The Sustainable City IX N. Marchettini, C.A. Brebbia, R. Pulselli, S. Bastianoni, 2014-09-23 Containing the proceedings of the 9th International Conference on Urban Regeneration and Sustainability this book addresses the multi disciplinary aspects of urban planning a result of the increasing size of cities the amount of resources and services required and the complexity of modern society Most of earth s population now lives in cities and the process of urbanisation still continues generating many problems deriving from the drift of the population towards them These problems can be resolved by cities becoming efficient habitats saving resources in a way that improves the quality and standard of living The process however faces a number of major challenges related to reducing pollution improving main transportation and infrastructure systems New urban solutions are required to optimise the use of space and energy resources leading to improvements in the environment i e reduction in air water and soil pollution as well as efficient ways to deal with waste generation These challenges contribute to the development of social and economic imbalances and require the development of new solutions Large cities are probably the most complex mechanisms to manage However despite such complexity they represent a fertile ground for architects engineers city planners social and political scientists and other professionals able to conceive new ideas and time them according to technological advances and human requirements The challenge of planning sustainable cities lies in considering their dynamics the exchange of energy and matter and the function and maintenance of ordered structures directly or indirectly supplied and maintained by natural systems Topics covered include Urban strategies Planning development and management Urban conservation and regeneration The community and the city Eco town planning Landscape planning and design Environmental management Sustainable energy and the city Transportation Quality of life Waterfront development Case studies Architectural issues Cultural heritage issues Intelligent environment and emerging technologies Planning for risk Disaster and emergency response Safety and security Waste management Infrastructure and society Urban metabolism

Sex and the Revitalized City Leslie Kern, 2011-01-01 Young single women emerged in the late 1990s as powerful consumers in the wave of real estate development that was reshaping the landscape of cities Reports claimed that condominium ownership offered women new found freedom financial independence and personal security But has home ownership truly empowered women or were the reports merely celebratory rhetoric that disguised more disquieting trends To get at the reality behind the rhetoric Sex and the Revitalized City explores the phenomenon from the perspective of planners developers and women condo owners to reveal that women s relationship with the city is being remade in the image of fast capital and consumer citizenship As filtered through condominium ownership neoliberal ideologies are not freeing women from constraints they are reinforcing patriarchal norms This fresh look at urban revitalization exposes the notion of women s emancipation through condominium ownership as a marketing ploy rather than a major shift in gender relations

The Nature of Cities Michael Bennett, David Warfield Teague, 1999-10 Cities are often thought to be separate from nature but recent trends in ecocriticism demand that we consider them as part of the total environment This new collection of essays sharpens the focus on the nature of cities by exploring the facets of an urban ecocriticism by reminding city dwellers of their place in ecosystems and by emphasizing the importance of this connection in understanding urban life and culture The editors both raised in small towns but now living in major urban areas are especially concerned with the sociopolitical construction of all environments both natural and manmade Following an opening interview with Andrew Ross exploring the general parameters of urban ecocriticism they present essays that explore urban nature writing city parks urban wilderness ecofeminism and the city and urban space The volume includes contributions on topics as wide ranging as the urban poetry of English writers from Donne to Gay the manufactured wildness of a gambling casino and the marketing of cosmetics to urban women by idealizing Third World naturalness These essays seek to reconceive nature and its cultural representations in ways that contribute to understanding the contemporary cityscape They explore the theoretical issues that arise when one attempts to adopt and adapt an environmental perspective for analyzing urban life The Nature of Cities offers the ecological component often missing from cultural analyses of the city and the urban perspective often lacking in environmental approaches to contemporary culture By bridging the historical gap between environmentalism cultural studies and urban experience the book makes a statement of lasting importance to the development of the ecocritical movement

Viswanath,2013-03-05 Building on a growing movement within developing countries in Latin America Africa and Asia Pacific as well as Europe and North America this book documents cutting edge practice and builds theory around a rights based approach to women s safety in the context of poverty reduction and social inclusion Drawing upon two decades of research and grassroots action on safer cities for women and everyone this book is about the right to an inclusive city The first part of the book describes the challenges that women face regarding access to essential services housing security liveability and mobility The second part of the book critically examines programs projects and ideas that are working to make cities safer Building Inclusive Cities takes a cross cultural learning perspective from action research occurring throughout the world and translates this research into theoretical conceptualizations to inform the literature on planning and urban management in both developing and developed countries This book is intended to inspire both thought and action Rural-urban

Transformations Mahmoud Bah,2003 Understanding Cities Alexander R. Cuthbert,2011 Understanding Cities is richly textured complex and challenging It creates the vital link between urban design theory and praxis and opens the required methodological gateway to a new and unified field of urban design Using spatial political economy as his most important reference point Alexander Cuthbert both interrogates and challenges mainstream urban design and provides an alternative and viable comprehensive framework for a new synthesis He rejects the idea of yet another theory in urban design and chooses instead to construct the necessary intellectual and conceptual scaffolding for what he terms The New Urban Design Building both on Michel de Certeau s concept of heterology thinking about thinking and on the framework of his previous books Designing Cities and The Form of Cities Cuthbert uses his prior adopted framework history philosophy politics culture gender environment aesthetics typologies and pragmatics to create three integrated texts Overall the trilogy allows a new field of urban design to emerge Pre existing and new knowledge are integrated across all three volumes of which Understanding Cities is the culminating text The Atmospheric City Mikkel Bille,Siri Schwabe,2023-04-19 The Atmospheric City explores how people make sense of the feelings they get in and of urban spaces Based on ethnographic fieldwork of everyday life in Copenhagen Oslo and Stockholm it focuses on the atmospheric power of people places and phenomena While the predominant focus of current urban planning tends to rest on economic growth sustainability or offering housing transport and activities to an increasing number of city residents this book offers a different take based on recent discussions in the social sciences about how cities feel It calls attention to the mundane ways in which urban dwellers adapt and adopt their surroundings It argues that atmospheric cities are characterised by a fundamental porosity that affects how people relate to places This highlights why some places are sought after while others are avoided Through concrete examples of people being in and moving through the city the book shows how people attune and are attuned by designed urban spaces often at the margins of attention when they find comfort in the familiar and seek out the unexpected This book is aimed at researchers postgraduates and practitioners interested in urban design and how people make sense of the feelings it evokes It will be of interest to those in the fields of urban studies urban design planning architecture urban geography cultural geography cultural studies and anthropology Gender, Planning and Human Rights Tovi Fenster, 2002-09-11 Challenging the traditional treatment of human rights cast in purely legal frameworks the authors argue that in order to promote the notion of human rights its geographies and spatialities must be investigated and be made explicit A wealth of case studies examine the significance of these components in various countries with multi cultured societies and identify ways to integrate human rights issues in planning development and policy making The book uses case studies from UK Israel Canada Singapore USA Peru European Union Australia and the Czech Republic The Form of Cities Alexander R. Cuthbert, 2008-04-15 The Form of Cities offers readers a considered theoretical introduction to the art of designing cities Demonstrates that cities are replete with symbolic values collective memory association and conflict Proposes a new theoretical understanding of urban design based in political economy Demonstrates different ways of conceptualising the city whether through aesthetics or the prism of gender for example Written in an engaging and jargon free style but retains a sophisticated interpretative edge Complements Designing Cities by the same author Blackwell 2003
