Blackberry Winter My Earlier Years By Mead Margaret:

Blackberry Winter Margaret Mead, 1972 The autobiography of a pioneer this is Margaret Mead's story of her life as a woman and as an anthropologist An enduring cultural icon she came to represent the new woman successfully combining motherhood with career and scholarship with concern for its role in the lives of ordinary people

Blackberry Winter Margaret Mead, 1972 Women, the Family, and Freedom Susan G. Bell, Karen M. Offen, 1983 This is the second book in a two part collection of 264 primary source documents from the Enlightenment to 1950 chronicling the public debate that raged in Europe and America over the role of women in Western society The present volume looks at the period from 1880 to 1950 The central issues motherhood women's legal position in the family equality of the sexes the effect on social stability of women's education and labor extended to women the struggle by men for personal and political liberty These issues were political economic and religious dynamite They exploded in debates of philosophers political theorists scientists novelists and religious and political leaders This collection emphasizes the debate by juxtaposing prevailing and dissenting points of view at given historical moments e.g. Madame de Staël vs Rousseau Eleanor Marx vs Pope Leo XIII Strindberg vs Ibsen Simone de Beauvoir vs Margaret Mead Each section is preceded by a contextual headnote pinpointing the documents significance Many of the documents have been translated into English for the first time

Fieldnotes Roger Sanjek, 2019-06-30 Thirteen distinguished anthropologists describe how they create and use the unique forms of writing they produce in the field They also discuss the fieldnotes of seminal figures Frank Cushing Franz Boas W. H. R. Rivers Bronislaw Malinowski and Margaret Mead and analyze field writings in relation to other types of texts especially ethnographies Unique in conception this volume contributes importantly to current debates on writing texts and reflexivity in anthropology

Cora Du Bois Susan C. Seymour, 2015-05 Although Cora Du Bois began her life in the early twentieth century as a lonely and awkward girl her intellect and curiosity propelled her into a remarkable life as an anthropologist and diplomat in the vanguard of social and academic change Du Bois studied with Franz Boas a founder of American anthropology and with some of his most eminent students Ruth Benedict Alfred Kroeber and Robert Lowie During World War II she served as a high ranking officer for the Office of Strategic Services as the only woman to head one of the OSS branches of intelligence Research and Analysis in Southeast Asia After the war she joined the State Department as chief of the Southeast Asia Branch of the Division of Research for the Far East She was also the first female full professor with tenure appointed at Harvard University and became president of the American Anthropological Association Du Bois worked to keep her public and private lives separate especially while facing the FBI's harassment as an opponent of U.S. engagements in Vietnam and as a liberal lesbian during the McCarthy era Susan C. Seymour's biography weaves together Du Bois's personal and professional lives to illustrate this exceptional first woman and the complexities of the twentieth century that she both experienced and influenced

The Third Eye Fatimah Tobing Rony, 1996 Charting the intersection of technology and ideology cultural production and social science Fatimah Tobing Rony explores early twentieth century representations of non Western indigenous peoples in films ranging from the documentary to the spectacular to the scientific Turning the gaze of the ethnographic camera back onto itself bringing the perspective of a third eye to bear on the invention of the primitive other Rony reveals the collaboration of anthropology and popular culture in Western constructions of race gender nation and empire Her work demonstrates the significance of these constructions and more generally of ethnographic cinema for understanding issues of identity In films as seemingly dissimilar as Nanook of the North King Kong and research footage of West Africans from an 1895 Paris ethnographic exposition Rony exposes a shared fascination with and anxiety over race She shows how photographic realism contributed to popular and scientific notions of evolution race and civilization and how in turn anthropology understood and critiqued its own use of photographic technology Looking beyond negative Western images of the Other Rony considers performance strategies that disrupt these images for example the use of open resistance recontextualization and parody in the films of Katherine Dunham and Zora Neale Hurston or the performances of Josephine Baker She also draws on the work of contemporary artists such as Lorna Simpson and Victor Masayesva Jr and writers such as Frantz Fanon and James Baldwin who unveil the language of racialization in ethnographic cinema Elegantly written and richly illustrated innovative in theory and original in method The Third Eye is a remarkable interdisciplinary contribution to critical thought in film studies anthropology cultural studies art history postcolonial studies and women s studies Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office,1975 A Social History of Wet Nursing in America Janet Golden,2001 From the colonial period through to the 20th century this text examines the intersection of medical science social theory and cultural practices as they shaped relations among wet nurses physicians and families It explores how Americans used wet nursing to solve infant feeding problems shows why wet nursing became controversial as motherhood slowly became medicalized and elaborates how the development of scientific infant feeding eliminated wet nursing by the beginning of the 20th century Janet Golden s study contributes to our understanding of the cultural authority of medical science the role of physicians in shaping child rearing practices the social construction of motherhood and the profound dilemmas of class and culture that played out in the private space of the nursery The Chosen Primate Adam Kuper,1994 The Chosen Primate ends by looking forward to the next millennium noting that our future depends on our response to another fundamental question Will our culture which has given us the means to adapt successfully to nature ultimately destroy nature In raising this question Kuper shows that debates in anthropology are more than just academic disputes they engage the major issues of our time The Pacific Islands Brij V. Lal,Kate Fortune,2000-01-01 An encyclopaedia of information on major aspects of Pacific life including the physical environment peoples history politics economy society and culture The CD ROM contains hyperlinks between section titles and sections a library of all the maps in the encyclopaedia and a photo library Principles of Visual Anthropology Paul Hockings,2012-05-18 This edition contains 27 articles written by scholars and film makers who are generally acknowledged as the international authorities in the field. The book covers ethnographic filming and its relations to the cinema and television applications of filming to anthropological research the uses of still photography archives and videotape interdisciplinary applications in ethnography archeology bio anthropology museology and ethnohistory and overcoming the funding problems of film production Encyclopedia of Feminist Literature Mary Ellen Snodgrass, 2014-05-14 An accessible one volume encyclopedia this addition to the Literary Movements series is a comprehensive reference guide to the history and development of feminist literature from early fairy tales to works by great women writers of today Hundred Reader's Guide to the History of Science Arne Hessenbruch, 2013-12-16 The Reader's Guide to the History of Science looks at the literature of science in some 550 entries on individuals Einstein institutions and disciplines Mathematics general themes Romantic Science and central concepts Paradigm and Fact The history of science is construed widely to include the history of medicine and technology as is reflected in the range of disciplines from which the international team of 200 contributors are drawn When Sex Became Gender Shira Tarrant, 2013-05-13 When Sex Became Gender is a study of post World War II feminist theory from the viewpoint of intellectual history The key theme is that ideas about the social construction of gender have its origins in the feminist theorists of the postwar period and that these early ideas about gender became a key foundational paradigm for both second and third wave feminist thought These conceptual foundations were created by a cohort of extraordinarily imaginative and bold academic women While discussing the famous feminist scholars Simone de Beauvoir Margaret Mead the book also hinges on the work of scholars who are lesser known to American audiences Mirra Komarovsky Viola Klein and Ruth Herschberger The postwar years have been an overlooked period in the development of feminist theory and philosophy and Tarrant makes a compelling case for this era being the turning point in the study of gender The Retreat of Scientific Racism Elazar Barkan, 1992 This fascinating study in the sociology of knowledge documents the refutation of scientific foundations for racism in Britain and the United States between the two World Wars when racial differences were no longer attributed to cultural factors Professor Barkan considers the social significance of this transformation particularly its effect on race relations in the modern world Discussing the work of the leading biologists and anthropologists who wrote between the wars he argues that the impetus for the shift in ideologies came from the inclusion of outsiders women Jews and leftists who infused greater egalitarianism into scientific discourse But even though the emerging view of race was constrained by a scientific language he shows that modern theorists were as much influenced by social and political events as were their predecessors Encyclopedia of Science and Technology Communication Susanna Hornig Priest, 2010-07-14 The explosion of scientific information is exacerbating the information gap between richer poorer educated less educated publics The proliferation of media technology and the popularity of the Internet help some keep up with these developments but also make it more likely others fall further behind This is taking place in a globalizing economy and society that further complicates the division between information haves and have nots and compounds the challenge of communicating about emerging science and technology to increasingly diverse audiences Journalism about science and technology must fill this gap yet journalists and journalism students themselves struggle to keep abreast of contemporary scientific developments Scientist aided by public relations and public information professionals must get their stories out not only to other scientists but also to broader public audiences Funding agencies increasingly expect their grantees to engage in outreach and education and such activity can be seen as both a survival strategy and an ethical imperative for taxpayer supported university based research Science communication often in new forms must expand to meet all these needs Providing a comprehensive introduction to students professionals and scholars in this area is a unique challenge because practitioners in these fields must grasp both the principles of science and the principles of science communication while understanding the social contexts of each For this reason science journalism and science communication are often addressed only in advanced undergraduate or graduate specialty courses rather than covered exhaustively in lower division courses Even so those entering the field rarely will have a comprehensive background in both science and communication studies This circumstance underscores the importance of compiling useful reference materials The Encyclopedia of Science and Technology Communication presents resources and strategies for science communicators including theoretical material and background on recent controversies and key institutional actors and sources Science communicators need to understand more than how to interpret scientific facts and conclusions they need to understand basic elements of the politics sociology and philosophy of science as well as relevant media and communication theory principles of risk communication new trends and how to evaluate the effectiveness of science communication programmes to mention just a few of the major challenges This work will help to develop and enhance such understanding as it addresses these challenges and more Topics covered include advocacy policy and research organizations environmental and health communication philosophy of science media theory and science communication informal science education science journalism as a profession risk communication theory public understanding of science pseudo science in the news special problems in reporting science and technology science communication ethics First Person Female American Carolyn H. Rhodes, Mary Louise Briscoe, Ernest L. Rhodes, 1980 The Oxford Encyclopedia of Women in World History Bonnie G. Smith, 2008 The Encyclopedia of Women in World History captures the experiences of women throughout world history in a comprehensive 4 volume work Although there has been extensive research on women in history by region no text or reference work has comprehensively covered the role women have played throughout world history The past thirty years have seen an explosion of research and effort to present the experiences and contributions of women not only in the Western world but across the globe Historians have investigated womens daily lives in virtually every region and have researched the leadership roles women have filled across time and region They have found and demonstrated that there is virtually no historical social or demographic change in which women have not been involved and by which their lives have not been affected The Oxford Encyclopedia of Women in World History benefits greatly from these efforts and experiences and illuminates how women worldwide have influenced and been influenced by these historical social and demographic changes The Encyclopedia contains over 1 250 signed articles arranged in an A Z format for ease of use The entries cover six main areas biographies geography and history comparative culture and society including adoption abortion performing arts organizations and movements such as the Egyptian Uprising and the Paris Commune womens and gender studies and topics in world history that include slave trade globalization and disease With its rich and insightful entries by leading scholars and experts this reference work is sure to be a valued go to resource for scholars college and high school students and general readers alike

Invisible Contrarian Regna Darnell, Return from the Natives Peter Mandler, 2013-05-07 DIV

Celebrated anthropologist Margaret Mead who studied sex in Samoa and child rearing in New Guinea in the 1920s and 30s was determined to show that anthropology could tackle the psychology of the most complex modern societies in ways useful for waging the Second World War This fascinating book follows Mead and her closest collaborators her lover and mentor Ruth Benedict her third husband Gregory Bateson and her prospective fourth husband Geoffrey Gorer through their triumphant climax when Mead became the cultural ambassador from America to Britain in 1943 to their downfall in the Cold War Part intellectual biography part cultural history and part history of the human sciences Peter Mandler s book is a reminder that the Second World War and the Cold War were a clash of cultures not just ideologies and asks how far intellectuals should involve themselves in politics at a time when Mead s example is cited for and against experts involvement in Iraq and Afghanistan div
