The great diversity Camilla Brautaset, Christopher M. Dent, 2023-09-04 This book brings together scholars from the universities of Bergen and Leeds who explore how we may understand different trajectories of development in Asia arguably the most dynamic and certainly the most diverse part of our world It asserts that there is no one singular truth on understanding development or universal model on prescribing future paths of development Evidence from Asia reminds us that the importance of locality in shaping development has not diminished despite deepening globalisation in the modern era Furthermore by accepting the prevalence of diversity we are able to learn certain lessons of development from each other both within and across scholarly disciplines The book explores how the concept of development is itself highly contested and there exist multiple narratives and discourses on the subject as demonstrated in this book This book does not seek to define development or prescribe a particular method of understanding it in an Asian context Rather it presents a number of works that in their own way touch on the subject of development and it lays bare the inherent diversity of development as an idea practice and experience It is up to the reader to reflect on how the evidence and arguments presented in each chapter resonates or not on their own understanding of development

The Marine Biology of the South China Sea III Brian Morton, 1998-07-01 The first conference on the Marine Biology of the South China Sea was convened in Hong Kong in 1990 to celebrate the opening of the Swire Institute of Marine Science The second was convened in Guangzhou China in 1993 The third conference returned to Hong Kong in 1996 and in a continuing pattern of growth was attended by 127 scientists and students from 14 countries and territories Of the 104 keynote addresses papers and posters presented at the meeting 42 are published here following critical peer review under the symposium categories of Taxonomy and Biological Diversity Biology and Ecology and Coastal Zone Management and Conservation of the Biological Resources of the South China Sea Each conference sets its own symposia themes but in view of the rapid perceived decline in the marine environment of the South China Sea and the overexploitation of its resources the 1996 meeting focused its attention on these issues There are many meetings related to marine science convened by the countries of the South China rim Some are national others are international but most are typically convened by agencies and attendance is restricted to an invited few usually senior scientists Europe hosts a European Marine Biology Symposium that is convened in a different country each year and which sets the meeting's themes The proceedings of those meetings constitute one of the most authoritative accounts of the marine biology of European waters The meeting itself provides a forum for scientists and students so that international collaborative research is now a key feature of European marine science First convened in 1996 the 32 symposia are a tribute to international co-operation in research in a marine environment that of itself knows no boundaries The South China Sea countries also need such a forum free of political dogma This conference proceedings is the third to help promote such an event hopefully one day at a greater frequency than three years The fourth conference is to be convened in the Philippines in 1999 This volume then is an international perspective on the South China Sea by scientists who research it and are concerned for its future It contains information that should appeal to marine biologists throughout the world and in particular to those in Asia

Environmental History and Ecology of Moreton Bay Daryl McPhee, 2017-08 The south east Queensland region is currently experiencing the most rapid urbanisation in Australia This growth in human population industry and infrastructure puts pressure on the unique and diverse natural environment of Moreton Bay Much loved by locals and holiday goers Moreton Bay is also an important biogeographic region because its coral reefs seagrass beds mangroves and saltmarshes provide a supportive environment for both tropical and temperate species The bay supports a large number of species of global conservation significance including marine turtles dugongs dolphins whales and migratory shorebirds which use the area for feeding or breeding Environmental History and Ecology of Moreton Bay provides an interdisciplinary examination of Moreton Bay increasing understanding of existing and emerging pressures on the region and how these may be mitigated and managed With chapters on the bay's human uses by Aboriginal peoples and later settlers its geology water quality marine habitats and animal communities and commercial and recreational fisheries this book will be of value to students in the marine sciences environmental consultants policy makers and recreational fishers

The Action Plan for Australian Mammals 2012 Andrew Burbidge, John Woinarski, Peter Harrison, 2014-06-02 The Action Plan for Australian Mammals 2012 is the first review to assess the conservation status of all Australian mammals It complements The Action Plan for Australian Birds 2010 Garnett et al 2011 CSIRO Publishing and although the number of Australian mammal taxa is marginally fewer than for birds the proportion of endemic extinct and threatened mammal taxa is far greater These authoritative reviews represent an important foundation for understanding the current status fate and future of the nature of Australia This book considers all species and subspecies of Australian mammals including those of external territories and territorial seas For all the mammal taxa about 300 species and subspecies considered Extinct Threatened Near Threatened or Data Deficient the size and trend of their population is presented along with information on geographic range and trend and relevant biological and ecological data The book also presents the current conservation status of each taxon under Australian legislation what additional information is needed for managers and the required management actions Recovery plans where they exist are evaluated The voluntary participation of more than 200 mammal experts has ensured that the conservation status and information are as accurate as possible and allowed considerable unpublished data to be included All accounts include maps based on the latest data from Australian state and territory agencies from published scientific literature and other sources The Action Plan concludes that 29 Australian mammal species have become extinct and 63 species are threatened and require urgent conservation action However it also shows that where guided by sound knowledge management capability and resourcing and longer term commitment there have been some notable conservation success stories and the conservation status of some species has greatly improved over the past few decades The Action Plan for Australian Mammals 2012 makes a major contribution to the conservation of a wonderful legacy that is a significant part of Australia s heritage For such a legacy to endure our society must be more aware of and empathetic with our distinctively Australian environment and particularly its marvellous mammal fauna relevant information must be readily accessible environmental policy and law must be based on sound evidence those with responsibility for environmental management must be aware of what priority actions they should take the urgency for action and consequences of inaction must be clear and the opportunity for hope and success must be recognised It is in this spirit that this account is offered Whalewatcher ,1999
