Challenge Of Promoting Health Exploration And Action:

The Challenge of Promoting Health Linda Jones, Moyra Sidell, 1997 Sets the promotion of health on wider agendas Starting at the local level and the interface between primary health care and the community it explores potentials for participation and the building of health alliances It then takes a searching look at how health policy is made and the scope for intersectional working The role of poverty and unemployment in determining health chances is explored A range of ethical professional sociological epidemiological and gender related issues are addressed The Challenge of Promoting Health Moyra Sidell, Jenny Douglas, 2002-03-20 Thoroughly revised and updated to reflect changes in health promotion practice policy and research The Challenge of Promoting Health explores the potential at the local level for communities to be involved in promoting their own health and examines the role of statutory agencies and other organisations in the making of healthy public policy Written in an engaging and accessible style this book will be of continued interest to all those committed to promoting health especially those working in the health and social care fields Health Promotion Practice: Building Empowered Communities Laverack, Glenn, 2007-04-01 The book provides an excellent combination of broad theoretical background with a generous helping of vocational guidance on the practice of health promotion scotregen A very welcome addition to the practical side of health promotion Laverack s brief and simply worded text weaves together just the right balance of theory evidence tips and case studies to satisfy the new learner looking to gain a grasp of health promotion s empowering whole while still offering new insights to the more seasoned practitioner Ronald Labont Institute of Population Health University of Ottawa How can health promotion practitioners help communities to become more empowered How do you encourage different communities to work together towards a shared goal How can you focus your resources to be most effective in building empowered communities How do you evaluate your success and failures in building empowered communities Power and empowerment are two complex concepts that are central to health promotion practice People experience empowerment in many different ways and this book explains an approach that has been used by health promoters to intentionally build and evaluate empowerment The book provides a special focus on communities and is illustrated throughout with useful field experiences in the United Kingdom Asia North America the Pacific region and Africa The book aims to provide the reader with An understanding of the key concepts of power and empowerment and the link to improved health outcomes in the context of health promotion programmes An understanding of practical approaches that can be used in health promotion programming to build and evaluate empowered communities Case study examples of how communities can be empowered in practice This unique book offers sound theoretical principles to underpin the practical approaches used to build empowered communities and brings together new and innovative approaches in health promotion practice Health Promotion Practice is essential reading for health promotion students and practitioners who want to learn more about innovative approaches to build empowered communities in their everyday work It will inspire them to work in more empowering ways in health promotion practice and to carefully contemplate how they can influence the way others gain power

Core Skills for Nurse Practitioners Diane Palmer, Surrinder Kaur, 2008-04-21 In addition to clinical knowledge every senior nurse should be comfortable with the professional issues that are part of the senior nurse's role. This handbook addresses these issues in a clear and concise manner. It discusses leadership, change management and risk assessment and looks at evidence based care. The book also considers the legal and ethical implications of advanced practice and examines clinical supervision, psychological support and portfolio development.

PROMOTION DE LA SANTE ET AUTONOMISATION DANS LE CONTEXTE AFRICAIN David Houžto, Glenn Laverack, 2014-02-26 Le terme promotion de la santé en Afrique pr s de 30 ans apr s l adoption de la Charte d Ottawa continue d avoir des connotations compl tement hors du sens que lui conf re cette charte. Cela n est pas tonnante quand on sait que la notion de santé dans ce contexte africain quivaut la lutte contre la maladie travers les soins de santé dispens s par des professionnels de la santé dans des formations sanitaires et les h pitaux. L évolution que connaît le continent depuis quelques d cennies est de donner un peu plus de place la communaut travers les relais communautaires dans une participation communautaire vid e de son contenu car le pouvoir n est jamais pass entre les mains des communaut s. C est au vu de tout ceci que le pr sent ouvrage sa raison d tre pour expliquer les fondements de l autonomisation communautaire et de la promotion de la santé avec leur importance pour la r gion africaine en proie aux mauvais indicateurs de santé comparativement aux autres r gions du monde.

The Health Promoting School Susan Denman, Alysoun Moon, Carl Parsons, David Stears, 2003-09-02 Under the UK Labour Government 1997-2001 there have been clear signs of a willingness to revive the pastoral curriculum in schools and to develop stronger links between the health and education sectors. This book based on empirical work undertaken in England and throughout Europe explores such government policy and in particular the development of the health promoting school. The authors provide a detailed examination of the health promoting school movement in Europe including application of concepts, policies, research and practice to the National Healthy Schools Standards in England. A whole school approach to the promotion of health, well being and educational achievement is taken throughout the book. This approach includes analysis of such subjects and issues as personal, social and health education, citizenship, environmental education, democracy, self esteem, social capital and empowerment. The Health Promoting School Policy Research and Practice is a timely publication that will serve to inform the practice of teachers in schools and higher education, school management, student teachers and health professionals, health promotion and public health specialists.
