Black Is Beautiful 1st Edition:

Embodiment and Representations of Beauty Esther Hernández-Medina, Sharina Maíllo-Pozo, 2024-09-06

Interrogating beauty's very definition this volume of Advances in Gender Research explores beauty as an avenue to create alternative knowledge as well as a conduit to engage in critical conversations on race ethnicity gender sexuality illness and fitness

Writing Black Beauty Celia Brayfield, 2023-07-20 Black Beauty is a novel that changed our world. Intended to induce kindness in a Victorian audience who relied on horses for transport travel and power it remains a dearly loved children's classic. Writing Black Beauty is the story of the remarkable woman who wrote this phenomenal book. Born in 1820 to a young Quaker couple Anna Sewell grew up in poverty in London. She was 14 when she fell and injured her ankle leaving her permanently disabled. Rejecting the limitations that Victorian society forced on disabled people she developed an extraordinary empathy with horses learning to ride side saddle and drive a small carriage. Rebellious and independent minded Anna left the Quaker movement as a young woman but remained close friends with the women writers and abolitionists who had been empowered by its liberal principles. It was not until she became terminally ill aged 51 that she wrote her own book. It was published in 1877 but Anna tragically died just five months later. After modest success in Britain Black Beauty was taken up by American activist George Thorndike Angell who made it one of the bestselling novels of all time. Using newly discovered archive material Celia Brayfield shows how Anna Sewell developed the extraordinary resilience to rouse the conscience of Victorian Britain and make her mark upon the world.

Resistance and Empowerment in Black Women's Hair Styling Elizabeth Johnson, 2016-04-08 Elizabeth Johnson's Resistance and Empowerment in Black Women's Hair Styling develops the argument that one way Black women define themselves and each other is by the way they style groom their hair via endorsement by the media through advertisement idealized identification of Black female celebrities and encouragement by professional celebrity hair stylists who serve as change agents. As a result hair becomes a physical manifestation of their self identity revealing a private and personal mindset. Her research answers the following questions: What is the relationship between Black females choice of hairstyles grooming and transmitted messages of aesthetics by the dominant culture through culturally specific magazines? What role do the natural hair blogs vlogs play as a change agent in encouraging or discouraging consumers grooming their hair in its natural state? What impact does a globalized consumer market of Black hair care products have on Hispanic Latinas and Bi Racial women? Are Black female Generation Y members more likely to receive backlash for failure to conform their hair to dominant standards in their hair adornment in the workplace? Johnson thus demonstrates that the major concern from messages sent to Black women about their hair is its impact on Black identity. Thus the goal of Black women should be to break with hegemonic modes of seeing thinking and being for full liberation. This critical and deep consciousness will debunk the messages told to Black women that their kinky frizzy thick hair is undesirable bad unmanageable and shackling.
