Excerpt As my journey was among scenes and things hallowed to the feelings of every American I felt a hope that a record of the pilgrimage interwoven with that of the facts of past history would attract the attention and win to the perusal of the chronicles of our Revolution many who could not be otherwise decoyed into the apparently arid and flowerless domains of mere history I accordingly determined to make the record of the tour to the important localities of the Revolution a leading feature in the work Here another difficulty was encountered So widely scattered are those localities and so simultaneous were many of the events that a connected narrative of the journey must necessarily break up the chronological unity of the history and at times produce some confusion To give incidents of the journey and sketches and descriptions of the scenery and relics as they appear at present in fragmentary notes would deny to the work the charm of a book of travel and thus almost wholly remove the prime object in view in giving such narrative The apparently less objectionable course was chosen and the history was broken into fragments arranged in the exhibition in accordance with the order in which each locality was visited the fragments individualized as much as possible yet always maintaining a tie of visible relationship with the whole The apparent difficulties in the way of the student which this plan suggests are removed by the aid of a complete Analytical Index at the close of the work while the narrative of the tour remains unbroken except by the continually recurring appendices of history How far this arrangement shall accomplish the desired result the candid judgment of the reader must determine

Baltimore's Homewood was a wedding gift from Charles Carroll a signer of the Declaration of Independence to his son Charles Jr and his bride Harriet Chew Carroll Located on 130 acres of rolling meadow and forest it afforded picturesque view to the harbor The couple built a full and genteel establishment a grand yet intimate summer house that exemplifies the work of the most skilled Baltimore craftsmen of the Federal period Construction began in 1801 and incorporated a classical five part Palladian plan with two hyphens flanking the main block and connecting it to two wings or dependencies Spending far more than his father had anticipated Charles Jr used only the finest materials then available and included extraordinary architectural details throughout the house Homewood endures today as one of the finest examples of Federal period domestic architecture in the United States Sold by the Carroll family in 1838 the house and grounds eventually became the Homewood campus of the Johns Hopkins University In 1971 Homewood received National Historic Landmark status and five years later through the generosity of Robert G Merrick an alumnus and university patron who developed a love for Homewood as a student in the 1920s Johns Hopkins University began a major restoration effort Today open to the public as a museum the house reflects the height of early nineteenth century style and the tastes of the Carroll family In a lavishly illustrated yet scholarly study of this exquisite American residence Catherine Rogers Arthur and Cindy Kelly explore Homewood s history detailing its construction reliving the Carroll family s experiences here and recounting the expert restoration that preserves this home for generations to come The book includes more than one hundred full color photographs of the house s graceful exterior its elegant rooms and furnishings and the many architectural details that have made Homewood so beloved Train's done been and gone Marion E.
