Drug-Induced Headache Hans-Christoph Diener, Marcia Wilkinson, 2012-12-06 M WILKINSON Patients with frequent or daily headaches pose a very difficult problem for the physician who has to treat them particularly as many patients think that there should be a medicine or medicines which give them instant relief In the search for the compound which would meet this very natural desire many drugs have been manufactured and the temptation for the physician is either to increase the dose of a drug which seems to be at any rate partially effective or to add one or more drugs to those which the patient is already taking Although there have been some references to the dangers of overdosage of drugs for migraine in the past it was not until relatively recently that it was recognized that drugs given for the relief of headache if taken injudiciously may themselves cause headache The first drugs to be implicated in this way were ergotamine and phenazone In the case of ergotamine tartrate the dangers of ergotism were well known as this was a disorder which had been known and written about for many years In the treatment of headache fully blown ergotism is rare and in recent years has usually been due to self medication in doses much greater than those prescribed although there are a few recorded cases where toxic amounts have been given National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1986 Medical and Health Care Books and Serials in Print ,1997 Medical Journal of Australia ,1989 Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 Forthcoming Books Rose Army, 2001-08 Books in Series ,1985 Vols for 1980 issued in three parts Series Authors and Titles Books in Series, 1876-1949 R.R.
