

'Demonstrate and leaving the cleaning and cooking to us'

NEW YORK — Scores of New York Southerners will probably have to do some extra cleaning and cooking Aug. 28, according to William O. Roberts, executive director of the National Democratic and Abolitionist Workers' Association.

Roberts said the association has chartered five buses to transport Southerners to march in the New York metropolitan area to join the March on Washington. "Many of these workers, some of whom have been violently exploited and others who have been forced to work domestic work because other problems of unemployment have not been solved, is that we need to broad their vision to this historic protest for freedom and jobs," he said.

SKATING FOR FREEDOM — Ledger Smith, 27, Chicago, Ill., wheels down Michigan Ave. on an old pair of roller skates. Smith was determined to skate 600 miles to Washington in time for the civil rights rally. He carried two extra pairs of skates for his broken shoes and a 100-pound bag.

200,000 Voices Will Be Heard!

By ARTHUR HATFIELD

More than 200,000 civil rights crusaders can be credited with creating a turning point in American history.

As participants in the great March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom, they have given birth to a new national conscience which is demanding employment for all Americans without delay.

There is no way of telling now how much the Aug. 28 march will stimulate the actions of Congress in considering President Kennedy's civil rights program.

There is no question, however, that the impact left by thousands of civil rights marchers will linger on many a legislator's mind.

The march was the largest group protest for rights ever made in America.

Organized as a religious, nonpartisan basis, it accepted funds from all political party.

SHORT CIVIL rights crusaders believe that the marchers will come out as greatly to keeping the civil rights issue before the Congress and the American public until effective legislation is passed.

In a joint pastoral letter released by the National Catholic Welfare Conference and read in churches throughout the country on Aug. 22, the bishops pronounced their moral judgment on racial discrimination and segregation.

They called on 45 million Catholics in the United States to "express solidarity that includes the rights and responsibilities of our Negro brothers," a partial text of the letter reads.

It was day of triumph for Randolph

WASHINGTON — (AP) August 20 was March on Washington day.

But it was the day that marked the history of the civil rights movement for the first century decade. It was a historic day.

It was Randolph, a great orator and tireless campaigner, who was responsible for the marchable word of August 20.

Randolph, who is president of the International Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, led the marchers to the AFRO meeting center in the city.

SOME CIVIL rights marchers were arrested during the early days of the march. But it was not until the march on Washington that the marchers were arrested.

The marchers were arrested during the march on Washington. The marchers were arrested during the march on Washington.

March leaders had to call on military to solve problems. The marchers were arrested during the march on Washington. The marchers were arrested during the march on Washington.

Glaude, 2003-01-01 Believing that African American religious studies has reached a crossroads Cornel West and Eddie Glaude seek in this landmark anthology to steer the discipline into the future Arguing that the complexity of beliefs choices and actions of African Americans need not be reduced to expressions of black religion West and Glaude call for more careful reflection on the complex relationships of African American religious studies to conceptions of class gender sexual orientation race empire and other values that continue to challenge our democratic ideals Reclaiming the Black Past Pero G. Dagbovie, 2018-11-13 The past and future of Black history

In this information overloaded twenty first century it seems impossible to fully discern or explain how we know about the past But two things are certain Whether we are conscious of it or not we all think historically on a routine basis And our perceptions of history including African American history have not necessarily been shaped by professional historians In this wide reaching and timely book Pero G. Dagbovie argues that public knowledge and understanding of black history including its historical icons has been shaped by institutions and individuals outside academic ivory towers Drawing on a range of compelling examples Dagbovie explores how in the twenty first century African American history is regarded depicted and juggled by diverse and contesting interpreters from museum curators to filmmakers entertainers politicians journalists and bloggers Underscoring the ubiquitous nature of African American history in contemporary American thought and culture each chapter unpacks how black history has been represented and remembered primarily during the Age of Obama the so called era of post racial American society Reclaiming the Black Past is Dagbovie's contribution to expanding how we understand African American history during the new millennium Baltimore and Maryland Black History Stories
