David Lenson, Jeff Land

Drugs And Perception:

On Drugs David Lenson, Jeff Land, 1999-03-01 It has been more than twenty years since President Nixon declared the War on Drugs In On Drugs David Lenson delivers a scathing indictment of this war as an effort based like all attempts to eradicate getting high on an incomplete understanding of human nature From lotus eaters to hippies to crackheads he contends history has shown the state s inability to legislate the bloodstreams of its citizens Lenson ventures beyond conventional genres to view the drug debate from the largely forgotten perspective of those who use drugs In successfully walking the fine line between the antidrug hysteria of the 1980s and an advocacy of drug use Lenson shatters the ban on debate regarding drugs enforced in the Just Say No campaign and reveals the myriad ways straight society demonizes the drug user After considering several specific issues associated with drug use including sex violence and money Lenson concludes with his vision of the end of the Drug War by questioning the sense in condemning millions of Americans to lives of concealment and deceit Drugs & Perception William A. Latin America provides a collection of rigorous empirical studies that contributes to a better understanding of the role and impact of old and new information technologies on Latin American economic development. It provides evidence using randomized and quasi experimental designed studies for different information and communication technologies interventions. In evaluating their development impact a critical concern has been to contribute to the little existing evidence. In fact, whereas many ICT projects in the developing world have been promoted by multilateral organizations, bilateral aid agencies and nongovernmental organizations in recent years, the extent to which these interventions and policies actually contribute to the development of the region is unclear. The book provides evidence on what works and what does not. The challenge in higher education : confronting and reducing substance abuse on campus., 2004.
