Electric Animal Akira Mizuta Lippit, 2000 Differentiation from animals helped to establish the notion of a human being but the disappearance of animals now threatens that identity This is the argument underlying Electric Animal a probing exploration of the figure of the animal in modern culture Akira Mizuta Lippit shows us the animal as a crucial figure in the definition of modernity essential to developments in the natural sciences and technology radical transformations in modern philosophy and literature and the advent of psychoanalysis and the cinema Moving beyond the dialectical framework that has traditionally bound animal and human being Electric Animal raises a series of questions regarding the idea of animality in Western thought Can animals communicate Do they have consciousness Are they aware of death By tracing questions such as these through a wide range of texts by writers ranging from Friedrich Nietzsche to Jacques Derrida Sigmund Freud to Vicki Heame Lewis Carroll to Franz Kafka and Sergei Eisenstein to Gilles Deleuze Lippit arrives at a remarkable thesis revealing an extraordinary logical consensus in Western thought animals do not have language and hence cannot die The animal has accordingly haunted thought as a form of spectral and undead being Lippit demonstrates how in the late nineteenth century this phantasmic concept of animal being reached the proportions of an epistemological crisis engendering the disciplines and media of psychoanalysis modern literature and cinema among others Against the prohibitive logic of Western philosophy these fields opened a space for rethinking animality Technology usually thought of in opposition to nature came to serve as therepository for an unmournable animality a kind of vast wildlife museum A highly original work that charts new territory in current debates over language and mortality subjectivity and technology Electric Animal brings to light fundamental questions about the status of representation of the animal and of ourselves in the age of biomechanical reproduction

The Unchosen Ones R. J. Kern, In 2016 award winning Minnesota based photographer R J Kern made portraits of youth contestants at Minnesota county fairs Each participant some as young as four years old had spent a year raising an animal which they had then entered into a 4 H livestock competition None of the youths who sat for him had succeeded in winning an award despite the obvious care they had given to their animals The Unchosen Ones depicts the bloom of youth and the mettle of the kids who grow up on farms reminding us how resilient children can be when confronted with life s inevitable disappointments The formal qualities of the lighting and setting endow these young people with a gravitas beyond their years revealing self directed dedication in some and in others perhaps the pressures of traditions imposed upon them Kern s beautiful portraits capture a particular America a rural world and a time in life when the layered emotions of youth are laid bare Four years later in 2020 Kern returned to photograph his young subjects The most recent photographs show how the children have grown into adolescence or young adulthood some of them have continued to pursue animal husbandry while others have developed other interests It is likely that some of these kids will not choose to continue running their family farms an unpredictable and demanding way to make a living These diptychs are punctuated by lush landscapes of the farms that are their homes As Kern made the second group of photographs he asked his young subjects what they had carried forward from their previous experience What were their thoughts their
