ABSTRACT

The most well-known Indian woman author in English after India's independence, Anita Desai, focuses a lot of her writing on the issues of women's survival and existence. At this moment, the purpose of this piece is to examine how gender has shaped resistance. Anita Desai has been a strong representation of Indian women's lives, their battles against patriarchy, and colonial repression. The feminist consciousness of Desai's "In Custody" permeates the entire book. This is the best indication of her comprehension of female psychology and experience. In "In Custody," the male characters are confined to a life without success. Anita Desai condemns classical society and criss on a deplorable male character Deven Sharma whose wife execrates his powerlessness to succeed economically. This article helps us to show how women change their ideas to make the lives successful or unsuccessful not only for them but also for their whole family. This article has been written in simple language so that people may understand the fact that how a women can make or mar the society by her capability of doing things.

KEYWORDS: Custody, Patriarchy, Resistance, Deven Sharma, Independence

INTRODUCTION

Indian English fiction developed a noteworthy presence in English literature after independence. To some extent, historical, political, social, and cultural events contributed to the development of the English novel in India. Gandhian struggle for Indian independence including three significant events—the Gandhian Movement, the Partition of India, and evolution of the English novel. After the 1970s, the topics were expanded to include the East-West Culturalism, social realism, gender difficulties, the comedic side of human nature, magic realism writing from many diasporas, etc. The writings of women writers are critical of novels that promote knowledge of India in modern times.

Among the writers of novels during this time was Anita Desai. Her best-known compositions often have an Indian or international setting. In Custody (1984), Baumgartner's Bombay (1988), Fasting-Fasting (1999), Journey to Ithaca (1995), Cry the Peacock (1963), a reputation for social realism, patriarchy, support for women's rights, etc. Desai always attempted to identify and challenge the numerous presumptions about women, their conflicts, feelings, positions, and their aspirations. by Anita Desai in 1984 is a book. Its key concern is the seeking identity and a purpose in life.

Even if the book "In Custody" is primarily written from the perspective of men, it cannot be denied that the female characters play important roles. The female character in this novel are:

Sarla, Deven's spouse

Nur's second spouse is Intiaz Begum.

➤ Safiya Begum, a senior citizen and Nur's first wife

The majority of these female characters are supporting ones, but they all share one thing in common in terms of how they are portrayed: they are all strong wives who appear to have authority over their husbands.

The first few sentences of the story make it clear that Sarla has control over Deven. Deven has been influenced by her "penny pinching" tendencies, which have made him a "two-cigarette" man. Even before using his own hard-earned money, Deven thinks a lot. Instead of canteen meals, he would like homemade food. Her assertive qualities also appear to be at odds

Anita Desai Iqbalunnisa Hussain and Shashi Deshpande are the most accomplished contemporary novelists in English. They reflect the psychological explorations and the man woman relationship in modern society. They deal with the burning problems of sex and psychology. They highlight women's issues and present Indian sensibility in Indian English. Their works especially in regards to woman's status in society are regarded as outstanding contribution to Indian writing in English. Women in Exile and Alienation Kaptan Singh, 2016-06-22

Since World War II exile and alienation have become two of the most prominent themes in world literature. Canadian and Indian literatures are no exception. Modern human civilisation is passing through a terrible ordeal following on from the catastrophic consequences of two world wars and many people have been overwhelmed and overawed by the growth of science technology and urbanisation. Alienation a feeling of not belonging has filled the life of modern man with uncertainties and disappointments obstructions and frustrations. Indian and Canadian literatures are currently two of the most acclaimed forms of global literature with major themes including a search for identity a struggle for survival and self and social isolation and it is not surprising that female writers are major voices in both Indian and Canadian literature. There is a heavy imbalance of power between two sexes in both cultures where men are considered to be domineering and the centre of the family while women are regarded as subordinate to men. Women's suppression compels them to live in their self exiled and alienated world. The works of Margaret Laurence and Anita Desai depict heart rending facts and bitter realities which women have to face in an emotionless modern society. Since the patriarchal structure is prevalent in India and Canada women are categorised as second rate citizens and are treated as liabilities by their families due to a lack of financial power. In the absence of any economic social emotional and financial support they also consider themselves inferior to men. Time and again they revolt against the mechanical and merciless treatment of their family and society and sometimes they choose self exile as a safeguard against the callous and selfish treatment of their family members. Their inner desire to revolt against an oppressive society and the prevailing cultural norm only increases their isolation. In their works Laurence and Desai have unveiled the tortured psyche of sensitive women who are unable to share their feelings with others and are destined to live an emotionally deprived life.
