The Concise Oxford Companion to African American Literature William L. Andrews, Frances Smith Foster, Trudier Harris, 2001-02-15 A breathtaking achievement, this Concise Companion is a suitable crown to the astonishing production in African American literature and criticism that has swept over American literary studies in the last two decades. It offers an enormous range of writers from Sojourner Truth to Frederick Douglass, from Zora Neale Hurston to Ralph Ellison, and from Toni Morrison to August Wilson. It contains entries on major works including synopses of novels such as Harriet Jacobs's Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl, Richard Wright's Native Son, and Lorraine Hansberry's A Raisin in the Sun. It also incorporates information on literary characters such as Bigger Thomas, Coffin Ed Johnson, Kunta Kinte, Sula, Peace, as well as on character types such as Aunt Jemima, Brer Rabbit, John Henry, Stackolee, and the trickster Icons of black culture are addressed, including vivid details about the lives of Muhammad Ali, John Coltrane, Marcus Garvey, Jackie Robinson, John Brown, and Harriet Tubman. Here too are general articles on poetry, fiction, and drama, on autobiography, slave narratives, Sunday School literature, and oratory, as well as on a wide spectrum of related topics. Compact yet thorough, this handy volume gathers works from a vast array of sources from the black periodical press to women's clubs, making it one of the most substantial guides available on the growing, exciting world of African American literature.

Gender and the Poetics of Excess Karen Jackson Ford, 2011-02-25 The argument posed in this analysis is that the poetic excesses of several major female poets' excesses that have been typically regarded as flaws in their work are strategies for escaping the inhibiting and sometimes inimical conventions too often imposed on women writers. The forms of excess vary with each poet, but by conceiving of poetic excess in relation to literary decorum, this study establishes a shared motivation for such a strategy. Literary decorum is one instrument a culture employs to constrain its writers Perhaps it is the most effective because it is the least definable The excesses discussed here like the criteria of decorum against which they are perceived cannot be itemized as an immutable set of traits Though decorum and excess shift over time and in different cultures their relationship to one another remains strikingly stable Thus nineteenth century standards for women s writing and late twentieth century standards bear almost no relation Emily Dickinson s do not anticipate Gertrude Stein s or Sylvia Plath s or Ntozake Shange s Yet the charges of indecorousness leveled at these women poets repeat a fixed set of abstract grievances Dickinson Stein Plath Jayne Cortez and Shange all engage in a poetics of excess as a means of rejecting the limitations and conventions of female writing that the larger culture imposes on them In resisting conventions for feminine writing these poets developed radical new poetries yet their work was typically criticized or dismissed as excessive Thus Dickinson s form is classified as hysterical and her figures tortured Stein s works are called repetitive and nonsensical Plath s tone is accused of being at once virulent and confessional Cortez s poems violent and vulgar Shange s work vengeful and self righteous The publishing history of these poets demonstrates both the opposition to such an aesthetic and the necessity for it

Revolutionary Diva Kimberly Nichole Brown, 2010-09-09 Kimberly Nichole Brown examines how African American women since the 1970s have found ways to move beyond the double consciousness of the colonized text to develop a healthy subjectivity that attempts to disassociate black subjectivity from its connection to white culture Brown traces the emergence of this new consciousness from its roots in the Black Aesthetic Movement through important milestones such as the anthology The Black Woman and Essence magazine to the writings of Angela Davis Toni Cade Bambara and Jayne Cortez

The Nature of Cities Michael Bennett, David Warfield Teague, 1999-10 Cities are often thought to be separate from nature but recent trends in ecocriticism demand that we consider them as part of the total environment This new collection of essays sharpens the focus on the nature of cities by exploring the facets of an urban ecocriticism by reminding city dwellers of their place in ecosystems and by emphasizing the importance of this connection in understanding urban life and culture The editors both raised in small towns but now living in major urban areas are especially concerned with the sociopolitical construction of all environments both natural and manmade Following an opening interview with Andrew Ross exploring the general parameters of urban ecocriticism they present essays that explore urban nature writing city parks urban wilderness ecofeminism and the city and urban space The volume includes contributions on topics as wide ranging as the urban poetry of English writers from Donne to Gay the manufactured wildness of a gambling casino and the marketing of cosmetics to urban women by idealizing Third World naturalness These essays seek to reconceive nature and its cultural representations in ways that contribute to understanding the contemporary cityscape They explore the theoretical issues that arise when one attempts to adopt and adapt an environmental perspective for analyzing urban life The Nature of Cities offers the ecological component often missing from cultural analyses of the city and the urban perspective often lacking in environmental approaches to contemporary culture By bridging the historical gap between environmentalism cultural studies and urban experience the book makes a statement of lasting importance to the development of the ecocritical movement
