Designing Architecture Andrew Pressman, 2012-05-04 Designing Architecture is an indispensable tool to assist both students and young architects in formulating an idea transforming it into a building and making effective design decisions This book promotes integrative and critical thinking in the preliminary design of buildings to inspire creativity innovation and design excellence This compendium of individual wisdom and collective experience offers explicit guidance to students and young professionals on how to approach analyze and execute specific tasks develop and refine a process to facilitate the best possible design projects and create meaningful architectural form Here the design process from orchestrating client participation to finalizing schematic design is explored and illuminated The following material is presented to make the book a useful didactic tool for professional development explicit strategies for doing design rather than simply reviewing principles and precedents creative ideas in approaching and framing problems in design terms specific methods to translate ideas to culturally significant socially responsive and environmentally sensitive buildings techniques to integrate all levels of cognition from analysis to epiphany counsel on developing a personalized process for engaging design projects case studies augment the text and chronicle fascinating applications of the design process The essence of this book lies in an integrated and holistic approach to each unique project as well as fostering curiosity and exploration a departure from algorithms easy generalities or a formula for design Designing Architecture will inspire readers to elevate the quality of preliminary designs and unravel some of the mystery of creating the most beautiful responsive and responsible architectural design possible

Contemporary Architecture and the Digital Design Process Peter Szalapaj, 2014-04-23 Contemporary Architecture and the Digital Design Process introduces the reader to new developments in the computer modelling of design form in contemporary architectural practice through a series of detailed case studies The book illustrates how evolving design practices use and exploit the potential of new computing technologies in a wide range of areas and application A central thesis of this book is that technology follows design demand rather than design adjusting to available new technology. Designers are not merely passive recipients of prescribed computing tools and techniques. Instead, they are increasingly able to express their intuitive design ideas through the rational medium of computing. The book features several contemporary building projects, each of which introduces a range of CAD and computing issues based upon the work of creative architectural and engineering design practices. These include the offices of Frank O Gehry, Peter Cook, and Colin Fournier, Anthony Hunt Associates, Peter Hubner, Szyskowitz Kowalski, and Faulkner Brown. All these examples show what architects need to know and the skills they need to acquire to use advanced CAD technology.

The Architect's Handbook of Professional Practice, American Institute of Architects, 2011-09-26. Architects must be proficient in a variety of business practices to contribute to manage or launch a successful firm. They are responsible for the same kind of legal, financial, marketing, management, and administrative activities as any other professional. Within these broad categories, however, there are many details, including professional standards and documents that are unique to the profession of architecture.

Sustainable Regeneration of Former Military Sites, Samer Bagaeen, Celia Clark, 2016-06-10. Sustainable Regeneration of Former Military Sites is the first book to analyze a profound land use change happening all over the world: the search for sustainable futures for property formerly dedicated to national defense, now becoming redundant, disposed of, and redeveloped. The new military necessity for rapid, flexible response requires quite different physical resources from the massive fixed positions of the Cold War, with huge tracts of land and buildings looking for new uses. The transition from military to civilian life for these complex, contaminated, isolated, heritage-laden, and often contested sites in locations ranging from urban to remote is far from easy. There is very little systematic analysis of what follows base closures, leaving communities, governments, developers, and planners experimenting with untested land use configurations, partnership structures, and financing strategies. With twelve case studies drawn from different countries, many written by those involved, Sustainable Regeneration of Former Military Sites enables the diverse stakeholders in these projects to discover unique opportunities for reuse and learn from others' experiences of successful regeneration.

Design Professional's Guide to Zero Net Energy Buildings, Charles Eley, 2016-11-15. In the Design Professional's Guide to Zero Net Energy Buildings, Charles Eley draws from over 40 years of his own experience and interviews with other industry experts to lay out the principles for achieving zero net energy (ZNE) buildings, which produce as much energy as they use over the course of a year. Eley emphasizes the importance of building energy use in achieving a sustainable future, describes how building energy use can be minimized through smart design and energy efficiency technologies, and presents practical information on how to incorporate renewable energy technologies to meet the lowered energy needs. The book shows the reader, through examples and explanations, that these solutions are viable and cost-effective.
