Hazard,2015-07-26 Excerpt from Annals of Pennsylvania From the Discovery of the Delaware The appearance of the present volume has been delayed much longer than was anticipated when the prospectus was issued Judging from the incidental allusions in the works already published to events prior to the arrival of William Penn the author was impressed with the belief that few materials existed in relation to the early settlements on the River Delaware and felt a desire that if others did exist they should be discovered in order to render more complete our history from the period of the first European attempts at settlement and civilization It was astonishing to find how little was known of these attempts even by many persons well acquainted with our subsequent history while by a large portion of our citizens the fact of settlements having been made many years previously to the appearance of Penn will be perhaps at this day learned with surprise With a strong desire to supply the defect the author was induced to undertake the task of exploring this comparatively untrodden field Happily through the liberality and care of the Legislature of New York whose early history was intimately blended with our own the means of gratifying this desire were placed within his reach Many of the original Dutch documents have been preserved and at the expense of that body translated by a gentleman from Holland fully competent to the task in all respects except in a perfect knowledge of our language The result of his labour is nearly thirty volumes bound and furnished with an ample index these with many other records in the Secretary s office at Albany were during a protracted visit there diligently examined and extracts made from them of such portions as suited the purpose generally in the language of the record In them will be found an almost unbroken series of events from the first connection of the settlements of the Dutch on the Delaware with those on the Hudson illustrating at the same time the history of both Further additions having been made under the patronage of the same legislature through the researches of Mr Brodhead their agent in Europe which have been referred to on page 42 to these also the author had free access a portion of them however being from Holland and in the Dutch language was on that account not available with the exception of some extracts which he caused to be translated About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
