Black Mesa Kayenta Mine, Proposed Permit Application for Operation in Navajo and Hopi Indian Reservations D,F; Maps to the Draft EIS ,1990 Power Lines Andrew Needham,2016-09-13 How high energy consumption transformed postwar Phoenix and deepened inequalities in the American Southwest In 1940 Phoenix was a small agricultural city of sixty five thousand and the Navajo Reservation was an open landscape of scattered sheepherders Forty years later Phoenix had blossomed into a metropolis of 1 5 million people and the territory of the Navajo Nation was home to two of the largest strip mines in the world Five coal burning power plants surrounded the reservation generating electricity for export to Phoenix Los Angeles and other cities Exploring the postwar developments of these two very different landscapes Power Lines tells the story of the far reaching environmental and social inequalities of metropolitan growth and the roots of the contemporary coal fueled climate change crisis Andrew Needham explains how inexpensive electricity became a requirement for modern life in Phoenix driving assembly lines and cooling the oppressive heat Navajo officials initially hoped energy development would improve their lands too but as ash piles marked their landscape air pollution filled the skies and almost half of Navajo households remained without electricity many Navajos came to view power lines as a sign of their subordination in the Southwest Drawing together urban environmental and American Indian history Needham demonstrates how power lines created unequal connections between distant landscapes and how environmental changes associated with suburbanization reached far beyond the metropolitan frontier Needham also offers a new account of postwar inequality arguing that residents of the metropolitan periphery suffered similar patterns of marginalization as those faced in America s inner cities Telling how coal from Indian lands became the fuel of modernity in the Southwest Power Lines explores the dramatic effects that this energy system has had on the people and environment of the region

The Return of the Native Stephen Cornell,1990-07-19 An incisive look at American Indian and Euro American relations from the 16th century to the present this book focuses on how such relations have shaped the Native American political identity and tactics in the ongoing struggle for power Cornell shows how in the early days of colonization

Indians were able to maintain their nationhood by playing off the competing European powers and how the American Revolution and westward expansion eventually caused Native Americans to lose their land social cohesion and economic independence The final part of the book recounts the slow steady reemergence of American Indian political power and identity evidenced by militant political activism in the 1960s and early 1970s By paying particular attention to the evolution of Indian groups as collective actors and to changes over time in Indian political opportunities and their capacities to act on those opportunities Cornell traces the Indian path from power to powerlessness and back to power again Returning Home Farina King, Michael P. Taylor, James R. Swensen, Terence Wride, 2021-11-30 Returning Home features and contextualizes the creative works of Din Navajo boarding school students at the Intermountain Indian School which was the largest federal Indian boarding school between 1950 and 1984 Din student art and poetry reveal ways that boarding school students sustained and contributed to Indigenous cultures and communities despite assimilationist agendas and pressures This book works to recover the lived experiences of Native American boarding school students through creative works student interviews and scholarly collaboration It shows the complex agency and ability of Indigenous youth to maintain their Din culture within the colonial spaces that were designed to alienate them from their communities and customs Returning Home provides a view into the students experiences and their connections to Din community and land Despite the initial Intermountain Indian School agenda to send Din students away and permanently relocate them elsewhere Din student artists and writers returned home through their creative works by evoking senses of Din Bik yah and the kinship that defined home for them Returning Home uses archival materials housed at Utah State University as well as material donated by surviving Intermountain Indian School students and teachers throughout Utah Arizona and New Mexico Artwork poems and other creative materials show a longing for cultural connection and demonstrate cultural resilience This work was shared with surviving Intermountain Indian School students and their communities in and around the Navajo Nation in the form of a traveling museum exhibit and now it is available in this thoughtfully crafted volume By bringing together the archived student arts and writings with the voices of living communities Returning Home traces recontextualizes reconnects and returns the embodiment and perpetuation of Intermountain Indian School students everyday acts of resurgence Final report United States. About Indians Indian and Eskimo Affairs Program (Canada). Education and Cultural Support Branch,1977 Over 1400 references to books about North American native peoples Includes author title and subject indexes Comics and Conquest Rhiannon Koehler,2023-11-21 The untold story of Navajo and Hopi resistance and solidarity in the face of forced removal by the US government as documented by tribal editorial cartoons For generations US politicians and energy companies attempted to gain access to the coal and uranium in the Four Corners region where Arizona New Mexico Colorado and Utah meet The land on which they found billions of tons of high grade coal in 1909 however was reserved for the Navajo Din and Hopi peoples and not accessible to extractive enterprise Despite Din and Hopi protests US officials gained access to the coal rich land on Black Mesa in Arizona by purposely fabricating and fueling conflict between the Din and the Hopi In Comics and Conquest historian Rhiannon Koehler documents the story of this conflict through an engaging analysis of historical Navajo and Hopi editorial cartoons Despite the false narrative that the conflict was driven by inter tribal animosity and that the subsequent forced removals of thousands of Indigenous peoples were part of a plan to keep the peace the cartoons that Koehler shares reveal a rich history of artistic activism and Hopi Din solidarity against this land grab The content and claims featured in political cartoons published in the tribal newspapers Qua Toqti and the Navajo Times in the late 1960s and early 1970s were some of the most critical tools for both coping with the threats of industry and exposing the history of exploitation as it carries on into the present The conflict popularly known as the Navajo Hopi Land Dispute was presented in mainstream media as an egregious threat to US interests Acutely aware of their land s value and the minerals and other resources on it Din and Hopi political cartoonists used their medium to assert their protest and agency identify the true instigators of the dispute and expose and counter the myth that the conflict had intertribal origins Koehler shows how tribal activism and media ultimately resulted in international recognition of the harms perpetrated by the federal government on Din and Hopi soil
