Black Journalists White Media:

Black Journalists, White Media Beulah Ainley, 1998 Black Journalists White Media is based on the experiences of journalists of African Caribbean and Asian descent. One hundred black journalists working in all sectors of the media including newspapers, television and radio were interviewed by the author. The book links the underrepresentation of black journalists in the white media to discrimination, direct and indirect, and demonstrates the weakness of the media unions in putting positive action and equal opportunity policies into practice. This book will be of interest to students, teachers and researchers in journalism, media and communication studies, sociology and race relations. Book cover

Within the Veil Pamela Newkirk, 2002-09 A candid front line report on the continuing battle to integrate America's newsrooms and news coverage, now available in paperback. Black Journalists Wayne Dawkins, 1997 ETHNIC MINORITIES and the MEDIA

Simon Cottle, 2000-12-16 What are the latest developments in the production, representation and reception of media output produced by, for or about ethnic minorities? What informs the questions media researchers ask and pursue when examining the mass media and ethnic minorities? What are the principal forces of change currently shaping the field? There are few media issues more pressing or potentially more consequential than the representation of ethnic minorities. This authoritative text therefore brings together leading international researchers who have examined some of the latest processes of change and continuity informing the field of ethnic minorities and the media. Numerous studies of race, racism and the mass media have been conducted in the past. However, both the media landscape and the cultural field of ethnic minorities are fast changing, and this book addresses the recent developments which have threatened to outpace our ability to map, understand and intervene in processes of change. Presented in an accessible style, this book provides the reader with an overview of the very latest research findings and informed discussion. It opens with an introductory essay which maps recent approaches to the field, followed by substantive chapters which are structured thematically to address key processes of change such as media representations, media production and cultures of identity.

The Press Geneva Overholser, Kathleen Hall Jamieson, 2005 With the guidance of editors Geneva Overholser and Kathleen Hall Jamieson, this superb collection of essays written by the nation's leading authorities on journalism illuminates the role of the press in a democracy, investigating alternative models used throughout world history to better understand how the American press has evolved into what it is today. The book also examines the history, identity, roles and future of the American press, with an emphasis on topics of concern to both practitioners and consumers of American media.

Race, Politics and the White Media Arnold Gibbons,1993-08-23 This book covers the two presidential campaigns of Jesse Jackson It examines the electoral system and points out among other things the structural difficulties which Jackson experienced in marshalling voters particularly in the south Gibbons asserts that the electoral system operated against him on several levels psychological factors that condition minds to think of individuals in terms of race first created an enormous barrier the active racist position adopted by the media lent disproportionate attention to Jackson and the patronizing position among the majority of Americans practically annihilated his chances of success Gibbons describes the 1984 campaign as the beginning of the mission while in 1988 there was the hope for real change The fact that Jackson did not succeed the second time is less important than the forces for change he unleashed The campaign reflected the cultural shaping of the media along lines of race and ethnicity also indicative of the entire nation s attitudes towards minority representation
