Drunk With Light:

The Deaths of Henri Regnault Marc Gotlieb, 2016-06-09 This is the first book in many years about the nineteenth century French artist Henri Regnault. Controversial and celebrated in his day, Regnault did not live long. He died at the age of 28 in the Franco-Prussian War, becoming a hero of the French nation. What sets him apart from the more conventional members of the French academy is his great skill in painting Oriental exotic subjects and doing so in a highly materialistic vein designed to produce through elements like gold paint, garish colors, and odd details, blatant amusement for the eye. In a word, his images are both delightful and awful. Gotlieb's book combines biography, history, and comparative readings of works by Regnault with those by other French artists such as Delacroix, Fromentin, and Renoir. It also importantly explores the afterlives of Regnault as a cultural and artistic figure, as well as his diminishment during the rise of modernism and his eventual demise in the history of art.

Perceptual Knowledge and Self-Awareness, 2024-10-04 There is a tendency in contemporary epistemology to treat perceptual knowledge and self-knowledge as labels for different and largely unconnected sets of philosophical problems. The project of this volume is to bring out how much is to be gained from treating the two topics as, on the contrary, intimately connected. One set of questions that comes into view when we do concerns the sense in which perceptual knowledge, as understood from the first person perspective, seems to be direct. In a famous passage, Austin contrasted reliance on what we call evidence with the way perceptual experience settles questions. How should we understand the difference? In what sense is perceptual knowledge direct, in contradistinction to evidence-based inferential knowledge? A connected set of issues has to do with the relationship between the epistemic authority of perception and self-consciousness. Is the way perceptual experience settles questions inherently manifest to the perceiver? Is a perceiver's awareness of, e.g., seeing that p to be explained by reference to the very capacities at work in seeing that p? Or does it reflect the operation of some kind of second-order perceptual capacity? Consideration of these matters in turn prompts questions about the nature of the first person perspective. I can see that p is a first person self-ascription. But does it express the distinctively immediate kind of knowledge commonly labelled first person self-knowledge? How would an affirmative answer to this question bear on a philosophical understanding of the first person perspective? These are rough indications of some of the ways in which reflection on the relationship between perceptual knowledge and self-awareness promises to shed valuable light on both topics.
