Droughts Food And Culture:

Droughts, Food and Culture Fekri A. Hassan, 2007-05-08 Recent droughts in Africa and elsewhere in the world from China to Peru have serious implications for food security and grave consequences for local and international politics The issues do not just concern the plight of African peoples but also our global ecological future Global climatic changes become manifest initially in regions that are marginal or unstable Africa's Sahel zone is one of the most sensitive climatic regions in the world and the events that have gripped that region beginning in the 1970s were the first indicator of a significant shift in global climatic conditions This work aims to bring archaeology with the domain on contemporary human affairs and to forge a new methodology for coping with environmental problems from an archaeological perspective Using the later prehistory of Africa as a comparison the utility of this methodological strategy in interpreting culture change and assessing long term response to current global climatic fluctuations is examined and understood Droughts, Food and Culture Fekri A.

Climate Change and Cultural Dynamics David G. Anderson, Kirk Maasch, Daniel H. Sandweiss, 2011-07-28 The Middle Holocene epoch 8 000 to 3 000 years ago was a time of dramatic changes in the physical world and in human cultures Across this span climatic conditions changed rapidly with cooling in the high to mid latitudes and drying in the tropics In many parts of the world human groups became more complex with early horticultural systems replaced by intensive agriculture and small scale societies being replaced by larger more hierarchical organizations Climate Change and Cultural Dynamics explores the cause and effect relationship between climatic change and cultural transformations across the mid Holocene c 4000 B C Explores the role of climatic change on the development of society around the world Chapters detail diverse geographical regions Co written by noted archaeologists and paleoclimatologists for non specialists Climate Cultures

Jessica Barnes, Michael R. Dove, 2015-01-01 Climate change is one of the most pressing issues of our times yet global solutions have proved elusive This book draws together cutting edge anthropological research to uncover new ways of approaching the critical questions that surround climate change Leading anthropologists engage in three major areas of inquiry how climate change issues have been framed in previous times compared to present day discourse how knowledge about climate change and its impacts is produced and interpreted by different groups and how imagination plays a role in shaping conceptions of climate change The Oxford Handbook of African Archaeology Peter Mitchell, Paul

Lane, 2013-07-04 This Handbook provides a comprehensive synthesis of African archaeology covering the entirety of the continent's past from the beginnings of human evolution to the archaeological legacy of European colonialism It includes a mixture of key methodological and theoretical issues and debates and situates the subject's contemporary practice

Ancient Middle Niger Roderick J. McIntosh, 2005-09-29 Survey of the emergence of the ancient urban civilization of Middle Niger The Emergence of Pressure Blade Making Pierre M. Desrosiers, 2012-03-13 Human development is a long and steady process that began with stone tool making. Because of this skill, humans were able to adapt to climate changes, discover new territories, and invent new technologies. Pressure knapping is the common term for one method of creating stone tools where a larger device or blade, specifically made for this purpose, is used to press out the stone tool. Pressure knapping was invented in different locations and at different points in time, representing the adoption of the Neolithic way of life in the Old World. Recent research on pressure knapping has led for the first time to a global thesis on this technique. The contributors to this seminal work combine research findings on pressure knapping from different cultures around the globe to develop a cohesive theory. This contribution to this volume represents a significant development to research on pressure knapping as well as the field of lithic studies in general. This work will be an important reference for anyone studying the Paleolithic, Mesolithic, and Neolithic periods, lithic studies, technologies, and more generally cultural transmission.

Anthropology and Climate Change Susan A. Crate, Mark Nuttall, 2016-06-03 Comprehensively assessing anthropology's engagement with climate change, this volume both maps out exciting trajectories for research and issues a call to action. Linking sophisticated knowledge to effective actions, Anthropology and Climate Change is essential for students and scholars in anthropology and environmental studies.

A Companion to the Anthropology of Environmental Health Merrill Singer, 2016-04-05 A Companion to the Anthropology of Environmental Health presents a collection of readings that utilize a medical anthropological approach to explore the interface of humans and the environment in the shaping of health and illness around the world. Features the latest ethnographic research from around the world related to the multiple impacts of the environment on health and of societies on their environments. Includes contributions from international medical anthropologists, conservationists, environmental experts, public health professionals, health clinicians, and other social scientists. Analyzes the conditions of cultural and social transformation that accompany environmental and ecological impacts in all areas of the world. Offers critical perspectives on theoretical and methodological advancements in the anthropology of environmental health along with future directions in the field.

Metal, Nomads and Culture Contact Nils Anfinset, 2016-04-08 The fifth and fourth millennia BCE saw major cultural changes in the southern Levant and Northeast Africa: the spread of agriculture, developments in animal husbandry, increased contact between cultures, and the use of alloy bronze. Metal, Nomads and Culture Contact integrates archaeological data from across the Chalcolithic period to contextualise these changes. The book examines the introduction of metal to the southern Levant, Egypt, and Lower Nubia, and the role of pastoral nomadism in cultural interaction and exchange. Metal, Nomads and Culture Contact will be valuable to scholars of archaeology and anthropology.

Climate and Cultural Change in Prehistoric Europe and the Near East Peter F. Biehl, Olivier P. Nieuwenhuyse, 2016-11-23 The subject of climate change could hardly be more timely. In Climate and Cultural Change in Prehistoric Europe and the Near East, an interdisciplinary group of contributors examine climate change through the lens of new archaeological and paleo environmental data over the course of more than 10 000 years from the Near East to Europe Key climatic and other events are contextualized with cultural changes and transitions for which the authors discuss when how and if changes in climate and environment caused people to adapt move or perish More than this publication of crucial archaeological and paleo environmental data however the volume seeks to understand the social political and economic significance of climate change as it was manifested in various ways around the Old World Contrary to perceptions of threatening global warming in our popular media and in contrast to grim images of collapse presented in some archaeological discussions of past climate change this book rejects outright societal collapse as a likely outcome Yet this does not keep the authors from considering climate change as a potential factor in explaining culture change by adopting a critical stance with regard to the long standing practice of equating synchronicity with causality and explicitly considering alternative explanations

Egypt at Its Origins Stan Hendrickx, 2004 This volume published in memory of Barbara Adams presents 57 contributions by authors from 16 different countries and contains the results of the latest research on Predynastic and Early Dynastic Egypt In addition to papers originally presented at the 2002 conference in Krakow there are the invited contributions by the friends and colleagues of Barbara Adams including several on new discoveries from and thoughts about the site of Hierakonpolis

Landscapes and Societies I. Peter Martini, Ward Chesworth, 2010-11-09

This book contains case histories intended to show how societies and landscapes interact The range of interest stretches from the small groups of the earliest Neolithic through Bronze and Iron Age civilizations to modern nation states The coexistence is of its very nature reciprocal resulting in changes in both society and landscape In some instances the adaptations may be judged successful in terms of human needs but failure is common and even the successful cases are ephemeral when judged in the light of history Comparisons and contrasts between the various cases can be made at various scales from global through inter regional to regional and smaller scales At the global scale all societies deal with major problems of climate change sea level rise and with ubiquitous problems such as soil erosion and landscape degradation Inter regional differences bring out significant detail with one region suffering from drought when another suffers from widespread flooding For example desertification in North Africa and the Near East contrasts with the temperate countries of southern Europe where the landscape effects of deforestation are more obvious And China and Japan offer an interesting comparison from the standpoint of geological hazards to society large unpredictable and massively erosive rivers in the former case volcanoes and accompanying earthquakes in the latter Within the North African region localized climatic changes led to abandonment of some desertified areas with successful adjustments in others with the ultimate evolution into the formative civilization of Egypt the Gift of the Nile At a smaller scale it is instructive to compare the city states of the Medieval and early Renaissance times that developed in the watershed of a single river the Arno in Tuscany and how Pisa Siena and Florence developed and reached their golden periods at different times depending on their location with regard to proximity to the sea to the main trunk of the river or in the adjacent hills Also noteworthy is the role of technology in opening up opportunities for a society Consider the Netherlands and how its history has been formed by the technical problem of a populous society dealing with too much water as an inexorably rising sea threatens their landscape or the case of communities in Colorado trying to deal with too little water for farmers and domestic users by bringing their supply over a mountain chain These and others cases included in the book provide evidence of the successes near misses and outright failures that mark our ongoing relationship with landscape throughout the history of Homo sapiens The hope is that compilations such as this will lead to a better understanding of the issue and provide us with knowledge valuable in planning a sustainable modus vivendi between humanity and landscape for as long as possible Audience The book will interest geomorphologists geologists geographers archaeologists anthropologists ecologists environmentalists historians and others in the academic world Practically planners and managers interested in landscape environmental conditions will find interest in these pages and more generally the increasingly large body of opinion in the general public with concerns about Planet

Environmental Infrastructure in African History Emmanuel Kreike, 2013-05-13 Environmental Infrastructure in African History offers a new approach for analyzing and narrating environmental change Environmental change conventionally is understood as occurring in a linear fashion moving from a state of more nature to a state of less nature and more culture In this model non Western and premodern societies live off natural resources whereas more modern societies rely on artifact or nature that is transformed and domesticated through science and technology into culture In contrast Emmanuel Kreike argues that both non Western and premodern societies inhabit a dynamic middle ground between nature and culture He asserts that humans in collaboration with plants animals and other animate and inanimate forces create environmental infrastructure that constantly is remade and reimagined in the face of ongoing processes of change

The Sahara Jeremy Keenan, 2013-10-18 This collection examines the Sahara holistically from the earliest prehistoric times through the historical period to the present and with political direction into the future The contributions cover palaeoclimatology history archaeology cultural heritage social anthropology sociology politics and international affairs Structured chronologically the volume can almost be read as a narrative of the Sahara from the earliest times to the present i.e. from the past climates of the Sahara in prehistoric times to the current war on terror and its implications for the peoples of the Sahara Importantly the collection shows how the region must be approached holistically highlighting the importance of each of these subject areas palaeoclimates history politics etc in relation to each other Indeed the first contribution is a remarkable and unique paper bringing together the work of some 89 internationally recognised scientists to tell the story and show the relevance to the present day of the Sahara's past climates etc Nearly all the contributions stand in their own right at the cutting edge of research in their respective fields e.g. archaeology history politics etc This book was previously published as a special issue of the Journal of North African Studies
