Translation as Muse Elizabeth Marie Young, 2015-09-05 Poetry is often said to resist translation its integration of form and meaning rendering even the best translations problematic Elizabeth Marie Young disagrees and with Translation as Muse she uses the work of the celebrated Roman poet Catullus to mount a powerful argument that translation can be an engine of poetic invention Catullus has long been admired as a poet but his efforts as a translator have been largely ignored Young reveals how essential translation is to his work many poems by Catullus that we tend to label as lyric originals were in fact shaped by Roman translation practices entirely different from our own By rereading Catullus through the lens of translation Young exposes new layers of ingenuity in Latin poetry even as she illuminates the idiosyncrasies of Roman translation practice reconfigures our understanding of translation history and questions basic assumptions about lyric poetry itself Decolonizing Translation Kathryn Batchelor, 2014-04-08 The linguistically innovative aspect of Francophone African literature has been recognized and studied from a variety of angles over recent decades yet little attention has been paid to what happens to such literature when it is translated into another language Taking as its corpus all sub Saharan Francophone African texts that have ever been published in English this book explores the ways in which translators approach innovative features such as African language borrowings neologisms and other deliberate manipulations of French depictions of sociolinguistic variation and a variety of types of wordplay The implications of their translation decisions are drawn out with reference to the broader significances that are often accorded to postcolonial literature and earlier critics calls for a decolonized translation practice are explored from both a practical and theoretical angle These findings are used to push towards a detailed investigation of the postcolonial turn in translation studies drawing on the work of key postcolonial theorists such as Homi K Bhabha and Gayatri Spivak This is a timely and incisive critical assessment of contemporary discourses on the ethics and politics of translation Postcolonial Literature Pramod K. Nayar, 2008 Less Translated Languages Albert Branchadell, Lovell Margaret West, 2005 This is the first collection of articles devoted entirely to less translated languages a term that brings together well known widely used languages such as Arabic or Chinese and long neglected minority languages with power as the key word at play It starts with some views on English the dominant language in Translation as elsewhere considers the role of translation for minority languages both a source of inequality and a means to overcome it takes a look at translation from less translated major languages and cultures and ends up with a closer look at translation into Catalan a paradigmatic case of less translated language in a final section that includes a vindication of six prominent Catalan translators Combining sound theoretical insight and accurate analysis of relevant case studies the contributors to this collection make a convincing case for a more thorough examination of less translated languages within the field of Translation Studies Words, Images and Performances in Translation Rita Wilson, Brigid Maher, 2012-02-02
