Black Language:

Language in African American Communities Sonja Lanehart, 2022-12-30 Language in African American Communities is essential reading for anyone with an interest in the language culture and sociohistorical contexts of African American communities. It will also benefit those with a general interest in language and culture, language and language users, and language and identity. This book includes discussions of traditional and non-traditional topics regarding linguistic explorations of African American communities that include difficult conversations around race and racism. Language in African American Communities provides an introduction to the sociolinguistic and paralinguistic aspects of language use in African American communities, sociocultural and historical contexts, and development notions about grammar and discourse, the significance of naming, and the pull of race and racism in discussions and research of language variation and change. Activities and discussion questions which invite readers to consider their own perspectives on language use in African American communities and how it manifests in their own lives and communities, and links to relevant videos, stories, music, and digital media that represent language use in African American communities. Written in an approachable conversational style that uses the author's native African American Women's Language, this book is aimed at college students and others with little or no prior knowledge of linguistics.

African American Women's Language Sonja L. Lanehart, 2020-06-12 African American Women's Language: Discourse, Education, and Identity is a groundbreaking collection of research on African American Women's Language that is long overdue. It brings together a range of research including variationist, autoethnography, phenomenological, ethnographic, and critical. The authors come from a variety of disciplines: e.g., Sociology, African American Studies, Africana Studies, Linguistics, Sociophonetics, Sociolinguistics, Anthropology, Literacy Education, English, Ecological Literature, Film, Hip Hop, Language Variation, scientific paradigms, e.g., critical race theory, narrative interaction, discursive, variationist, post-structural, and post-positive perspectives, and inquiry methods, e.g., quantitative, qualitative, ethnographic, and multimethod, while addressing a variety of African American female populations, e.g., elementary school, middle school, adults, and activity settings, e.g., classrooms, family, community, church, film. Readers will get a good sense of the language, discourse, identity, community, and grammar of African American women. The essays provide the most current research on African American Women's Language and expand a literature that has too often only focused on male populations at the expense of letting the sistas speak.
