"permanent War" Paul R. Carr, Bradley J. Porfilio, 2012 What is the meaning of peace why should we study it and how should we achieve it Although there are an increasing number of manuscripts curricula and initiatives that grapple with some strand of peace education there is nonetheless a dearth of critical cross disciplinary international projects books that examine peace education in conjunction with war and conflict Within this volume the authors contend that war military conflict violence are not a nebulous far away mysterious venture rather they argue that we are all collectively involved in perpetrating and perpetuating militarization conflict violence inside and outside of our own social circles Therefore education about and against war can be as liberating as it is necessary If war equates killing can our schools avoid engaging in the examination of what war is all about If education is not about peace then is it about war Can a society have education that willfully avoids considering peace as its central objective Can a democracy exist if pivotal notions of war and peace are not understood practiced advocated and ensconced in public debate These questions according to Carr and Porfilio and the contributors they have assembled merit a critical and extensive reflection This book seeks to provide a range of epistemological policy pedagogical curriculum and institutional analyses aimed at facilitating meaningful engagement toward a more robust and critical examination of the role that schools play and can play in framing war militarization and armed conflict and significantly the connection to peace
