Between Two Creeks Terry L. Burden, 2025-02-13 Between Two Creeks The Reclamation of Amy Hawkins My Third Summer continues the story of a rural Kentucky community introduced in my first two publications in 2022 and 2024 The beloved people of the Valley of Two Creeks preserve the story's rural charm The story's main character and narrator Amy Hawkins enters her third summer as she reflects on lives of the people of Two Creeks and the continuing conflict between the terrorist group Dawn Robin and President Victoria Washington's task force This third summer sees the cooperation of the United States and Russia in the fight against terrorism A renegade Russian oligarch steals a nuclear weapon from Russia and brings it to the States to join forces with the American terrorists whose purpose is the assassination of the US President However something mysterious happens to the evil oligarch Sylya Ninsloka which the reader must discover The President of Russia sends an envoy to assist in the recovery of the weapon and the capture of Sylya Ninsloka This third offering of Between Two Creeks is filled with non ending action and miracle The beloved Karen Hanover from the second summer reappears Amy Hawkins continues to be a channel of good will as the blue glow works miracles throughout the story She is invited to enter the spirit realm of Shelumah Heavenly Light where she reaches a heightened level of skill and wisdom Amy becomes very close to the President and her family and continues to protect them During this third summer in the Valley of Two Creeks President Washington builds her new home on the Chandler Estate and the terrorists return accordingly to the Valley to complete the task they had failed the previous summer Themes central to this third offering include love family values Native American traditions patriotism and international relations

The Long Shadow of Extraction Christopher L. Carter, 2025-09-09 How resistance to extraction shaped Indigenous demands for autonomy integration or assimilation From the onset of colonialism Indigenous communities have faced seizure of their land labor and resources by non Indigenous actors In The Long Shadow of Extraction Christopher Carter argues that the native groups resistance to extraction took distinct forms and that this variation explains why some communities demanded autonomy while others demanded integration or assimilation Countering existing scholarship that assumes a universal demand for autonomy Carter shows that some Indigenous communities in fact refused government offers to recognize their local political authority and longstanding economic institutions Carter argues that contemporary Indigenous demands were forged in early twentieth century efforts to resist extraction Drawing on two emblematic Latin American cases Peru and Bolivia Carter shows that in communities where traditional Indigenous leaders organized resistance ethnic mobilization occurred and gave rise to enduring demands for autonomy or state recognition of Indigenous identities and institutions In communities where unions and leftist parties organized resistance class based mobilization became the norm This led communities to reject autonomy and demand instead integration state recognition of Indigenous identities but not Indigenous institutions or assimilation state recognition of neither Indigenous identities nor institutions Carter s groundbreaking account of Indigenous resistance has important implications for understanding not only the historical emergence of autonomy but variations in identity based mobilization in multiethnic democracies Shadow Medicine John S. Haller, Jr.,2014-07-08 Can Evidence Based Medicine EBM and Complementary and Alternative Medicine CAM find common ground A distinguished historian of medicine John S Haller Jr explores the epistemological foundations of EBM and the challenges these conceptual tools present for both conventional and alternative therapies As he explores a possible reconciliation between their conflicting approaches Haller maintains a healthy scientific skepticism yet finds promise in select complementary and alternative CAM therapies Haller elucidates recent research on the placebo effect and shows how a new engagement between EBM and CAM might lead to a more productive medical practice that includes both the objectivity of evidence based medicine and the subjective truth of the physician patient relationship Haller s book tours key topics in the standoff between EBM and CAM how and why the double blinded randomized clinical trial RCT came to be considered the gold standard in modern medicine the challenge of postmodern medicine as it counters the positivism of evidence based medicine and the politics of modern CAM and the rise of the National Center for Complementary and Alternative Medicine He conducts an in depth case study of homeopathy explaining why it has emerged as a poster child for CAM and assesses CAM s popularity despite its poor performance in clinical trials Haller concludes with hope showing how new experimental protocols might tease out the evidentiary basis for the placebo effect and establish a foundation for some reconciliation between EBM and CAM Into the Storm Kari Kilgore,2019-01-16 The Storm Strikes Iris Rutherford s paintings scare most people Especially the strange ones Even in her hometown of Maple Ridge Virginia her own peculiar magic makes her an outsider in a town full of them Then Iris meets Gena Wallace the first to understand To see the visions joyful and nightmarish even before Iris sees Will they survive as Iris s nightmares come true An excerpt from Into the Storm Did I say which this happens in Iris shivered as she stared at the painting Maple Ridge or Wolf Branch No honey you didn t Gena said Same with the one with the prison a couple of days ago I couldn t tell which But I think you re right It s one or the other I don t know what to do Iris paced back and forth looking at all of the true images growing stranger and more upsetting as the months passed If we go up there with food riots just a few hours away we might not ever get back I don t know what the hell the two of us could do about this anyway How long since you ve heard from your parents Gena caught Iris s hand then pulled her into a hug The phones have been out for the last couple of weeks Iris let out her breath in a rush trying not to cry They had it pretty bad over the winter Trees probably took out the phone lines Maybe the power lines too That s not what you re dreaming Gena said Nothing as simple as trees Something s wrong Those three paintings go together We just have to figure out why Catalog of Copyright Entries ,1940 Blood Red Kiss Kresley Cole,Larissa Ione,Gena Showalter,2016-09-20 Desire wars with duty in Forsaken by Night a MoonBound Clan novella from Larissa Ione Tehya has spent the last twelve years as an accidental wolf
