National Center for Productivity and Quality of Working Life National Center for Productivity and Quality of Working Life,1978 Canada Can Compete! Joseph R. D'Cruz,James Douglas Fleck,1985 From the back cover Canada can compete in international markets but not the authors contend under the present national economic strategy Policies that redistribute income and allocate resources through government fiat have weakened Canada s ability to transform its manufacturing sector to meet the new competitive challenges D Cruz and Fleck compare the performance of seventy one Canadian industries from 1967 to 1981 with industries in Japan the United States Britain and France To enhance the competitiveness of Canadian manufacturing the authors propose a differential industrial strategy one that emphasizes growth and development Government they say must play a hands off role in Canada s market economy limiting itself to establishing the rules of the game The authors recommend in addition macro economic policies that would reduce the federal deficit restrain wages for public servants preserve low differentials between Canadian and American interest rates and maintain the Canadian dollar at 70 cents U S Canadian Perspectives on Economic Relations with Japan Joint Centre on Modern East Asia,Institute for Research on Public Policy,1980 The Drug Industry Myron J. Gordon,David Fowler,1981-01-01 In this independent study first published in 1981 economists Myron Gordon and David Fowler test the assertions made by both defenders and critics of multinational drug corporations The pharmaceutical business in Canada is a classic example of a foreign dominated manufacturing industry Drug industry practices such as the high cost of drug products aggressive marketing of drugs to doctors inadequate testing of potentially dangerous substances and excessive profits have concerned both media and citizens in Canada The Drug Industry is an analysis of a classic branch plant business in Canada offering recommendations for increased and closely focussed government regulation Labor Literature United States. Department of Labor. Library,1977 Trade, Employment, and Adjustment Charles S. Pearson,Gerry Salembier,1983 The Role of Scale in Canada/U.S. Productivity Differences in the Manufacturing Sector, 1970-1979 John Russel Baldwin,Paul K. Gorecki,Royal Commission on the Economic Union and Development Prospects for Canada,1986 Understanding the reason for the productivity differences between Canadian and U S manufacturing industries is important if a sound industrial strategy is to be followed in the next decade This is particularly the case if Canada implements its policy of closer economic ties with the United States either in the form of the previous Trudeau Administration s sectoral free trade approach or the present Mulroney Administration s attempt to enhance access of Canadian goods to the United States Environment, Transportation, and Housing Alex C. Michalos,2012-12-06 For readers who intend to read this volume without reading the first some introductory remarks are in order about the scope of the work and the strategy used in all five volumes to measure the quality of life In the first chapter of Volume I I reviewed the relevant recent literature on social indicators and social reporting and explained all the general difficulties involved in such work It would be redundant to repeat that discussion here but there are some fundamental points that are worth mentioning Readers who find this account too brief should consult the longer discussion The basic question that will be answered in this work is this Is there a difference in the quality of life in Canada and the United States of America and if so in which country is it better Alternatively one could put the question thus If one individual were randomly selected out of Canada and another out of the United States would there be important qualitative differences and if so which one would probably be better off To simplify matters I often use the terms Canadian and American as abbreviations for a randomly selected resident of Canada or the United States respectively Labor Literature ,1978 The Canadian Journal of Economics ,2000 A general interest journal in economics North American Social Report Alex C.
