Changing Face Of South Africa:

The Changing Face of Land and Conservation in Post-colonial Africa George Barrett, Shirley Brooks, Jenny Josefsson, Ngobile Zulu, 2016-03-22 The year 2013 marked the 100th anniversary of the 1913 Land Act in South Africa which legalised the violent dispossession and alienation of the African majority from the land. It is common cause that the alienation of land for conservation purposes introduced to Africa under colonial rule has continued more or less uninterrupted until today. However while nature conservation practices inevitably raise challenging questions relating to land and land use there has thus far been little concentrated effort to bring together scholars working on the land question particularly around issues of land tenure with those whose work focuses on questions of nature construction and the social impacts of conservation in an African context. Compiled from research presented at a ground breaking interdisciplinary conference held at Rhodes University in Grahamstown South Africa in 2012 the chapters in this book made their first appearance in a special issue of the Journal of Contemporary African Studies JCAS in July 2013. The book brings critical interdisciplinary analyses of the complex interrelations between contemporary neoliberal conservation practices in post colonial Africa into conversation with the well trodden territory of land use and contested land issues on the continent. Anchored by an intellectual curiosity about the extent to which past practices continue into the present and with what consequences the book provides fresh insights into the complex relationship between land and conservation in contemporary Africa. The Changing Face of Colonial Education in Africa Peter Kallaway, 2021-07-29 The Changing Face of Colonial Education in Africa offers a detailed and nuanced perspective of colonial history based on 15 years of research that throws fresh light on the complexities of African history and the colonial world of the first half of the twentieth century. It provides an analytical background to the history of education in the colonial context by balancing contributions by missionary agencies colonial government humanitarian agencies scientific experts and African agents. It offers a foundation for the analysis of modern educational policy for the postcolonial state. It attempts to move beyond clichés about colonial education to an understanding of the complexities of how educational policy was developed in different places at different times while giving credence to arguments that see schooling as a form of social control in the colonial environment. It is essential reading for academics researchers and policymakers looking to better understand colonial education and contextualize modern developments related to the decolonizing African education. It is intended to provide an essential background for policy makers by demonstrating the significance of a historical perspective for an understanding of contemporary educational challenges in Africa and elsewhere. The Changing Face of African Literature / Les nouveaux visages de la littérature africaine, 2009-01-01 The Changing Face of African Literature combines both the large picture a synopsis of current trends in African literature and the small studies of individual texts and of themes across several texts. The large and the small are linked by recurring themes such as gender and sexuality the nation state and its collapse AIDS war and suffering. The volume is comparative bringing together literature in at least five languages and from at least ten national literatures. Such a large comparative frame is implied by most discussion of African literature but is too seldom seen. At the same time the collection also problematizes the comparison: the goal is to make clear what African literatures have in common but also where they diverge. What difference do distinct literary traditions, readerships and publishing patterns make to literatures which share a common thematic and so many of the same questions and needs? By juxtaposing contemporary texts from several traditions the intention of this collection is to bring out the themes that are currently dominant in African literatures generally. After a preface by Liz Gunner and a wide ranging introduction by the editors the collection presents keynote essays on new paradigms in African literature before treating specific themes: recent crime fiction, the Afrikaans and anglophone novel, feminist literature, migration and studies of recent works by individual authors such as Andr  Brink, Henri Djombo, Pie Tshibanda, Bessora, Nadine Gordimer and Paulina Chiziane as well as the South African television series Yizo Yizo.

The Changing Face of the "Native Speaker" Nikolay Slavkov, S lvia Melo-Pfeifer, Nadja Kerschhofer-Puhalo, 2021-11-22. The notion of the native speaker and its undertones of ultimate language competence, language ownership and social status has been problematized by various researchers arguing that the ensuing monolingual norms and assumptions are flawed or inequitable in a global super-diverse world. However such norms are still ubiquitous in educational, institutional and social settings, in political structures and in research paradigms. This collection offers voices from various contexts and corners of the world and further challenges the native speaker construct adopting poststructuralist and postcolonial perspectives. It includes conceptual, methodological, educational and practice oriented contributions. Topics span language minorities, intercomprehension, plurilingualism and pluriculturalism, translanguaging, teacher education, new speakers, language background, profiling, heritage languages and learner identity among others. Collectively the authors paint the portrait of the changing face of the native speaker while also strengthening a new global agenda in multilingualism and social justice. These diverse and interconnected contributions are meant to inspire researchers, university students, educators, policy makers and beyond.

The Evolving Structure of South Africa's Economy Seeraj Mohamed, Amuzweni Ngoma, 2024-01-23. South Africa still faces low economic growth and high unemployment coupled with the persistent challenges of poverty and inequality. These exert pressure on South Africa to foster structural transformation that will facilitate a more inclusive and resilient economy. Authors apply multiple theoretical and empirical perspectives to take stock of the historical and contemporary structure of the South African economy, its evolving nature and possible future pathways. They explore how South Africa's structural transformation agenda is affected by the global context and discuss debates on the extreme social impacts of globalised and financialised economic structures. Contributors offer technical and analytical discussions of the overlapping structural faultlines that produce uneven economic performance. They explain the changes and continuities of South Africa's economic structure bound by an analytical thread that centres power relations and political settlements. Varied chapters explain how poor governance and corruption have slowed down structural reform This has been further exacerbated by the inconsistent availability of energy and the deterioration of logistics The book details the structural reforms and policy regimes necessary for increasing productive capacity in South Africa s agriculture manufacturing agro processing retail and services energy and mining industries It also reflects on the role that micro and informal enterprises can play if afforded the necessary support The technical details and analyses in the book highlight the need for a radical review of macroeconomic policy to reduce the country s chronic vulnerability to poverty and inequality

Antonio Andreoni,Pamela Mondliwa,Simon Roberts,Fiona Tregenna,2021 Taking South Africa as an important case study of the challenges of structural transformation Structural Transformation in South Africa offers a new micro meso level framework and evidence linking country specific and global dynamics of change with a focus on the current challenges and opportunities faced by middle income countries Detailed analyses of industry groupings and interests in South Africa reveal the complex set of interlocking country specific factors which have hampered structural transformation over several decades but also the emerging productive areas and opportunities for structural change The structural transformation trajectory of South Africa presents a unique country case given its industrial structure concentration and highly internationalized economy as well as the objective of black economic empowerment Structural Transformation in South Africa links these micro meso dynamics to global forces driving economic institutional and social change This include digital industrialization global value chain consolidation financialization environmental and other sustainability challenges which are reshaping structural transformation dynamics across middle income countries like South Africa While these new drivers of change are disrupting existing industries and interests in some areas in others they are reinforcing existing trends and configurations of power The book analyses the ways in which both the domestic and global drivers of structural transformation shape and in some cases are shaped by a country s political settlement and its evolution By focusing on the political economy of structural transformation the book disentangles the specific dynamics underlying the South African experience of the middle income country conundrum In so doing it brings to light the broader challenges faced by similar countries in achieving structural transformation via industrial policies

South Africa: Limits To Change

Hein Marais,2001-09-08 Drawing on the rich structural and political understandings of radical South African intellectuals this book explains why the South African government has been unable to breach the boundaries of change erected by the privileged classes It reveals why it has adopted conservative economic policies and why the country s popular movement has failed to press home more radical opinions Hein Marais compellingly probes the hidden dynamics of South Africa s transition arguing that the democratic breakthrough was much less open ended than generally believed

The Politics of Public Space Setha Low, Neil Smith, 2013-01-11 Why is public space disappearing Why is this disappearance important to democratic politics and how has it become an international phenomenon Public spaces are no longer democratic spaces but instead centres of private commerce and consumption and even surveillance and police control The Politics of Public Space extends the focus of current work on public space to include a consideration of the transnational in the sense of moving people and transformations in the nation or state to expand our definition of the public and public space Ultimately public spaces are one of the last democratic forums for public dissent in a civil society Without these significant central public spaces individuals cannot directly participate in conflict resolution The Politics of Public Space assembles a superb list of contributors to explore the important political dimensions of public space as a place where conflicts over cultural and political objectives become concrete

Cities in Transition Rita Schneider-Sliwa, 2006-01-23 This book was written with the aim of showing that even in the era of globalization developments appearing in cities are not subject to almost unconditional global forces Rather universal forces are decisive eventualities in the process of urban restructuring often influencing its course and speed yet developments and particularities within a city strongly influence the course of events and the extent to which negative characteristics of globalization might occur Berlin Brussels Hanoi Ho Chi Minh City Hong Kong Jerusalem Johannesburg Moscow St Petersburg Sarajevo and Vienna Using these important cities the special relationship between global and local regional forces is analyzed The case studies were selected based on their political and cultural context and the fact that their social and political fabric was subject to major changes in the recent past How global processes manifest themselves locally depends to a great extent on how development processes and endogenic potentials are initiated locally in order to cope with the new global economic and societal conditions

Transforming Universities in South Africa , 2020-08-31 The idea of transformation in higher education underpins all policy documents academic literature and on going debates in South Africa Transforming Universities in South Africa Pathways to Higher Education Reform responds to the pressing need to comprehensively review the post apartheid experience and assess where South Africa's higher education stands across the continent and globally particularly within the country's efforts to overcome decades of socio-economic imbalances. It addresses the question of whether South Africa's transformation strategy from apartheid to democracy was simply a symbolic new flag-raising and new anthem singing exercise reflecting a transition akin to those limited decolonization projects elsewhere in the world or whether something more fundamental was possible and was achieved with political and policy implications for other countries in Africa and globally. This volume's ultimate purpose is to provide a basis for imagining new futures in which South Africa higher education in the context of Africa and the global world takes centre stage.

Reforming Civil-Military Relations in New Democracies, Aurel Croissant, David Kuehn, 2017-03-20. This book addresses the challenge of reforming defense and military policy making in newly democratized nations. By tracing the development of civil-military relations in various new democracies from a comparative perspective, it links two bodies of scholarship that thus far have remained largely separate: the study of emerging or failed civilian control over armed forces on the one hand, and work on the roots and causes of military effectiveness to guarantee the protection and security of citizens on the other. The empirical and theoretical findings presented here will appeal to scholars of civil-military relations, democratization, and security issues, as well as to defense policy makers.

Doctors in a Divided Society, Mignonne Breier, Angelique Wildschut, 2006. Many of the goals of South Africa's new democracy depend on the production of professionals who have not only the knowledge and skills to make our country globally competitive but also a commitment to working and living here. Despite numerous reforms, the South African health system ten years into democracy remains divided: first-world private care that ranks with middle-income countries internationally at the one end, and at the other extreme, in the rural public sector, in particular conditions that are superior only to the poorest of African countries. Much work has been done to change medical school curricula in line with the primary health care focus of government policy and international trends towards problem-based learning. The student profile in medical schools is now not only more representative of the demographics of South Africa but also reveals a significant increase in female students. Whether these students will stay in the country after graduating and serve where they are needed most remains to be seen. Publisher's website Writing, Politics and Change in South Africa after Apartheid Christopher Warnes, 2023-06-08 This book shows how South African writing can help us to understand change after apartheid It aims to shift the attention of literary criticism away from a narrow set of highbrow South African authors and towards a wider range of texts including popular fiction The object of analysis at its largest level is the South African polity as it veered between the hopeful optimism of the Rainbow nation under Nelson Mandela the murderous muddling of Thabo Mbeki and the captured state under Jacob Zuma Questions of a political economic and sociological cast are central with changes in the workplace land reform indigenous knowledge xenophobia corruption and crime providing specific points of focus Writing Politics and Change in South Africa after Apartheid shows how creative literature of the post apartheid period has a unique and powerful capacity to illuminate these issues and to intervene in our understanding of them The Changing Face of Canada Roderic P.
