Asian Houses:

Southeast Asian Houses Seo Ryeung Ju et al., 2017-08-04 Southeast Asian architecture tends to be generalized under one umbrella due to the countries common geographical climatic and historical context However Southeast Asian countries are dissimilar due to their ethnic and religious differences which led to each country s own subtle characteristics in housing In order to identify the commonality and diversity among Southeast Asian architecture details of the architectural forms have to be carefully analyzed This book begins with an introductory section about housing culture in Southeast Asia as a whole and then examines the traditional houses of five countries in more detail Each chapter contains a brief summary of a Southeast Asian country s history and culture and an introduction to the general characteristics and major types of traditional houses of the country This is followed by a detailed explanation on the form and significance of one of the country s major types of housing The authors also explain how traditional houses are being modernized offering a glimpse at the future of traditional housing in each country The House in Southeast Asia Signe Howell, Stephen Sparkes, 2013-07-04 Explores the concept of house in the context of Levi Strauss idea of the house as a link between kinship based societies and class societies developing this further into an examination of a conjuncture of architecture people and symbolism

Sustainable Houses and Living in the Hot-Humid Climates of Asia Tetsu Kubota, Hom Bahadur Rijal, Hiroto Takaguchi, 2018-06-21 This book provides information on the latest research findings that are useful in the context of designing sustainable houses and living in rapidly growing Asian cities The book is composed of seven parts comprising a total of 50 chapters written by 53 authors from various countries mainly in the Asian region Part I introduces vernacular houses in different Asian countries such as Indonesia Malaysia India Nepal China Thailand and Laos Parts II and III then explore in depth indoor adaptive thermal comfort and occupants adaptive behavior focusing especially on those in hot humid climates Part IV presents detailed survey results on household energy consumption in various tropical Asian cities while Part V analyses the indoor thermal conditions in both traditional houses and modern houses in these countries Several real world sustainable housing practices in Asian cities are reviewed in the following part The final part then discusses the vulnerability of expanding Asian cities to climate change and urban heat island Today approximately 35 40% of global energy is consumed in Asia and this percentage is expected to rise further Energy consumption has increased particularly in the residential sector in line with the rapid rise of the middle class The majority of growing Asian cities are located in hot and humid climate regions and as such there is an urgent need for designers to provide healthy and comfortable indoor environments that do not consume non renewable energy or resources excessively This book is essential reading for anyone with an interest in sustainable house design in the growing cities of Asia Indonesian Houses, 2022-06-20 The traditional houses and settlements of the several hundred ethnic groups of Indonesia are extremely varied and all have their own unique history Underlying this rich diversity are fundamental similarities rooted in the ancient heritage that is shared by all the peoples in the Indonesian field of study The multiplicity of ways in which this heritage is given shape in each local situation bears witness to an amazing creativity in adapting to regional circumstances and social changes Inter ethnic comparison of the architectural structures is a way to arrive at a better understanding of both the shared traditions and the diverging developments In many cases the variety of house forms will reflect successful attempts at one group s making distinct its buildings from those of neighbouring groups in an ongoing ethnic process of what could be called mutual contrasting although sometimes by means of pseudo traditions which have little to do with indigenous customs of the past The contributions to this volume are grouped in four sections The first consists of essays describing approaches to the transformation and variation of houses The second set presents applications of these approaches in case studies of specific Sumatran cultures The third group widens the perspective through the inclusion of a number of cultures from outside Sumatra namely from Flores Sulawesi Kalimantan Palu and Roti The final set deals not so much with houses as with settlements In their pursuit of the cultural dimension of houses the contributions focus on villages and towns exploring their cosmological and symbolic organization illuminates the region's reinterpretation of tropical architecture and the growing interest in traditional materials and craftsmanship. There is a new emphasis on fresh air, natural light and spatial variety reflecting the importance of well-being. Designers are considering issues such as orientation to the sun and prevailing winds to reduce energy consumption and carbon footprint. Instead of treating the tropical climate as something to overcome, the architects featured in this book present regional solutions on how to live appropriately in the contemporary tropical world.

Capital and Entrepreneurship in South-East Asia Rajeswary Ampalavanar Brown, 2016-07-27 This book traces the growth of capitalism in South East Asia between 1870 and 1941, a crucial element in understanding contemporary economic and political developments in the region. It focuses on three questions: Why was indigenous capitalism so weak in colonial South East Asia? What were the institutional weaknesses in an otherwise dominant Chinese capitalist class and why did it fail to transform itself into a modern industrial elite? What was the impact of western colonialism and Japanese economic penetration on South East Asia's prospects for achieving sustainable economic growth?

Indian and Chinese Immigrant Communities Jayati Bhattacharya, Coonoor Kripalani, 2015-03 This interdisciplinary collection of essays offers a window onto the overseas Indian and Chinese communities in Asia. Contributors discuss the interactive role of the cultural and religious, other the diasporic absorption of local beliefs and customs and the practical business networks and operational mechanisms unique to these communities. Growing out of an international workshop organized by the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies in Singapore and the Centre of Asian Studies at the University of Hong Kong, this volume explores material, cultural and imaginative features of the immigrant communities and brings together these two important communities within a comparative framework.

A Nation of Home Owners Peter Saunders, 2021-03-23 Originally published in 1990 and re-issued in 2020 with an updated Preface, this book shows how the UK has become a nation of home owners and the effect it has had on people's lives, the impact which it has had on British society and the implications for those who have hitherto been excluded. The book briefly charts the history of the growth of owner occupation in Britain and considers the evidence on the popularity of owning as opposed to renting. The question of whether and how owner occupiers accumulate wealth from their housing is discussed and the evidence on the political implications of the growth of owner occupation examined. The influence of buying a house on the way that home is experienced is analysed and the sociological implications in regard to the analysis of social inequalities in Britain discussed. The research for the book was based on in-depth interviews with home owners and tenants in Burnley, Derby and Slough.

The House of the Mother Cynthia R. Chapman, 2016-10-25 A novel approach to Israelite kinship, arguing that maternal kinship bonds played key social, economic and political roles for a son who aspired to inherit his father's household. Upending traditional scholarship on patrilineal genealogy, Cynthia Chapman draws on twenty years of research to uncover an underappreciated yet socially significant kinship unit in the Bible: the house of the mother. In households where a man had two or more wives, siblings born to the same mother worked to promote and protect one another's interests Revealing the hierarchies of the maternal houses and political divisions within the national house of Israel this book provides us with a nuanced understanding of domestic and political life in ancient Israel
