Cutler,P.K. Narang,2013-11-11 Clinical trials are the most definitive tool for evaluation of the applica bility of clinical investigations The main objective of clinical investiga tions is to assess the potential value of a therapeutic entity in the treat ment or prophylaxis of a disease or a condition It is also deemed necessary at this stage to obtain information regarding the undesirable side effects associated risks and their interrelationship with clinical assessments Most of these clinical investigations conform in some form or fashion to the guidelines adopted by the Food and Drug Administration FDA for a given class of compounds Clinical investigations in the past have not included specific studies in special or subpopulations e g the elderly Because of an ever increasing elderly population newer policies for clinical investigations are now being debated with the recognition of enhanced drug sensitivity in this special population This key research activity can lead not only to improved health care in the elderly but also to control of its costs Drugs and the Elderly Charlotte Kenton,1985

Aging and Drug Therapy G. Barbagallo-Sangiorgi,A.N. Exton-Smith,2012-12-06 One of the greatest advances in Geriatric Medicine during the last quarter of a century has been the increased realization of the possibilities of treatment for elderly patients Neglect has been replaced by a more optimistic therapeutic endeavour and countless old people have benefitted from this approach But there is also a drawback and this is the risk of hazardous side effects of medication which are often directly proportional to the biological potency of the drug and may be unpredictably increased due to changes in the senile organism In fact the anatomical and biological changes in old age alter both the kinetics of most drugs and the receptor response On account of these changes the individual tolerance of aged patients to drug therapy may be quite different from that of younger subjects Thus for a variety of reasons elderly patients receive more drugs but they are at a higher risk of encountering adverse reactions which often show atypical clinical features We can therefore speak of geriatric iatrogenic disorders and point out that some of these side effects are determined by a complex pathogenesis due to the particular pathophysiological condition in the elderly It is important to encourage the habit of individually evaluating potential risk versus expected advantages of drugs in keeping with the same principles adopted in the evaluation of cost benefit ratio

Drug Therapy for the Elderly Martin Wehling, 2012-08-17 With people aged 65 years and older currently making up the fastest growing age group throughout the world the demographic revolution of an aging society will inevitably lead to increased pressure to develop a rationalistic and age tailored process of diagnosis and treatment among the elderly As aging people often suffer from several chronic diseases and are being treated with multiple medications concurrently unwanted drug interactions occur more frequently Whereas recent approaches have recommended to remove particular drugs from the medication regimen to avoid adverse effects Drug Therapy for the Elderly underlines both indispensable and dispensable elements of drug treatment in order to provide an overall assessment of drugs suitable for the aged In view of the multimorbidity and polypharmacy situations experienced by elderly patients this book takes into account the special needs and requirements shown by this group thus serving as a timely reference for physicians who treat the elderly

Human Nervous System Serge Duckett, J. C. de la Torre, 2001-05-17 This book is a concise and practical compendium of neuropathological information for all professionals whose responsibility it is to make diagnoses, care, and help elderly humans afflicted with neurological and/or psychiatric disorders. The term neuropathology includes a multitude of disciplines including pathology, histology, genetics, immunology, biochemistry, radiology, etc. This disciplinary approach is reflected in this book. This new edition has been completely revised and brought up to date from the 20th to the 21st century. Basic neuroscientists were invited to contribute chapters explaining and describing basic scientific principles underlying the neuropathological disciplines. Also, additional information is provided concerning medic-legal issues, neuropharmacology, and a list of support groups for the elderly neurologically or mentally impaired in Brazil, Canada, Germany, the United Kingdom, and the USA.

Geriatric Anesthesiology Jeffrey Silverstein, Alec Rooke, J. G. Reves, Charles H. McLeskey, 2008-04-16 Geriatric anesthesia is a rapidly growing and evolving field, and this is the major revision of a classic anesthesia reference. The last few years have seen significant advancements and important new modalities for addressing the needs of an aging population. The editors of this second edition are uniquely situated to put together a text highlighting both essential knowledge and recent breakthroughs of importance to all who work with the elderly. This edition easily maintains the high standard for quality scholarship and useful material set by the first. Geriatric Rehabilitation Jennifer Bottomley, 2024-06-01 As the aging population continues to increase, so does the need for a text specific to the specialized care of the elderly patient as it applies to the physical therapist, assistant student, faculty, and clinician. Geriatric Rehabilitation: A Textbook for the Physical Therapist Assistant recognizes the growing role of the PTA in a variety of health care settings, from acute to home to long-term care settings, to name a few. Inside Geriatric Rehabilitation, Dr. Jennifer Bottomley, along with her contributors, focuses on the clinically relevant assessment, treatment, and management of the geriatric population. Pathological manifestations commonly seen in the elderly patient are addressed from a systems perspective as well as a focus on what is seen clinically and how it affects function Each pathological area covered includes Screening assessment and evaluation Treatment prescription Goal setting Modification of treatment Anticipated outcomes Psychosocial pharmacological and nutritional elements The organization and presentation of the practical hands on components of interventions assessments and decision making skills make this a go to text for the PTA to administer comprehensive geriatric care at each point along the continuum of care Some of the features inside include Emphasis on treatment interventions techniques tips and options Focus on how assessment tools and treatments are applied and modified to benefit the geriatric population and what the expected outcomes are Clear and outlined chapter objectives User friendly summary tables in the nutritional and pharmacology chapters Pearls that highlight important chapter information Appendices and study aids Geriatric Rehabilitation A Textbook for the Physical Therapist Assistant answers the call for a text that focuses on the management of geriatric patients across the spectrum of care for the PTA from students to those practicing in geriatric populations Handbook of
