Changing Parental Attitudes Through Group Discussion Carl F. Hereford, 1963 Evaluating Competencies Thomas Grisso, 2006-01-27 As in its first edition this book offers a conceptual model for understanding the nature of legal competencies The model is interpreted to assist mental health professionals in designing and performing assessments for legal competencies defined in criminal and civil law and to guide research that will improve the practice of evaluations for legal competencies A special feature is the book's evaluative review of specialized forensic assessment instruments for each of several legal competencies Three fourths of the 37 instruments reviewed in the second edition are new and thus were not reviewed in the first edition Application of the assessment model and reviews of instruments are provided for six areas of legal competence Competence to Stand Trial Waiver of Rights to Silence and Legal Counsel Not Guilty by Reason of Insanity Parenting Capacity Determination of Child Custody Guardianship and Conservatorship and Competence to Consent to Treatment Report on Preschool Programs Marian S. Mesibov, 1986-02-28 An important component of Division TEACCH's mandate from the Department of Psychiatry of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine and the North Carolina State Legislature is to conduct research aimed toward improving the understanding of developmental disabilities such as autism and to train the professionals who will be needed to work with this challenging population An important mechanism to help meet these goals is our annual conference on topics of special importance for the understanding and treatment of autism and related disorders As with the preceding books in this series entitled Current Issues in Autism this most recent volume is based on one of these conferences The books are not however simply published proceedings of conference papers Instead certain conference participants were asked to develop chapters around their presentations and other national and international experts whose work is beyond the scope of the conference but related to the conference theme were asked to contribute manuscripts as well These volumes are intended to provide the most current knowledge and professional practice available to us at this time Federal Probation, 1955 Volunteer Programs in strategies The main aim of this book was to provide a summary of the research relevant to these issues and to offer practical guidelines to those who were interested in training or being trained as behaviour therapists For this reason there are chapters by researchers who have been involved in training parents nurses and teachers These chapters provide a detailed account of training in a form that was rarely available in published form at the time and even today should be of great assistance to readers Research Grants Index National Institutes of Health (U.S.). Growing Up Global Institute of Medicine,National Research Council,Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Board on Children, Youth, and Families,Committee on Population,Panel on Transitions to Adulthood in Developing Countries,2005-06-25 The challenges for young people making the transition to adulthood are greater today than ever before Globalization with its power to reach across national boundaries and into the smallest communities carries with it the transformative power of new markets and new technology At the same time globalization brings with it new ideas and lifestyles that can conflict with traditional norms and values And while the economic benefits are potentially enormous the actual course of globalization has not been without its critics who charge that to date the gains have been very unevenly distributed generating a new set of problems associated with rising inequality and social polarization Regardless of how the globalization debate is resolved it is clear that as broad global forces transform the world in which the next generation will live and work the choices that today s young people make or others make on their behalf will facilitate or constrain their success as adults Traditional expectations regarding future employment prospects and life experiences are no longer valid Growing Up Global examines how the transition to adulthood is changing in developing countries and what the implications of these changes might be for those responsible for designing youth policies and programs in particular those affecting adolescent reproductive health The report sets forth a framework that identifies criteria for successful transitions in the context of contemporary global changes for five key adult roles adult worker citizen and community participant spouse parent and household manager Research Relating to Children Clearinghouse for Research in Child Life (U.S.),
