BETTER HEALTH

The World Health Organization has found that a diet low in animal products, while also higher in vegetables and fruit, was associated with a lower risk of heart disease, stroke, osteoporosis, Type 2 diabetes, and certain cancers. A plant-based diet rich in fibre, folate, and potassium is also associated with lower cholesterol, blood pressure and body fat. From studies to surveys, a host of plant-based diet is a safe and highly recommended way of preventing chronic disease and promoting healthy weight. Prevention is the best prescription.

A SUSTAINABLE FUTURE

We can make an immediate impact on the environment and our global warming simply by eating lower on the food chain. It requires an average of 1kg of plant protein to produce 1kg of animal protein, and 150 times more water. The UN reports that animal agriculture is responsible for 14% of global warming emissions worldwide, with cattle ranching and feed production accounting for over 70% of deforestation in the Amazon. The growing livestock sector is the largest source of water pollution worldwide. The time to act is now.

COMPASSION FOR ALL

It is better that in the day to saving millions of animals, than the billions being taken every 9 months. Even almost countless programs, the numbers are simply too large. More than 60 million other birds, and other slaughtered, suffer each production cycle. The egg industry destroys almost 100 million chicks each year as they are not considered profitable. Eggs are routinely separated for treatment that would certainly be illegal if infused with a lot of egg. <http://www.earthsave.ca/compassion>

COMMUNITY & SOCIAL JUSTICE

More can be fed as a plant-based diet: over 70% of grain grown in North America feed livestock, not people. Over 50% of the most polluted watersheds from livestock raising farms (pigs) for meat processing and related plant-based farmers, an amount that compares to 50% of the total. Plant-based is the most sustainable money there is.
