as the domestic sphere and place of belonging it is hard to grasp its manifold implications and even harder to provide a tidy definition of what it is Over the past century discussion of home and nation has been a highly complex matter with broad political ramifications including the realignment of nation states and national boundaries Against this backdrop this book suggests that home is constructed on the assumption that what it defines is constantly in flux and thus can never capture an objective perspective an ultimate truth Along these lines Unreliable Truths offers a comparative literary approach to the construction of home and concomitant notions of uncertainty and unreliable narration in South Asian diasporic women's literature from the UK Australia South Africa the Caribbean North America and Canada Writers discussed in detail include Feroza Jussawalla Suneeta Peres da Costa Meera Syal Farida Karodia Shani Mootoo Shobha D and Oonya Kempadoo With its focus on transcultural homes Unreliable Truths goes beyond discussions of diaspora from an established postcolonial point of view and contributes with its investigation of transcultural unreliable narration to the representation of a global South Asian diaspora

Black British Literature Mark Stein, 2004 In this fascinating book Mark Stein examines black British literature centering on a body of work created by British based writers with African South Asian or Caribbean cultural backgrounds Linking black British literature to the bildungsroman genre this study examines the transformative potential inscribed in and induced by a heterogeneous body of texts Capitalizing on their plural cultural attachments these texts portray and purvey the transformation of post imperial Britain Stein locates his wide ranging analysis in both a historical and a literary context He argues that a cross cultural and interdisciplinary approach is essential to understanding post colonial culture and society The book relates black British literature to ongoing debates about cultural diversity and thereby offers a way of reading a highly popular but as yet relatively uncharted field of cultural production With the collapse of its empire with large scale immigration from former colonies and with ever increasing cultural diversity Britain underwent a fundamental makeover in the second half of the twentieth century This volume cogently argues that black British literature is not only a commentator on and a reflector of this makeover but that it is simultaneously an agent that is integral to the processes of cultural and social change Conceptualizing the novel of transformation this comprehensive study of British black literature provides a compelling analytic framework for charting these processes
