Although numerous studies have been made of the Western educated political elite of colonial Nigeria in particular and of Africa in general very few have approached the study from a perspective that analyzes the impacts of indigenous institutions on the lives values and ideas of these individuals This book is about the diachronic impact of indigenous and Western agencies in the upbringing socialization and careers of the colonial Igbo political elite of southeastern Nigeria The thesis argues that the new elite manifests the continuity of traditions and culture and therefore their leadership values and the impact they brought on African society cannot be fully understood without looking closely at their lived experiences in those indigenous institutions where African life coheres The key has been to explore this question at the level of biography set in the context of a carefully reconstructed social history of the particular local communities surrounding the elite figures It starts from an understanding of their family and village life and moves forward striving to balance the familiar account of these individuals in public life with an account of the ongoing influences from family kinship age grades marriage and gender roles secret societies the church local leaders and others The result is not only a model of a new approach to African elite history but also an argument about how to understand these emergent leaders and their peers as individuals who shared with their fellow Africans a dynamic and complex set of values that evolved over the six decades of colonialism The Shrinking Political Arena Nelson Kasfir, 2023-04-28 This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1976 The Allure of Toxic Leaders Jean Lipman-Blumen, 2006 Toxic leaders both political like Slobodan Milosevic and corporate like Enron's Ken Lay have always been with us and many books have been written to explain what makes them tick Here leadership scholar Jean Lipman Blumen explains what makes the followers tick exploring why people will tolerate and remain loyal to leaders who are destructive to their organizations their employees or their nations Why do we knowingly follow seldom unseat frequently prefer and sometimes even create toxic leaders Lipman Blumen argues that these leaders appeal to our deepest needs playing on our anxieties and fears on our yearnings for security high self esteem and significance and on our desire for noble enterprises and immortality She also explores how followers inadvertently keep themselves in line by a set of insidious control myths that they internalize For example the belief that the leader must necessarily be in a position to know more than the followers often stills their objections In addition outside forces such as economic depressions political upheavals or a crisis in a company can increase our anxiety and our longing for charismatic leaders Lipman Blumen shows how followers can learn critical lessons for the future and survive in the meantime She discusses how to confront reform undermine blow the whistle on or oust a toxic leader And she suggests how we can diminish our need for strong leaders identify reluctant leaders among competent followers and even nurture the leader within ourselves Toxic leaders charm manipulate mistreat weaken and ultimately devastate their followers The Allure of Toxic Leaders tells us how to recognize these leaders before it's too late African Politics in Comparative Perspective Goran Hyden, 2013 This revised and expanded second edition of African Politics in Comparative Perspective reviews fifty years of research on politics in Africa and addresses some issues in a new light keeping in mind the changes in Africa since the first edition was written in 2004 The book synthesizes insights from different scholarly approaches and offers an original interpretation of the knowledge accumulated in the field Goran Hyden discusses how research on African politics relates to the study of politics in other regions and mainstream theories in comparative politics He focuses on such key issues as why politics trumps economics rule is personal state is weak and policies are made with a communal rather than an individual lens The book also discusses why in the light of these conditions agriculture is problematic gender contested ethnicity manipulated and relations with Western powers a matter of defiance

School Desegregation Research Jeffrey Prager, Douglas Longshore, Melvin Seeman, 2012-12-06 The desegregation situation is the keynote theme of the following chapters I Each of them touches on a different dimension of the situation the historical the temporal the spatial But the reader perusing the essays with the situation in mind should remember that the desegregation situation should not be interpreted literally Authorities and adults certainly school age children probably are influenced by their awareness of a sequence of past and future situations Some may even operate with William James's 1890 p 608 notion of the specious present that has melted in our grasp fled ere we could touch it gone in the instant of becoming thus reducing the potency of the present situation Others may be dancing to a slower tempo of change thus becoming more responsive to the present situation Whatever the perceived tempo many must share the view that the future may reverse the direction of the past Some may see that new future direction as unswerving unending or long lasting others may see it as short lived And it is through attention to the phenomenological description of desegregation that these issues can be explored a theme that is considered in several of the following chapters

Cognition, Culture and Field Dependence - Independence Ayuba Y. Mshelia, 2008-07 This book has been in the making since my days at Ahmadu Bello University Zaria in the Faculty of Education I had always wanted to produce a book that is small and easy enough to read and yet succinct to meet the needs of the undergraduate or graduate students in Education who are preparing for their sessional exams The book has undergone considerable revisions to meet that target goal In part these revisions have been necessitated by the geometric increase in our knowledge of general psychology as well as science in the last two decades This is to say nothing of the psychology of learning The increase in our knowledge base has further been doubled by the new technology of the Internet Some have even argued that the availability of the Internet has rendered the publishing of such books redundant However I am convinced that books would continue to play a central role in our lives for the foreseeable future I had wanted to include most of the material that psychologists subsume under the heading of learning I have tried to include important topics as well as new developments in the field that I believe an undergraduate student will find useful Also included are cultural Implications which are applications of the general topic in a classroom setting in the relevant culture
