Changing Histories Australia And Japan:

Changing Histories Ryôta Nishino, 2011-06-16 The teaching of history in South African and Japanese schools has attracted sustained criticism for the alleged attempts to conceal the controversial aspects of their countries past and to inculcate ideologies favourable to the ruling regimes This book is the first attempt to systematically compare the ways in which education bureaucracy in both nations dealt with opposition and critics in the period from ca 1945 to 1995 when both countries were dominated by single party governments for most of the fifty years The author argues that both South African and Japanese education bureaucracy did not overtly express its intentions in the curriculum documents or in the textbooks but found ways to enhance its authority through a range of often subtle measures A total of eight themes in 60 officially approved Standard 6 South African and Japanese middle school history textbooks have been selected to demonstrate the changes and continuity This work hopes to contribute to the existing literature of comparative history by drawing lessons that would probably not have emerged from the study of either country by itself The dissertation won a publication prize at Georg Eckert Institute for Textbook Research

Australian Foreign Policy in Asia Allan Patience, 2017-12-12 This book sets out to discuss what kind of middle power Australia is and whether its identity as a middle power negatively influences its relationship with Asia It looks at the history of the middle power concept develops three concepts of middle power status and examines Australia's relationships with China Japan and Indonesia as a focus It argues that Australia is an awkward partner in its relations with Asia due to both its historical colonial and discriminatory past as well its current dependence upon the United States for a security alliance It argues this should be changed by adopting a new middle power concept in Australian foreign policy

Pacific Exposures Melissa Miles, Robin Gerster, 2018-12-19 Photography has been a key means by which Australians have sought to define their relationships with Japan From the fascination with all things Japanese in the late nineteenth century through the era of White Australia the bitter enmity of the Pacific War the path to reconciliation in the post war period and the culturally complicated bilateralism of today Australians have used their cameras to express a divided sense of conflict and kinship with a country that has by turns fascinated and infuriated The remarkable photographs collected and discussed here for the first time shed new light on the history of Australia's engagement with its most important regional partner Pacific Exposures argues that photographs tell an important story of cultural production response and reaction not only about how Australians have pictured Japan over the decades but how they see their own place in the Asia Pacific Pacific Exposures presents the first study of the photographic exchanges between Australia and Japan its photographers personalities motivations anxieties and tensions based on a diverse range of archival materials interviews and well chosen photographs Dr Luke Gartlan University of St Andrews Pacific Exposures will become a key text on Australia's interactions with Japan and the way that photographs can inform cross cultural relations through their production consumption and circulation Prof Kate Darian Smith University of Tasmania

Marriage Migrants of Japanese Women in Australia Takeshi Hamano,2019-05-30 This book investigates the experience of Japanese women who have immigrated to Australia through marriage to a local partner Based on long term participant observations gathered with a Japanese ethnic association in Sydney and on in depth interviews with the association s members it examines the ways in which the women remould themselves in Australia by constructing gendered selves that reflect their unique migratory circumstances through cross border marriage In turn the book argues that the women tend to embrace expressions of Japanese femininity that they once viewed negatively and that this is due to their lack of social skills and access to the cultural capital of mainstream Australian society Re molding the self through conventional Japanese notions of gender ironically provides them with a convincing identity that of minority migrant women Nevertheless by analyzing these women s engagement with a Japanese ethnic association in a suburb of Sydney the book also reveals a nuanced sense of ambivalence a tension between the women s Japanese community and their lives in Australia Accordingly the book provides a fresh perspective on interdisciplinary issues of gender and migration in a globalized world and engages with a wide range of academic disciplines including sociology of migration sociology of culture cultural anthropology cultural studies Japanese
