Incarcerating the Crisis Jordan T. Camp, 2016-04-18 The United States currently has the largest prison population on the planet Over the last four decades structural unemployment concentrated urban poverty and mass homelessness have also become permanent features of the political economy These developments are without historical precedent but not without historical explanation In this searing critique Jordan T Camp traces the rise of the neoliberal carceral state through a series of turning points in U S history including the Watts insurrection in 1965 the Detroit rebellion in 1967 the Attica uprising in 1971 the Los Angeles revolt in 1992 and events in post Katrina New Orleans in 2005 Incarcerating the Crisis argues that these dramatic events coincided with the emergence of neoliberal capitalism and the state's attempts to crush radical social movements Through an examination of the poetic visions of social movements including those by James Baldwin Marvin Gaye June Jordan Jos Ram rez and Sunni Patterson it also suggests that alternative outcomes have been and continue to be possible The Nature of Cities Michael Bennett, David Warfield Teague, 1999-10 Cities are often thought to be separate from nature but recent trends in ecocriticism demand that we consider them as part of the total environment This new collection of essays sharpens the focus on the nature of cities by exploring the facets of an urban ecocriticism by reminding city dwellers of their place in ecosystems and by emphasizing the importance of this connection in understanding urban life and culture. The editors, both raised in small towns but now living in major urban areas, are especially concerned with the sociopolitical construction of all environments, both natural and manmade. Following an opening interview with Andrew Ross exploring the general parameters of urban ecocriticism, they present essays that explore urban nature writing, city parks, urban wilderness, ecofeminism, and the city and urban space. The volume includes contributions on topics as wide ranging as the urban poetry of English writers from Donne to Gay, the manufactured wildness of a gambling casino, and the marketing of cosmetics to urban women by idealizing Third World naturalness. These essays seek to reconceive nature and its cultural representations in ways that contribute to understanding the contemporary cityscape. They explore the theoretical issues that arise when one attempts to adopt and adapt an environmental perspective for analyzing urban life. The Nature of Cities offers the ecological component often missing from cultural analyses of the city and the urban perspective often lacking in environmental approaches to contemporary culture. By bridging the historical gap between environmentalism, cultural studies, and urban experience, the book makes a statement of lasting importance to the development of the ecocritical movement.

Who's Your Paddy? Jennifer Nugent Duffy, 2014

After all the green beer has been poured and the ubiquitous shamrocks fade away, what does it mean to be Irish American besides St. Patrick's Day? Who's Your Paddy? traces the evolution of Irish as a race-based identity in the U.S. from the 19th century to the present day. Exploring how the Irish have been and continue to be socialized around race, Jennifer Nugent

Duffy argues that Irish identity must be understood within the context of generational tensions between different waves of Irish immigrants as well as the Irish community's interaction with other racial minorities Using historic and ethnographic research Duffy sifts through the many racial class and gendered dimensions of Irish American identity by examining three distinct Irish cohorts in Greater New York assimilated descendants of nineteenth century immigrants white flighters who immigrated to postwar America and fled places like the Bronx for white suburbs like Yonkers in the 1960s and 1970s and the newer largely undocumented migrants who began to arrive in the 1990s What results is a portrait of Irishness as a dynamic complex force in the history of American racial consciousness pertinent not only to contemporary immigration debates but also to the larger questions of what it means to belong what it means to be American Power Steering Michele Hoyman,1997 Saturn in Spring Hill Tenn Nissan in Smyrna Tenn Toyota in Georgetown Ky Honda in Marysville Ohio
