This book argues that the shared adjudication model in which the state splits its adjudicative authority with religious groups and other societal sources in the regulation of marriage can potentially balance cultural rights and gender equality In this model the civic and religious sources of legal authority construct transmit and communicate heterogeneous notions of the conjugal family gender relations and religious membership within the interstices of state and society In so doing they fracture the homogenized religious identities grounded in hierarchical gender relations within the conjugal family The shared adjudication model facilitates diversity as it allows the construction of hybrid religious identities creates fissures in ossified group boundaries and provides institutional spaces for ongoing intersocietal dialogue This pluralized legal sphere governed by ideologically diverse legal actors can thus increase gender equality and individual and collective legal mobilization by women effects institutional change An Affair of Honor Heather Boyd, 2016-07-26 Unneeded for command of a ship after

Following on from the earlier edited collection Loss of Control and Diminished Responsibility this book is the first volume in the Substantive Issues in Criminal Law series. It serves as a leading point of reference in the area relating to participation in crime and identifies the need for a consistent approach to the doctrinal and theoretical underpinnings of complicity liability. With a section on the UK analysing points of current interest the book also has a large comparative section dealing with foreign jurisdictions and examines on the basis of a unified research grid how different legal systems treat core issues of participation in the context of criminal law. This book is a valuable reference resource for those in the criminal justice community in the UK and abroad and for academics, the judiciary and policy makers. Uniform Fantasies Jeffrey Schneider, 2023-07-26 Starting in the nineteenth century in Germany colourful military uniforms became a locus for various queer male fantasies fostering an underground sexual economy of male prostitution as well as a political project to exploit the army's prestige for queer emancipation. In the first decade of the twentieth century however a series of scandals derailed this emancipatory project. Simultaneously public debates began to invoke homosexuality, sadism, transvestism and other sexological concepts to criticize military policies and practices. In pursuing the threads with which queer authors and activists stitched their fantasies about uniforms Jeffrey Schneider offers fresh perspectives on key debates over military secrecy, disciplinary abuses in the army and German militarism. Drawing on a vast trove of materials ranging from sexological case studies, trial transcripts and parliamentary debates to queer activist tracts, autobiographies and literary texts Uniform Fantasies uncovers a particularly modern set of concerns about such topics as outing, closeted homosexuals, the presence of gay men in the military and whether men in uniform are more masculine or more insecure about their sexual identity.

Caught by Love Barbara Cartland, 2019-06-01 Famed for his horse racing successes on the turf and worshipped by London's Society beauties, the dashing handsome Marquis of Broome is unjustly renowned as heartless and selfish. So when on a night time journey from London to his Surrey estate he discovers a young stowaway hidden below his carriage seat, he appears to be angry and wants nothing to do with this new problem in his life. But when the boy is revealed to be a feisty but very beautiful young girl, he quickly softens. Cara, as she reveals her name is, is running away from what or from whom she will not confide in the Marquis. With highwaymen prowling the roads and revolution in the air, the Marquis cannot let this young innocent go on alone and defenceless to Paris, which is her intended destination. Despite her protests, he rather reluctantly takes Cara under his wing, finding out eventually that she is fleeing a forced marriage arranged by her cruel and wicked uncle, the Earl of Matlock. Just as the Marquis saves her from her uncle, Cara saves him from a murderous revolutionary plot. And as they manage to escape their enemies, they begin to realise that they have been caught by a deep and inspiring love for one another. Nothing but Trouble Tory Richards, A senator arranges for his daughter Sophie to be kidnapped on the eve of her wedding. She turns out to be more trouble than her abductor Brent anticipated. Spirited and resourceful, he has his hands full. In the meantime, their intense attraction to each other only adds further complications.

Ingrid Bergman David Smit, 2012-10-12 Smit studies the woman behind the public image as a natural wholesome even saintly person an image carefully crafted by Bergman's first producer David O. Selznick. Bergman hid behind that image to live her life on her own terms. That life included three difficult marriages, numerous lovers, and a major scandal that stained her reputation but which she survived by creating her own legend. Bergman was filled with contradictions: she was dependent upon men and chafed under their control; she loved her children but constantly left them to perform; she longed for romance but walked away from her affairs without looking back; she desired to make great films but settled for being an entertainer; she hated the scrutiny of the media but learned to charm reporters. The author also assesses Bergman's artistry, her star qualities, and her acting skills. She did her best work in Alfred Hitchcock's Notorious, Roberto Rossellini's Voyage in Italy, and Ingmar Bergman's Autumn Sonata. Her life and image were the inspiration for these films in the first place.
