Musicians' Migratory Patterns: The African Drum as Symbol in Early America Christopher Johnson,2019-10-16 Musicians Migratory Patterns The African Drum as Symbol in Early America questions the ban that was placed on the African drum in early America It shows the functional use of the drum for celebrations weddings funerals religious ceremonies and nonviolent communication The assumption that drums and horns were used to communicate in slave revolts is undone in this study Rather this volume seeks to consider the social place of the drum for both blacks and whites of the time using the writings of Europeans and colonial era Americans the accounts of African American free persons and slaves the period instruments and numerous illustrations of paintings and sculpture The image of the drum was effectively appropriated by Europeans and Americans who wrote about African American culture particularly in the nineteenth century and re appropriated by African American poets and painters in the early twentieth century who recreated a positive nationalist view of their African past Throughout human history cultural objects have been banned by one group to be used another objects that include books religious artifacts and ways of dress This study unlocks a metaphor that is at the root of racial bias the idea of what is primitive while offering a fresh approach by promoting the construct of multiple points of view for this social historical presentation

Societies of Brains Walter J. Freeman, 2014-03-05 This monograph from a leading neuroscientist and neural networks researcher investigates and offers a fresh approach to the perplexing scientific and philosophical problems of minds and brains It explains how brains have evolved from our earliest vertebrate ancestors It details how brains provide the basis for successful comprehension of the environment for the formulation of actions and prediction of their consequences and for cooperating or competing with other beings that have brains The book also offers observations regarding such issues as how and why people fall in and out of love the biological basis for experiencing feelings of love and hate and how music and dance have provided the ancestral technology for forming social groups such as tribes and clans The author reviews the history of the mind brain problem and demonstrates how the new sciences of behavioral electrophysiology and nonlinear dynamics combined with the latest computer technology have made it possible for us to observe brains in action He also provides an answer to the question What happens to a stimulus after it enters the brain The answer The stimulus triggers the construction of a percept and is then washed away All that we know is what our brains construct for us by neurodynamics Brains are not logical devices that process information They are dynamical systems that create meaning through interactions with the environment and each other The book shows how the learning process by which brains construct meaning tends to isolate brains into self centered worlds and how nature has provided a remedy first appearing in mammals as a mechanism for pair bonding to ensure reproduction of the young dependent on parents The remedy is based in the neurochemistry of sex which serves to dissolve belief structures in order to open the way for new patterns of understanding and behavior Individuals experience these changes in various ways such as falling in love collegiate indoctrination tribal bonding brain washing political or religious conversions and related types of socialization The highest forms of meaning for humans come through these social attachments

The SAGE Encyclopedia of African Cultural Heritage in North America Mwalimu J. Shujaa, Kenya J. Shujaa, 2015-07-13 The Encyclopedia of African Cultural Heritage in North America provides an accessible ready reference on the retention and continuity of African culture within the United States Our conceptual framework holds first that culture is a form of self knowledge and knowledge about self in the world as transmitted from one person to another Second that African people continuously create their own cultural history as they move through time and space Third that African descended people living outside of Africa are also contributors to and participate in the creation of African cultural history Entries focus on illuminating Africanisms cultural retentions traceable to an African origin and cultural continuities ongoing practices and processes through which African culture continues to be created and formed Thus the focus is more culturally specific and less concerned with the broader transatlantic demographic political and geographic issues that are the focus of similar recent reference works We also focus less on biographies of individuals and political and economic ties and more on processes and manifestations of African cultural heritage and continuity
