Framing Dropouts Michelle Fine,1991-03-05 I think this is the most important work I have read in over a decade on the sociology and politics of school dropouts Fine combines a narrative structure with a rigorous theoretical discourse that allows the reader to both hear the voices of those involved in the dropout situation as well as to have the opportunity to reflect critically on the ideological and material forces that structure the dropout issue as a social problem I am convinced that it will be a major influence in the field and will establish a new theoretical standard for inquiry into the area of school dropouts Henry A Giroux Professor and Renown Scholar in Residence Department of Educational Leadership Miami University As a critical ethnography this manuscript is thoughtful compassionate and compelling Fine is able to document the braiding of race class gender in sophisticated ways and this is one of the text s greatest strengths The link between those who drop out and the restriction of critique is powerfully achieved Fine has successfully re presented the complexities of urban education She should be applauded for her integration of black and feminist theorists I believe this text is pioneering It opens the literature on adolescents placed at risk to include contexts previously ignored This should be required reading for all school personnel future teachers and those associated with educational contexts Deborah P Britzman Department of Education State University of New York Binghamton What Fine does is show us in depth the reality of the situation we often wish would just go away We are forced to confront what pain is engendered by our public institutions and consider how we might take up the challenge to do something about it Roger I Simon Ontario Institute for Studies in Education

The Muslim Reality in India Ishtiyaque Danish,2016-06-08 The Muslim Reality in India is a collection of articles dealing with several aspects of Muslim presence in post independence India This edited volume highlights not only the problems the Muslim community is confronted with but also shows the way ahead The most obvious and visible reality in India is its pluralistic and composite culture Every multicultural society is a unique experience it creates and solves problems The book in your hand has discussed it very well Indian Muslims feel marginalized politically economically and socially Their educational status is pathetic to say the least But what has been frightening the Muslims the most is the frequent outbreak of communal violence There is also the lurking danger of uniform civil code which has the potential to violently polarize the country along communal lines Similarly wide spread discrimination and in some cases social exclusion are also important problems There are internal as well as external reasons behind the problems mentioned above The Muslim Reality in India is an attempt to analyse the problems objectively and find out viable solutions to them Like the causes of the problems the solutions too are both internal and external The Muslim Reality in India is thus an objective analysis as well as approach to solve the problems of the largest minority in the country

Catholic Schools William Sander,2013-03-14 In When Work Disappears Harvard sociologist William Julius Wilson 1996 notes that African Americans in Chicago who attended Catholic schools are viewed more favorably by employers than African Americans who attended public schools Such findings corroborate a widely though not univer sally held view that Catholic schools succeed in boosting mobility for children of less privileged families Can its success bebroadened Nobel prize winning economist Robert Fogel 2000 drawing upon the research by Wilson and oth ers suggests that Catholic schools might play a larger role in promoting an egalitarian society if grants were made available to poor students that could be used in the parochial school sector Nobel prize winning economists Milton Friedman 1962 and Gary Becker 1989 also make strong cases for education vouchers and for more competition in primary and secondary education in the United States From a different perspective Archbishop of Chicago Francis Cardinal George argues that Catholic education that is faith based that pro vides values and discipline that is Jesus centered has the potential to trans form the world Archdiocese of Chicago 2000b Despite such opinions there is controversy concerning the measured effects of Catholic schooling on educational attainment academic achievement and other tangible outcomes School Quality, Achievement Bias, and Dropout Behavior in Egypt Eric Alan Hanushek, Victor Lavy, 1994-01-01 Living Standards Measurement Study No 107 Lost investment opportunities for society and the inefficient provision of public schooling are just some of the reasons why developing countries are concerned with low school completion rates This study Education Achievements and School Efficiency in Rural Bangladesh Shahidur R. Khandker, 1996-01-01 Two of the largest World Bank investment projects in Bangladesh are the general education project and the female secondary scholarship and assistance project This paper evaluates the expected results of these educational projects using the household and school survey data recently collected in rural Bangladesh Bangladesh spends only 2 percent of its GNP on education compared to 3.2 percent in an average low income country and 6 percent in an average high income country Low investment in education results in low literacy only 35 percent which in turn results in low productivity low incomes poor health and above all high population growth To counter these trends Bangladesh has invested substantially in the education sector in recent years with the help of the World Bank and other donor agencies The objective of this investment has been to improve both the quality and quantity of education especially among the female population The general education and female secondary school assistance projects are in particular geared to promote better access to primary and secondary education as well as higher school participation and educational attainment Based on the rural household and school survey data on both supply and demand factors this report concludes that school interventions such as more and better schools better trained and educated teachers more female teachers and better water and sanitation facilities in schools promote literacy and improve school participation and school attainment rates Independent of school level interventions complementary investments in village infrastructure roads and electricity also have beneficial effects on educational outcomes The effects of all these interventions are more pronounced for girls than for boys Contains 28 data tables and figures Author TD A Comparison of High School Dropout Rates in 1982 and 1992 Phillip Kaufman, Marilyn McMillen Seastrom, David A. Sweet, 1996 The decade of the 1980s saw great change in the educational system This report examines the changing demographics of high school students over the last decade and investigates the impact that these changes may have had on high school dropout rates Specifically the study examined the changing nature of the high school population during the last decade and describes the different effects of various student level characteristics on the propensity for students to drop out of school between 1980 and 1982 compared to 1990 and 1992 The report provides data that depict changes in the characteristics of students families in students economic backgrounds in dropout rates and in the characteristics of dropouts Data show that during the 1980s a growing number of students with characteristics traditionally associated with school failure began attending high school at the same time high school dropout rates decreased by almost 50 percent The declines occurred among students with a variety of characteristics minority and majority students students in intact families and nonintact families and students with children of their own living in their household Many groups of students traditionally considered at risk for school failure dropped out at lower rates in 1990 than in 1980. However, there were other groups of students whose dropout rates did not improve. These were students from poor families who had histories of poor academic achievement and who had multiple risk factors in their backgrounds. The study used data on two cohorts of high school sophomores collected by the National Center for Education Statistics: the sophomore cohort of 1980 from the High School and Beyond (HSB) study and the sophomore cohort of 1990 from the National Education Longitudinal Study of 1988 (NELS 88). Appendices contain methodological notes, standard error tables, and multivariate analyses. Eight figures and 57 tables are included. LMI Social Security Bulletin, 1994

Addressing Inequities in Modern Educational Assessment Jorge Sainz, Ismael Sanz, 2023-11-14. This edited book focuses on the central and up-to-date issues that represent some of the most relevant challenges and limitations of International Learning Assessments (ILSAs). It specifically sheds light on the general effects of the discontinuation of face-to-face education on students at diverse academic levels during the COVID-19 pandemic. Through the lens of the most relevant experts of the field, it highlights the asymmetric effects on students based on family income, education level, or employment, imposing a heavy toll on those with less resources. It raises issues regarding the impact on the mental health of students and education professionals due to school closures. Modern education is shifting its focus from just scores to detailed qualitative feedback. Such comprehensive insights help students identify both strengths and growth areas, making assessments more constructive. This book is aimed for researchers in the field of educational assessments, graduate and postgraduate students, policy makers, and anyone interested in making informed decisions regarding ILSAs. COVID-19 brought immense educational challenges; it also presented an unprecedented opportunity to reassess and reform existing systems, steering towards assessments that are both fair and empowering.
