Writing the City in British Asian Diasporas Sean McLoughlin, William Gould, Ananya Jahanara Kabir, Emma Tomalin, 2014-07-11 In 1962 the Commonwealth Immigrants Act hastened the process of South Asian migration to postcolonial Britain Half a decade later now is an opportune moment to revisit the accumulated writing about the diasporas formed through subsequent settlement and to probe the ways in which the South Asian diaspora can be re conceptualised Writing the City in British Asian Diasporas takes a fresh look at such matters and will have multi disciplinary resonance worldwide The meaning and importance of local multi local and trans local dynamics is explored through a devolved and regionally accented comparison of five British Asian cities Bradford the East End of London Manchester Leicester and Birmingham Analysing the writing of these differently configured cities since the 1960s its main focus is the significant discrepancies in representation between differently positioned texts reflecting both dominant institutional discourses and everyday lived experiences of a locality Part I offers a comprehensive yet still highly contested reading of each city's archives Part II examines how the arts and humanities fields of History Religion Gender and Literary Cultural Studies have all written British Asian diasporas and how their perspectives might complement the better established agendas of the social sciences Providing an innovative analysis of South Asian communities and their multi local identities in Britain today this interdisciplinary book will be of interest to scholars of South Asian Studies Migration Ethnic and Diaspora Studies as well as Sociology Anthropology and Geography influential part in building local social cohesion This contrasts with central BBC policy that reveals a management culture resistant to change and unable to embrace an increasingly diverse Britain creating a problematic legacy for the BBC Finding a New British Asian Sound brings new insights into current debates around policy and institutional racism at the BBC where South Asian programming on local and network radio remains at risk of closure

Moving Lives Kathy Burrell, 2017-03-02 Immigrants in Britain are often viewed as just that immigrants. Their experiences as migrants are sidelined in favour of discussions about assimilation and integration: how they adapt to us. This book refocuses debates about migration by following the experiences, memories and perceptions of three migrant groups in Britain: the Polish, Italian and Greek Cypriot populations. In tracing some of the key themes of migration narratives, Kathy Burrell illustrates that the act of migration creates enduring legacies which continue to influence the everyday lives of migrants long after they have moved. The book is structured around four key themes. The first is the migration process itself. Burrell highlights the important contrast between voluntary and involuntary migration, examining the different memories and legacies of migration. The second theme is the national as opposed to ethnic identities of the groups studied. The author demonstrates how national consciousness survives the upheaval of migration and is perpetuated through the recognition of national histories, myths and traditional rituals. The third theme is a memory of the homeland. The author traces her respondents' memories and experiences of their national territory, focusing particularly on the transnational connections that are established with the homeland after migration. Finally, Burrell considers community, analyzing her respondents' experiences of community life and the shared social and cultural norms and values that underpin it.

Regional Aesthetics Hugh Chignell, Ieuan Franklin, Kristin Skoog, 2015-09-15 This book is about forms of media that have reflected or increased consciousness of a sense of place or a regional identity. From landscape painting in the Romantic era to newspaper coverage of devolution, the chapters explore through contextualized case studies the aesthetics of a wide range of local, regional and grassroots forms of media.
