chapters in it provide an overview mostly from the point of view of the history of science of the different ways universities dealt with the institutionalization of science teaching and research A useful book for understanding the deep changes that universities were undergoing in the last years of the 20th century The book is organized around four central themes 1 Universities in the longue dur e 2 Universities in diverse political contexts 3 Universities and academic research 4 Universities and discipline formation The book is addressed at a broad readership which includes scholars and researchers in the field of General History Cultural History History of Universities History of Education History of Science and Technology Science Policy high school teachers undergraduate and graduate students of sciences and humanities and the general interested public Planning for Creative Change in Mental Health Services National Institute of Mental Health (U.S.), 1972 Facing Global Environmental Change Hans Günter Brauch, Navnita Chadha Behera, Patricia Kameri-Mbote, John Grin, Úrsula Oswald Spring, Béchir Chourou, Czesław Mesjasz, Heinz Krummenacher, 2009-06-04 The year 2007 could perhaps accurately be described as the year when climate change finally received the attention that this challenge deserves globally Much of the information and knowledge that was created in this field during the year was the result of the findings of the Fourth sessment Report AR4 of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC which were disseminated on a large scale and reported extensively by the media This was the result not only of a heightened interest on the part of the public on various aspects of climate change but also because the IPCC itself proactively attempted to spread the findings of its AR4 to the public at large The interest generated on the scientific realities of climate change was further enhanced by the award of the Nobel Peace Prize to the IPCC and former Vice President of the US Al Gore By taking this decision in favour of a leader who has done a great deal to create awareness on climate change and a body that assesses all scientific aspects of climate change and disseminates the result of its findings the Norwegian Nobel Committee has clearly drawn the link between climate change and peace in the world Resources in Education ,2001 Agricultural Adaptation to Climate Change Christopher R. Bryant,Mamadou

A. Sarr,Kénel Délusca,2016-08-26 This book deals with one of the major challenges facing human society and its governments climate change and variability The principal objective of the book is to explore how agricultural production through the actions primarily of farmers including peasant farmers adapt to these changing circumstances what the limitations of adaptation are how the process of adaptation varies between different territories e g developed countries versus developing countries and what are or can be the most effective roles for actors other than the farmers including different levels of government and non governmental organizations NGOs such as professional associations of farmers and community organizations The principal argument is threefold 1 while there are significant differences between territories and countries in terms of the capacity of farmers and the other actors to engage in capacity building to be able to adapt effectively to climate change and variability 2 the critical roles are those played out by the farmers themselves but that 3 other actors can play an important role in accompanying farmers in their adaptation process providing relevant and strategic information counseling them and facilitating networking and meetings when appropriate This effectively means that without engaging in the local adaptation processes governments can really only play effective roles by working with other actors at the local and regional levels When it occurs it can be very effective but when it does not farmers are left to their own devices and even then many are able to use their own creativity and local knowledge to survive and continue to develop Essentially therefore the secondary argument that is followed throughout the book is that adaptation is essentially a social process that requires an understanding of social processes and dynamics in each farming community and territory It involves an understanding for instance of information diffusion processes in the different farming communities and territories which provides a set of tools to promote and facilitate the adoption process in the context of adaptation to climate change and variability Climate Change and Groundwater Walter Dragoni,Balbir S. Sukhija,2008 There is a general consensus that for the next few decades at least the Earth will continue its warming This will inevitably bring about serious environmental problems For human society the most severe will be those related to alterations of the hydrological cycle which is already heavily influenced by human activities Climate change will directly affect groundwater recharge groundwater quality and the freshwater seawater interface The variations of groundwater storage inevitably entail a variety of geomorphological and engineering effects In the areas where water resources are likely to diminish groundwater will be one of the main solutions to prevent drought In spite of its paramount importance the issue of Climate Change and Groundwater has been neglected This volume presents some of the current understanding of the topic Adapting to Climate Change Joel B. Smith, Neeloo Bhatti, Gennady V. Menzhulin, Ron Benioff, Max Campos, Bubu Jallow, Frank Rijsberman, Mikhail I. Budyko, R.K. Dixon, 2012-12-06 Global climate change is one of the most important environmental issues facing the world today The United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change FCCC acknowledges the potential for global climate change to have major effects on the world economy The work of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC is focused on evaluating the scientific data on climate change and analyzing the potential responses to it One of the primary issues in the global climate change debate is how to adapt to any change that might occur The process of identifying adaptation measures and evaluating their effectiveness is the focus of this book In dealing with climate change adaptation the sequence of events in conducting these types of analyses can be generalized as follows Develop scenarios for the possible range of climate change Assess the vulnerability of various sectors of the national economy and infrastructure to climate change and Identify and evaluate measures in each sector to adapt to the climate change It is this third step that is the subject of this book In presenting this material Chapter 1 gives an overview of the concept of climate change adaptation and the general principles guiding the conduct of analyses in this area Chapters 2-7 give the results of evaluating climate change adaptation options in the agriculture water resources coastal resources forest and ecosystems fisheries and human settlements sectors Climate Change and Vulnerability and Adaptation Neil Leary, 2013-07-04 Sound and solid case studies on vulnerability and adaptation have been woefully lacking in the international discourse on climate change This set of books begins to bridge the gap Achim Steiner UN Under Secretary General and Executive Director of United Nations Environment Programme Important reading for students and practitioners alike Martin Parry Co Chair Working Group II Impacts Adaptation and Vulnerability Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC Fills an important gap in our understanding It is policy relevant and deserves to be widely read Richard Klein Senior Research Fellow Stockholm Environment Institute SEI Sweden The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC concluded in its 2001 report that much of the developing world is highly vulnerable to adverse impacts from climate change But the IPCC also concluded that the vulnerabilities of developing countries are too little studied and too poorly understood to enable determination of adaptation strategies that would be effective at reducing risks These authoritative volumes resulting from the work of the Assessments of Impacts and Adaptations to Climate Change AIACC project launched by the IPCC in 2002 are the first to provide a comprehensive investigation of the issues at stake Climate Change and Vulnerability discusses who is vulnerable to climate change the nature of their vulnerability and the causes of their vulnerability for parts of the world that have been poorly researched until now Climate Change and Adaptation covers current practices for managing climate risks to food security water resources livelihoods human health and infrastructure needs for effective management of climate risks the changing nature of the risks strategies for adaptation and the need to integrate these strategies into development planning and resource management

Decolonising Journalism Education in South Africa Ms Zubeida Jaffer ,Prof. Ylva Rodny-Gumede ,Dr Mvuso Ponono ,Prof. Colin Chasi ,2021-12-20 With 342 years of colonialism and apartheid in South Africa a book of this calibre is essential to contribute to scholarly debates on the decolonisation of the media After the democratic dispensation in 1994 there was a narrow pursuit of transformation and media freedom while neglecting decolonisation patriarchal tendencies and the plight of black women journalists who are often vilified while discharging their duties It was two decades after democracy that the RhodesMustFall movement which later evolved into FeesMustFall movement reignited debates on decoloniality in the academia Moreover the book is published during the second wave of FeesMustFall student protests and the demand for decolonised free education is inevitable as no permanent solution to student funding crisis was crafted In the same vein the book advocates for decolonised pedagogy in universities including journalism curriculum That ownership of the media is still skewed towards white and with only few black companies gradually joining the industry also brings into doubt media freedom editorial independence ethics and integrity among media practitioners Therefore the decoloniality movement seeks to confront these structural challenges head on via dialogue to ensure the integrity of the journalism profession Decolonising journalism in South Africa is published at a time in which journalism serves a watchdog and a critique of a democratic government and needs to follow a bottom up social justice approach and become a voice to the voiceless Therefore this book seeks to revolutionise the media in a way that even the language of reporting of certain issues needs to be changed to a balanced kind of reporting characterised by principles of no fear or favour

International Experience in Developing the Financial Resources of Universities Abdulrahman Obaid Al-Youbi,Adnan Hamza Mohammad Zahed,Abdullah Atalar,2021-10-04 This open access book aims to present the experiences and visions of several world university leaders providing strategies and methods used to find various income sources for their institutions The expansion of a university system requires a corresponding increase in funding Consequently university administrators all over the world are in a constant search for additional funds If higher level institutions are expected to deliver high quality education and research their sustainable funding is crucial to the development of the countries they serve While governmental sources are a major part of the funding of most universities economic downturns as in the case of the COVID 19 crisis may reduce governmental contributions in this and cause administrators to look for various alternative sources to help them compete in a global setting This book offers valuable information and guidance to university leaders and administrators worldwide especially at a time when university budgets are under stress due to the COVID 19 pandemic with its dire financial and economic consequences
