Drifting Architecture And Migrancy:

Drifting - Architecture and Migrancy Stephen Cairns, 2003-11-27 This book is an exploration of the often complex and unorthodox modes of dwelling that are emerging precisely from within the ruins of the idea of place Ethno-Architecture and the Politics of Migration Mirjana Lozanovska, 2015-12-22 Ethno Architecture and the Politics of Migration explores the interface between migration and architecture Cities have been substantially affected by transnational migration but the physical manifestations of migration in architecture and its effect on streetscape neighbourhood and city have so far been understudied This contributed volume examines how migrants interact with adapt and construct new architecture Looking at the physical urban and cultural impact of these changes on a variety of sites the authors explore architecture as an identity category and investigate what buildings and places associated with migration tell us about central questions of belonging culture community and home in regions such as North America Australia and the UK An important contribution to debates on place identity and the transformation of places as a result of mobility and globalised economies in the 21st century

Architecture as Cultural and Political Discourse Daniel Grincer, 2016-02-26 This book is concerned with cultural and political discourses that affect the production of architecture It examines how these discursive mechanisms and technologies combine to normalise and aestheticise everyday practices It queries the means by which buildings are appropriated to give shape and form to political aspirations and values Architecture is not overtly political It does not coerce people to behave in certain ways However architecture is constructed within the same rules and practices whereby people and communities self govern and regulate themselves to think and act in certain ways This book seeks to examine these rules through various case studies including the reconstructed Notre Dame Cathedral the Nazi era Munich Königsplatz Auschwitz concentration camp and the Prora resort Sydney's suburban race riots and the Australian Immigration Detention Centre on Christmas Island

Architecture and Urban Form in Kuala Lumpur Yat Ming Loo, 2016-04-08 Kuala Lumpur the capital city of Malaysia is a former colony of the British Empire which today prides itself in being a multicultural society par excellence However the Islamisation of the urban landscape which is at the core of Malaysia's decolonisation projects has marginalised the Chinese urban spaces which were once at the heart of Kuala Lumpur Engaging with complex colonial and postcolonial aspects of the city from the British colonial era in the 1880s to the modernisation period in the 1990s this book demonstrates how Kuala Lumpur's urban landscape is overwritten by a racial agenda through the promotion of Malaysian Architecture including the world famous mega projects of the Petronas Twin Towers and the new administrative capital of Putrajaya Drawing on a wide range of Chinese community archives interviews and resources the book illustrates how Kuala Lumpur's Chinese spaces have been subjugated This includes original case studies showing how the Chinese re appropriated the Kuala Lumpur old city centre of Chinatown and Chinese cemeteries as a way of contesting state's hegemonic national identity and ideology This book is arguably the first academic book to examine the relationship of Malaysia's large Chinese minority with the politics of architecture and urbanism in Kuala Lumpur It is also one of the few academic books to situate the Chinese diaspora spaces at the centre of the construction of city and nation By including the spatial contestation of those from the margins and their resistance against the state ideology this book proposes a recuperative urban and architectural history seeking to revalidate the marginalised spaces of minority community and re script them into the narrative of the postcolonial nation state

Migration, Settlement, and the Concepts of House and Home Iris Levin, 2015-11-19 How do migrants feel at home in their houses Literature on the migrant house and its role in the migrant experience of home building is inadequate This book offers a theoretical framework based on the notion of home building and the concepts of home and house embedded within it It presents innovative research on four groups of migrants who have settled in two metropolitan cities in two periods migrants from Italy migrated in the 1950s and 1960s and from mainland China migrated in the 1990s and 2000s in Melbourne Australia and migrants from Morocco migrated in the 1950s and 1960s and from the former Soviet Union migrated in the 1990s and 2000s in Tel Aviv Israel The analysis draws on qualitative data gathered from forty six in depth interviews with migrants in their home environments including extensive visual data Levin argues that the physical form of the house is meaningful in a range of diverse ways during the process of home building and that each migrant group constructs a distinct form of home building in their homes houses according to their specific circumstances of migration namely the origin country country of destination and period of migration as well as the historical economic and social contexts around migration

Bhabha for Architects Felipe

Hernandez,2010-01-28 This introductory book specifically for architects focuses on the work of critic Homi K Bhabha who s work has been used as a means to analyse architectural practices in previously colonised contexts This title reveals how his work contributes to architectural theory and the study of contemporary architectures in general not only in colonial and postcolonial contexts The Routledge Companion to Contemporary Architectural History Duanfang Lu,2023-07-31 The Routledge Companion to Contemporary Architectural History offers a comprehensive and up to date knowledge report on recent developments in architectural production and research Divided into three parts Practices Interrogations and Innovations this book charts diversity criticality and creativity in architectural interventions to meet challenges and enact changes in different parts of the world through featured exemplars and fresh theoretical orientations The collection features 29 chapters written by leading architectural scholars and highlights the reciprocity between the historical and the contemporary research and practice and disciplinary and professional knowledge Providing an essential map for navigating the complex currents of contemporary architecture the Companion will interest students academics and practitioners who wish to bolster their understanding of built environments The Urban Refugee Bülent Batuman,Kıvanç Kılınç,2023-11-24 The presence of the refugee in the contemporary metropolis is marked by precarity a quality that has become a characteristic feature of the neoliberal urban milieu Bringing together essays from diverse disciplines from architectural history to cultural anthropology and urban planning this collection sheds light on both the specificities of the contemporary urban condition that affects the refugees and the multi dimensional impact that the refugees have on the city The authors propose investigating this connection through three interlinked themes identity informality imagination and belonging place transnational homemaking practices and site the navigation of urban space In recent years there has been a significant growth in scholarship on forced migration particularly on the relationship between displacement and the built environment Scholars have focused on spatial practices and forms that arise under conditions of displacement with much attention given to refugee camps and the social and political aspects of temporariness While these issues are important the essays in this volume aim to contribute to a less explored aspect of displacement namely the interaction between refugees and the cities they inhabit In this respect the volume underlines the specificity of the urban refugee as well as their spatial agency and investigates the irreversible effect they have on the contemporary urban condition The authors argue that viewing urban refugees solely as dislocated individuals outside the camp like spaces of containment fails to understand the agency of the urban refugee and the blurred boundaries of identity that result The term refugee crisis objectifies and denies active agency to refugees homogenizing dislocated individuals and groups The neoliberalization of the past four decades has led to the precarization of labour and the displacement of refugees who frequently blend into the urban environment as hidden populations Refugees are subjected to constant surveillance and the state s attempts to control them However these attempts are not uncontested and the involvement of activist interventions further politicizes the urban refugee Landscapes of

Mobility Jennifer Johung, 2016-04-22 Our world is unquestionably one in which ubiquitous movements of people goods technologies media money and ideas produce systems of flows Comparing case studies from across the world including those from Benin the United States India Mali Senegal Japan Haiti and Romania this book focuses on quotidian landscapes of mobility Despite their seemingly familiar and innocuous appearances these spaces exert tremendous control over our behavior and activities By examining and mapping the politics of place and motion this book analyzes human beings embodied engagements with their built world and provides diverse perspectives on the ideological and political underpinnings of landscapes of mobility In order to describe landscapes of mobility as a historically socially and politically constructed condition the book is divided into three sections objects contacts and flows The first section looks at elements that constitute such landscapes including mobile bodies buildings and practices across multiple geographical scales As these variable landscapes are reconstituted under particular social economic ecological and political conditions the second section turns to the particular practices that catalyze embodied relations within and across such spaces Finally the last section explores how the flows of objects bodies interactions and ecologies are represented presenting a critical comparison of the means by which relations processes and exchanges are captured depicted reproduced and re embodied Immigrant

Industry Anoma Pieris, Mirjana Lozanovska, Dr Alexandra Dellios, Andrew Saniga, 2024-08-02 After the end of the Second World War migrants were critical to the spatial making of modern Australia Major federally funded industries driving postwar nation building programs depended on the employment of large numbers of people who had been displaced by the war Directed to remote rural and urban industrial sites migrant labor and resettlement altered the nation's physical landscape providing Australia with its contemporary economic base While the immigrant contribution to nation building in cultural terms is well known its everyday spatial architectural and landscape transformations remain unexamined This book aims to bring to the foreground postwar industry and immigration to comprehensively document a uniquely Australian shaping of the built environment Making Home(s) in Displacement Luce Beeckmans, Alessandra Gola, Ashika

Singh, Hilde Heynen, 2022-01-17 Making Home(s) in Displacement critically rethinks the relationship between home and displacement from a spatial material and architectural perspective Recent scholarship in the social sciences has investigated how migrants and refugees create and reproduce home under new conditions thereby unpacking the seemingly contradictory positions of making a home and overcoming its loss Yet making home(s) in displacement is also a spatial practice one which intrinsically relates to the fabrication of the built environment worldwide Conceptually the book is divided along four spatial sites referred to as camp shelter city and house which are approached with a multitude of perspectives ranging from urban planning and architecture to anthropology geography philosophy gender studies and urban history all with a common focus on space and spatiality By articulating everyday homemaking experiences of migrants and refugees as spatial practices in a variety of geopolitical and historical contexts this edited volume adds a novel perspective to the existing interdisciplinary scholarship at the intersection of home and displacement It equally intends to broaden the canon of architectural histories and theories by including migrants and refugees spatial agencies and place making practices to its annals By highlighting the political in the spatial and vice versa this volume sets out to decentralise and decolonise current definitions of home and displacement striving for a more pluralistic outlook on the idea of home

Diasporic Agencies: Mapping the City Otherwise Nishat Awan,2017-05-15 Diasporic Agencies addresses the neglected subject of how architecture and urban design can respond to the consequences of increasing migration Arguing that diasporic inhabitations can only be understood as the co production of space subjectivity and politics the book explores questions of difference belonging and movement in the city Through focusing on a series of examples it reveals how diasporas produce new types of spaces and develop new subjectivities in the contemporary European metropolis It explores the way in which geo politics affects individual lives and how national and regional borders inscribe themselves onto diasporic bodies The book claims that the multiple belongings of diasporic citizens half here and half there provoke a crisis in the standard modes of architectural representation that tend to homogenise and flatten experience Instead Diasporic Agencies makes a case for a non representational approach where the displacement of the diasporic subject and their consequent reterritorialisation of space are developed as modes of thinking and doing In parallel mapping otherwise is proposed as a tool for spatial practitioners to work with these multi layered spaces The book is aimed at spatial practitioners and theorists of all sorts architects artists geographers urban designers anyone with a general interest in mapping or those interested in working through issues related to migration and the contemporary city

Translocal Geographies Ayona Datta,Katherine Brickell,2016-02-17

Bringing together a wide range of original empirical research from locations and interconnected geographical contexts from Europe Australasia Asia Africa Central and Latin America this book sets out a different agenda for mobility one which emphasizes the enduring connectedness between and embeddedness within places during and after the experience of mobility These issues are examined through the themes of home and family neighbourhoods and city spaces and allow the reader to engage with migrants diverse practices which are specifically local yet spatially global This book breaks new ground by arguing for a spatial understanding of translocality that situates the migrant experience within across particular locales without confining it to the territorial boundedness of the nation state It will be of interest to academics and students of social and cultural geography anthropology and transnational studies

Home articulates a critical geography of home in which home is understood as an emotive place and spatial imaginary that encompasses lived experiences of everyday domestic life alongside a wider and often contested sense of being and belonging in the world Engaging with the burgeoning cross disciplinary interest in home since the first edition was published this significantly revised and updated second edition contains new research boxes illustrations and contemporary examples throughout It also adds a new chapter on Home and the City that extends the scalar understanding of home to the urban The book develops the conceptual and methodological underpinnings of a critical geography of home drawing on key feminist postcolonial and housing thinkers as well as contemporary methodological currents in non representational thinking and performance The book's chapters consider the making and unmaking of home across the domestic scale house as home the urban city as home national nation as home and homemaking in relation to transnational migration and diaspora Each chapter includes illustrative examples from diverse geographical contexts and historical time periods Chapters also address some of the key cross cutting dimensions of home across these scales including digital connectivity art and performance more than human constructions of home and violence and dispossession The book ends with a research agenda for home in a world of COVID 19 The book provides an understanding of home that has three intersecting dimensions that material and imaginative geographies of home are closely intertwined that home power and identity are intimately linked and that geographies of home are multi scalar This framework the examples used to illustrate it and the intended audience of academics and students across the humanities and social sciences will together shape the field of home studies into the future

Dark Writing Paul Carter, 2008-10-31 We do not see empty figures and outlines we do not move in straight lines Everywhere we are surrounded by dapple the geometry of our embodied lives is curviform meandering bi pedal Our personal worlds are timed inter positional and contingent But nowhere in the language of cartography and design do these ordinary experiences appear This Dark Writing argues is a serious omission because they are designs on the world architects and colonizers use their lines to construct the places where we will live But the rectilinear streets squares and public spaces produced in this way leave out people and the entire environmental history of their coming together How this book asks can we explain the omission of bodies from maps and plans And how can we redraw the lines maps and plans use so that the qualitative world of shadows footprints comings and goings and occasions all essential qualities of places that incubate sociality can be registered In short Dark Writing asks why we represent the world as static when our experience of it is mobile It traces this bias in Enlightenment cartography in inductive logic and in contemporary place design This is the negative critique Its positive argument is that when we look closely at these designs on the world we find traces of a repressed movement form Even the ideal lines of geometrical figures turn out to contain traces of earlier passages and there are many forms of graphic design that do engage with the dark environment that surrounds the light of reason How can this dark writing so important to reconfiguring our world as a place of meeting of co existence and sustaining diversity be represented And how therefore can our representations of the world embody more sensuously the mobile histories that have produced it Dark Writing answers these questions using case studies the exemplary case of the beginnings of the now world famous Papunya Tula Painting Movement Central Australia and three high profile public place making initiatives in which the author was involved as artist and thinker These case studies are nested inside historical chapters and philosophical discussions of the line and linear thinking that make Dark Writing both a highly personal book and a narrative with wide general appeal
