1920s and early 1930s the dime novel had already become well established as a medium for serial fiction and it developed innovative ways of shaping the temporality of literary communication. Recurring heroes made an appearance in more than one dime novel series at the same time, some even across media. Publishers and writers found collective forms of text production, not aiming to create one timeless work of art but a continuous series of texts. Readers learned to orient themselves with competing publishing schedules of different media and to comprehend the text world of a dime novel series by connecting a series of texts. The book deals with the question of how publishers, writers and readers shaped seriality in the process of creating the fictional worlds of dime novels.
